The SPEAKER. Spectators in the rear of the hall will refrain from conversation and the Sergeant-at-Arms will expel anyone violating this order.

Mr. RICHARDS. This measure does not change the penalty for the violation of the law of 1901. Mr. Speaker, the maximum penalty for the violation of the present law, if it is enacted into law, is $1000 fine and twelve months in prison, so that it seems to me, Mr. Speaker, the retailer could not afford to take the chances of violating this law in order to sell at the most five pounds of butter. Now, the largest package that this bill permits to be sold at one time, Mr. Speaker, is five pounds, so that surely no reasonable business man would violate a law with such a penalty for the profits on the sale of one five-pound package of butter. He could not afford it. On page four of the bill, beginning with line sixty-five—and I will not attempt to read that, because I have already described it, but the members can then in a minute see the provisions of this bill.

Now, Mr. Speaker, there is not much more than I can say at this time in favor of this bill. I only desire at this time to explain to the members what this measure seeks to do. It seeks only to regulate the sale of oleomargarine. It seeks to impose a penalty for violation and seeks to place it in the condition and in the position, not as it was previous to 1901, when people could be deceived in the purchase of this article, but it seeks to place it in the position where the public cannot, or will not, at least, in my opinion, be deceived. I think it is a fair, honest bill and really should receive the favorable consideration of the members of this House.

Mr. McDERMOTT. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Richards, has told you that this is a poor man's butter.

Mr. RICHARDS. I have not, Mr. Speaker, and I object to that kind of language being used. I have not used that term.

Mr. McDERMOTT. Mr. Speaker, he may not have used that term, but he has tried to impress on this House the same idea. I say, Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen, I am a representative of working people and I am proud of it. I am here to defend their cause to the best of my ability, now and at all times during this session. I say there is a deception in this bill; there is a cloak on this bill that seeks to fool the average man, and especially a great many people I am here to represent; the ones who are at a disadvantage to read and write, both male and female sex. Those are the ones that this bill takes advantage of. If this bill becomes a law, the people that are behind this act, that is, the beef trust, will have put in their hands another weapon to lick the working people of this State. When you make a market for this product, they will be like the floor trust about fifteen years ago. They will tie the product up for a few days and put up the price and then say, "It is the scarcity of the commodity." Now, I say to this House, this is a treacherous bill, and I say in the eyes of every fair man, that this bill should be licked. I say it is not intended to help the poor man. I say it is intended to put a hardship on him.

Mr. GRABE. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Allegheny has stated to this House that conditions have changed since 1901. Since then this bill has been before the House continually, protecting or eliminating the coloring of oleomargarine. We admit that conditions have changed since 1901 in reference to the price of butter, but I am going to say to this House, it is not to the limit that you are going to strike a blow at this great agricultural interest which is now before the people. The agricultural interests need encouragement and not a blow to discourage.

The day has come when agricultural interests must be encouraged just as well as corporate institutions needed encouragement at one time. We have legislated years ago to encourage men of money to invest in industrial institutions. These men have invested their money and this State has become second on the map for industrial institutions and that is one of the causes of farm products being where they are now. The agricultural interests have been discouraged and the people are drifting away from the farm. The greatest problem before the American people today is the problem of farm help. I can take you all over the State of Pennsylvania and I can take you to men where with an acreage of sixty to two hundred acres of land they are physically past doing day's labor. They are toiling on that farm with probably a boy or some one that has been disabled and cannot work in the factories as they did at one time. That is one of the causes that has brought conditions as they exist today. Farm labor, we cannot get it. It is the greatest problem the farmer has to contend with today. I can produce on my farm ten times what I am producing now if I can get the help. For three months I have been trying to get an extra man on my farm. I only received word the other day that we at last have got a man. I have had one man doing the work of two men with two teams. Those are the conditions we are confronted with. These are the conditions that have been brought about by this continual increase from the country to the city. The inducements in the cities have been greater than those in the country and agriculture is practically at a stand still in the State of Pennsylvania. Vast interests are lying idle for the want of help. Are you going to strike at this great agricultural interest, the greatest of them all, which not only produces the butter and milk, but which produces back into your soil the fertility that we cannot raise any products unless we have that fertility. Gentlemen, if you can vote for this bill today, you are simply increasing your cost of living. There is no other way out, because you are taking away that fertility that we cannot get along without. It is the cow that produces the potatoes, the corn, the hay crop and every other crop that is today raised on the farm. Gentlemen, this is a measure that needs careful consideration. If you ever expect to decrease the cost of living, do not strike at the agricultural interests. Gentlemen, personally it don't hurt me. I don't expect to do very much farming personally, but I tell you gentlemen I have the highest interest in my people at home. There are many of us that are coming on that need our legislation. This bill I want to say to you strikes at the working people. It strikes every consumer that earns his bread by the sweat of his brow. Gentlemen, give us a fair condition. Don't take away the fertility of the soil which you and I depend on.

Mr. ULERICH. Mr. Speaker, I do not intend to make an address on this subject, but I want to say this, that I believe that the idea that the farmers have that this measure will interfere with their business, is largely a matter of imagination. I come from a county that is largely a farming community—well just about equally divided between the industries and the farming industry. Last session when this measure was up for discussion, I had but one protest against it, and that from a woman who did not run a dairy or a farm and I had numerous petitions and requests that this measure be passed, not only from the men interested in industry, but men interested in farming, and this session of the Legislature, I have had the same requests from farmers and from men who are laborers. I have not had one protest against it by the farmers or anybody else. Now gentlemen, it seems to me that if this measure was as important as it is said, so far as the farmers are concerned, we certainly would have some protests from the granges and from the dairy interests in our county, but we are here today from a large rural community, representing large farming interests and representing large dairy interests, and every member of our delegation is for this measure.

Mr. GRABE. Mr. Speaker, I hold in my hand requests from my constituents, three or four hundred of them that represent agricultural interests, protesting against this measure. This measure is nothing but a wolf clothed in lambs clothing. That is all it is. It is not a measure at all to protect the working people; nor is it a measure to protect the farmer. Why, if it does not add anything to the quality do they want to color it and sell it as butter? Why do they insist on it?

Mr. McNICHOL. Mr. Speaker, those of us who were members of this House two years ago will recall the treatment that this bill received at that time. If my memory serves me aright, the opposition to the bill in this House was so great that when the bill was proposed for second reading, and the consent of the House asked, it was almost unanimously repudiated. To my mind there has been no particular change in the two years that would warrant a change in the sentiment of this House. The purpose of this bill, to my mind, permitting the coloring of an article that is not butter, to resemble butter, is for but one purpose and that purpose the imposition of a fraud upon an unsuspecting public. People say the coloring matter does the article no harm; it makes it more inviting to the user. A man, to my mind, who desires to use oleomargarine and has cultivated an appetite for it, will use it whether it is colored or not and when they color the oleomargarine it is for the purpose of substituting it for butter and charging the same price for the oleomargarine that they now do for butter.

During the hearing in the Senate, before the sub-committee to consider the Cold Storage Bill, I talked to a man who is extensively engaged in the manufacture and sale of oleomargarine and he told me that the great trouble that they had with the oleomargarine was with the dealer, the retailer. He said that they would remove the covering and sell it for butter. Now if you permit the substitution of this coloring matter, to have the oleomargarine resemble butter you place the unsuspecting public at a disadvantage and subject to the unscrupulous dealer or retailer who would sell his product of oleomargarine as butter and get the same price for it.

Now, Gentlemen of the House, there is absolutely no reason why this bill should pass. There is absolutely no reason why a change in sentiment in this House should occur in two years from that unanimous opposition almost that caused us to withhold our consent. The men who have made an investigation know that it is the interests in Chicago that are asking this House to pass this bill, and for the same reason that we repudiated it two years ago, let us do it today, and not place at a disadvantage the working man, or the poor man who is compelled through necessity to buy this substitution. Let us make it impossible for the imposition to be practiced upon him. When he pays his price for oleomargarine, let it be oleomargarine that he gets; but don't permit them to allow a substitution and charge him the same price that he would be compelled to pay for butter.

Mr. SHOWALTER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Pittsburgh, (Mr. Richards).

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be interrogated.

Mr. RICHARDS. Mr. Speaker, certainly.

Mr. SHOWALTER. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman from Pittsburgh whether the price of oleo is uniform throughout the year?

Mr. RICHARDS. Mr. Speaker, there is very little fluctuation in the price of oleomargarine. It depends a good deal on the amount of milk and cream used in the manufacture of oleomargarine. The price, I dare say, would not vary more than two or three cents a pound perhaps; while the price of farm butter various from twenty to twenty-five cents a pound in the year.

Mr. SHOWALTER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to ask the gentleman whether the coloring matter used in the oleomargerine would improve the taste.

Mr. RICHARDS. It would in so far as it would improve the palatability of the article.

Mr. SHOWALTER. Mr. Speaker, the other day I had occasion to go into a grocery store in this town and inquire how the price of oleomargerine fluctuated during the year. The grocery store is located down here by the Busy Bee restaurant and the clerk told me that the price varied from 12 to 15 cents; in other words, the price of oleomargerine was governed to a large extent according to the price of butter. It is my opinion that if you are going to pass this act you are going to enlarge the room for imposition; you are going to make the possibility greater to bring deception upon the people. If the price of oleo to a certain extent depends upon the price of butter, eventually the oleo will be sold in such great quantities that it will not be profitable for the dairymen of this State to maintain their dairies and the dairies will go out of existence, and after a while you will have no dairies to compete with this oleomargerine. I say if there is no good reason for passing this law, we should not pass it. Gentlemen we are striking at the roots of a great industry of the State of Pennsylvania, if we pass this law for the oleo manufacturer. Let us vote it down.

Mr. McALISTER. Mr. Speaker, any law that would meet with the approval and be acceptable alike to all the people would be too good to be true and too ambiguous in its promises to be of benefit to any one. It matters not how meritorious and just a measure may be there will always be some faction, some interest or person to interpose objections and in a very large majority of the instances these objections will be prompted entirely by selffish and personal motives. It would appear that the bill now under consideration is no exception to the rule. My personal interest in this bill is neither more nor less than that which would be the interest of every citizen of this Commonwealth, the general welfare. I am in favor of this bill because I believe it to be a wise and just one; a measure that will impose no hardship and which will be a great benefit to the people at large. That there is a necessity as well as an emphatic and persistent demand for some legislation, power or means which will tend to regulate and reduce the cost of living; no person who is at all familiar with the industrial and economical conditions at this time will deny. Since 1893 the average cost of the principal articles of food in this country has increased approximately 100 per cent. It has been frequently stated and widely disseminated through the public press that the general unrest and dissatisfaction of the people so pronounced at this time is in part attributable to this enormous increase in the cost of the common necessities of life. The high cost of living is not alone a subject of common discussion and interest to all people, but in thousands of the homes in this State the matter of providing food and clothing for the members of the family is to-day a serious problem, one that is taxing the resources of the most economical as they have never been taxed before. The President of the United States who but recently assumed the duties of office has convened the National Congress in extraordinary session for the specific purpose of considering this subject and endeavoring, if possible, to reduce the ever increasing burden of the people through a reduction of the tariff schedules affecting the necessities of life. While I do not believe in the remedy that is proposed at this time, I do believe in and am heartily in favor of any law of internal regulation or legislation that will help and tend to reduce the cost of the common necessities of life. The present law of the State of Pennsylvania governing the manufacture and sale of oleomargerine is nothing more or less than a prohibitory measure, a law which absolutely forbids and prohibits either the manufacture or distribution of the article with all its constituent parts which tend to make it a palatable wholesome and nutritious article of food, article that is sold in every civilized country on the face of the earth, and sold, so far as the ingredients are concerned under formulas and conditions which are identical with the provisions of this bill. I mean the right to color it the same as butter is colored, for notwithstanding any statement to the contrary, any person having any knowledge whatever of the butter business knows that fully sixty per cent. of the butter on the market to-day is artificially colored. Why the opponents of this bill should say that the manufacturers of oleomargarine should be prohibited from coloring their product and that any violation of such provision shall be deemed a misdemeanor and punishable by fine and imprisonment, then I cannot understand if it is such a grave offence for the manufacturer of oleomargarine to color his product, why the same practice is not equally as reprehensible in the practice on the part of the man who makes butter. Every man here who knows anything about the butter business, knows that the purpose of coloring butter is not to give it a greater value as a food product, but to give it a larger commercial value in the market through its apearance. The opponents of this bill claim further that if this measure should be come a law the farmers will suffer irreparable financial loss. In my opinion Mr. Speaker, that statement is not worthy of the serious consideration of this House, I want to say to you that the majority of the farmers in the State of Pennsylvania produce very little more butter than they actually consume themselves. There was consumed in the State of Pennsylvania last year nearly 160 millions of pounds of butter, and the farmers and the creameries of this State produced less than one-eighth of that amount. I am heartily in favor of lending the farmers of this State every legitimate and honorable assistance possible, but I am not in favor of discriminating against all the other people of the State in order that their personal interest may be served and protected. In the event of this bill becoming a law, those who prefer butter and have the means to pay for it, will continue as now to use the same just so long as they can get it. Mr. Speaker, I want to call the attention of this House to the fact that there are many hundreds, aye, many thousands of homes in this State where butter is a luxury, beyond the limited income of the providers of those homes. Shall we say to these people that you shall not buy this wholesome and necessary substitute except in such a form as will make it unpalatable and undesireable. If the article was deleterious or injurious to health there would then be some just reason for denying them this privilege, but I do not think there is a gentleman on the floor of this House who can truthfully make that objection. Why the people of this State or any other States should be denied the privilege to purchase and use an article of food recommended by some of the foremost pure food experts and advocates in the country, an article that has been demonstrated by chemical analysis and common use to be pure, wholesome and nutritious is a question that I trust the gentlemen of this House will consider carefully and answer wisely.

Mr. PEACHEY. Mr. Speaker, everybody is right from their own standpoint. The question is with reference to the standpoint, and I as a farmer from the farm expect to view this question from the standpoint of a farmer, and I offer no opology whatever to any one on the floor of this House for being a farmer, from the fact that I was born bread and buttered, not oleomargarine, on the farm. And I say further than that, with reference to the farmer, that I believe, and I have reason for saying that the majority of the member on the floor of this House had the common sense to select farm people or rural people for their parents. With reference to this bill, the question isn't really whether this product is good or bad, but the question is whether this bill is bad, and I believe that it is. I believe it is bad from the fact that it was conceived in iniquity, born in sin and fostered and nourished by the grossest misrepresentation imagineable, from first to finish and that is the position I take with reference to it. I am not going to say it isn't good. and I am not going to say it isn't pure. That is not the question. The question is whether it should be sold as oleomargarine or whether it should be sold as imitation butter, and this law, the very law in force to-day, does not disqualify nor does it say that you cannot sell it as oleomargarine. But the question is with reference to its color. Now, then, if you people have viewed this question from the standpoint of the poor man, and that is what you want to represent, why then will you color it and add ten cents to every pound you color as a United States tax, when if the butter is uncolored, you add only one-fourth of a cent. It seems to me that somebody is not quite as consistent as he might be, and so it is a question with reference to the coloring, and no farmer in the State objects to its being sold now as oleomargarine, but they do object to its being sold in imitation of butter. Now, Mr. Speaker, with reference to the Pittsburgh District allow me to say this: I take up here this babbling baby of yellow journalism sent from Pittsburgh, and what do I find? Here we have a picture and a map and it shows Pittsburgh as a great distributing market for oleomargarine. That is all right, but I am going to tell you this, and I know what I am talking about from the fact that I have known quite a number of men sent out by the Department of Agriculture, men looking after the oleomargarine question, and I tell you that they had more trouble with reference to the bad things done in the sale of oleomargarine in the Pittsburgh District than they had all over the State. That cannot be gainsaid because I have it from the lips of the men working in that Department for a number of years. And, Mr. Speaker, another thing. The Beef Trust has been mentioned, and back of the oleomargarine business is the beef trust. You remember anything with refernece to what was done a few years ago, that the Beef Trust came into the State of Pennsylvania and shipped in dressed beef and they came into competition not only with the little butcher, not only with the man in the town, and the man in the village, but with the men in the larger towns in selling beef, and through the machinations of that Beef Trust they crushed him. They said they would crush him, and they did crush him.

And now then, within the last ten years the amount of cattle in Pennsylvania has decreased twenty-five pre cent. and why? Because the Beef Trust has injured that business, and yet men will stand on the floor of this House and will tell you that oleomargarine and the manufacture of it and the selling of it will not in any way injure the agricultural interests. Yet they have done it, as you all know. You can talk about Beef Trust and carry it further; where are they working to-day? One billion four hundred million dollars in the beef industry of the United States; thirty millions operating along the line of manufacture of oleomargarine; twenty-six companies and where do they work to-day? Where are these millionaire nabobs? In the northwest? No., they are down in Argentina to-day with the oleomargarine business. We are competing not just with Pennsylvania, we are competing not just with the United States, but we are competing with far-off Argentina, and there is another thing that we are going to compete. It will not be long until we have beef coming from that section of the country that will be eaten in the United States and when that whole lot of this produce comes, it will come with the manufacture of oleomargarine as to-day it comes from far-off Argentina, and that is a fact. We will receive it from there but not alone oleomargarine but other products. Then, with reference to the farmers' industry. I cannot do any better than give you some information or to refer you to what is being done here in Pensylvania. Pennsylvania has been decreasing in its fertility for the last ten or fifteen years. I know what I am talking about. I have talked along the line of a new agriculture for fifteen years in every county in Pennsylvania, except one, and in some of them I have been five times and I am going to say another thing; I can go back to any one of them as soon as I like. I know what I am talking about and I am talking to you on this subject from a farmer's standpoint and I know my friend down there, I believe he hails from Westmoreland County, tells me that this is a question of the imagination. I am sorry for his imagination because, it is over-drawn. I am sorry because it has run wild; it is beyond his control. I say here that agriculture, our system of agriculture cannot be kept up well unless you have cattle on your hills, and I say again that the Beef Trust has driven the cattle industry from the State of Pennsylvania, largely, and the more oleomargarine you ship into Pennsylvania, the further it is going to drive that home Beef industry out and the more you drive the beef industry from Pennsylvania the more desolated farms you will have and the more desolated farmers and the poorer will be those farmers. Not only that; but I say you will see more farm lands not farmed. I want you to understand what I mean when I say that you will be subject to freshets. You will have in Pennsylvania a more unsafe place to live than ever before. You can explain that away. You cannot destroy that argument. You talk about the freshets; I tell you Pennsylvania today and the United States is paying for its sin,—the removal of its forests; the removal of the vegetable matter from the soil and that is the trouble and you have to go back and study that subject and you cannot talk on this subject intelligently or act upon it unless you take agriculture with it. The foundation of every industry is that no nation has lived as a world power that neglected its agriculture. And to-day if you vote in favor of this bill, you will legislate not in the interest of agriculture, but you will leigslate against it. You cannot serve God and Mammon. You cannot say "Good God and Good Devil" and serve both, but you have to be for one or for the other.

Spain, once tthe mistress of the sea and once the great world power, so long as she took care of her flocks and her vine covered hills and just so long as she did that, just so long she was properous and when she neglected that, down she went and she remained a world power no longer and is not a world power to-day. We have a bill coming up in this House in a few days, perhaps, that we are going to pass to send a few people over to Europe to study, not agriculture, but something else; I think it has something to do with the high cost of living that has been mentioned by my friend from Westmoreland County. I am glad he did mention it because I might have forgotten that. When you talk about the high cost of living, did you ever think with reference to the farmer, that there was a chain that reached from the farm to Wall Street and when that chain was weakened anywhere by failure in crops, Wall Street felt it. Did you ever think of it? That is the truth and with reference to this high cost of living. You know the great majority of people to-day want to charge that up to the farmer. I want to say another thing with reference to that: There is six billions dollars of products issued from the farms of the United States in a year. Do you know what they sell them for? That is the producer's price—six billions is the price. There is another price—the consumer's price and that is thirteen billion and it costs seven billions of dollars to market that produce and put that produce into the consumer's hands. In other words, the farmer to-day, and these are statistics, gets only thirty-five cents of a dollar on his products. Thirty-five cents of the consumer's dollar. Farmers, are you satisfied with that? I am not. I have been proclaiming against that for years, but as long as reason keeps her throne, I expect to continue along that line. Another thing that I want to say it this: when I talked to the members of this House on this bill and when I talked from the agricultural standpoint, I talked from the point of a butter maker. I have been a butter maker for a number of years and I am going to tell you further that if I was going to vote for this bill, I would be forever afterwards ashamed to look into the face of an honest cow. They tell me this: they say my constituents must be cared for. I have got to look after my constitutents and if there is any one under the sun I think a whole lot of, I think it is my constitutents. When you are voting on this bill, you are not voting just for Westmoreland. I mean imaginary Westmoreland County. You are not only voting for one county or only one part of the State, but you are voting for the State of Pennsylvania, and it does not hold there. You are also voting for the United States and so you dare not charge your constituents too colsely. That farmer man, and I know you all like him; I have heard you tell him so many times, and I know you have patted him on the back, whether you were a Progressive Republican or a Progressive Democrat or a Progressive Organization Republican; in all probability, you have patted them on the back and did pat them on the back last fall to your entire satisfaction. Now, that is all right, but look here, if the farmer was to stop three months, you would all get uneasy. If he was to stop six months, why you would get hungry. If he were to stop nine months, there would be a famine. If he were to stop a year, why you would not have any constituents. I want you to look after the agricultural interests. They are the best of all other industries. I want to tell you another thing; that is this; that no people are looking after the agricultural interests so well as are some of those European nations, and no people on the face of the earth to-day, agriculturally speaking, are more prosperous than those people, and America and the Unitted States can learn valuable lessons by studying the agricultural work of Europe. An soil, and in a few years they built up that country and ago, there was the little country of Denmark driven down, born down, by the ravages of war—cruel war it was, burdened with heavy debt, that country started out with a cow, pardon me for using the term, and their system of agriculture with which you cannot compete on American soil, and in a few years they buittl up that country and those agricultural interests so that to-day that nation is free from debt and it is one of the most prosperous governments in Europe. I am sorry that men on the floor of this House, believing in the interests of the farmers, will come up here and talk in favor of the manufacture and the sale of oleomargarine and that with their votes they are going to vote against the best of all they are interested. I want you to think of that one thought; you are not doing yourselves justice. I believe with reference to all legislation, every one in this House owes a responsibility to his constituents, and a greater responsibility to himself; and a man that exercises and considers the responsibility that he owes to himself is not going to vote against this bill. I hope to-day gentlemen, that this bill behind which is the Beef Trust, and that is one of the worst trusts that we have, the one that has used its machination in helping to destroy our agriculture; I hope and trust that the people here upon the floor of this House will vote this bill down so that in no language of legislative enactment can it be resurrected again.

RESOLUTION RECALLING HOUSE BILL NO. 442 FROM THE GOVERNOR.

The SPEAKER. Mr. James A. Dunn asks unanimous consent to offer a resolution at this time. The resolution recalls a bill from the Governor for the purpose of amendment. If the time is not conceded now, it may be too late and the Senate may adjourn and the bill may be lost. Therefore, if there is no objection, the resolution will be read by the Clerk.

The resolution was then read by the Clerk as follows:

In the House of Representatives, April 23, 1913.

Resolved, (if the Senate concur), That House Bill No. 442, entitled:

"An Act amending section one thousand four hundred twelve in article fourteen of an act approved the eighteenth day of May one thousand nine hundred and eleven, entitled 'An Act to establish a public school system in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania together with the provisions by which it shall be administered and prescribing penalties for the violation thereof providing revenue to establish and maintain the same and the method of collecting such revenue and repealing all laws general special or local or any parts thereof that are or may be inconsistent therewith' by requiring the free education in the public schools of children who are inmates of institutions for the care or training of orphans or other children"

be recalled from the Governor for the purpose of amendment.

The SPEAKER. Will the House agree to the resolution?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

CONTINUATION OF DISCUSSION ON HOUSE BILL NO. 620 (OLEOMARGARINE BILL).

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I will not detain you but two or three minutes. There are just one or two very important features about this bill that I would like to call the House's attention to. First, there is not an agriculturist in this House that don't feel the importance—or any who is thoroughly acquainted with the agricultural interests—there is not a member in this House that is in favor of this bill. There are in this House members representing the great interests of the City of Philadelphia, of the City of Pittsburgh, and of the great mining interests of the State of Pennsylvania, who, on a number of occasions, have come to the rural members of this House to plead your cause. We have taken you at your word. We have always supported your measures, when you showed a nearly unanimous front on a proposition. We have done the same with the City of Pittsburgh; we have always done the same with the great mining interests of the State. Why is it that the rural members of this House have always so consistently followed that rule? Simply because we believe you know better than we do what your wants are and what is the wisest thing to do. Take that home.

Now, before you come the representatives of the agricultural interests of this State, and there are no other important interests which represent as much capital, that give as much labor, that pay as much tax as this interest in this State. There is no interest in this State equals it. Will you listen to us? Do you think we do not know what is right and what is best for that great interest. Has the history of the agriculturists of this great United States been one of a selfish character? How often have they come into the Legislature of the State of Pennsylvania and asked for legislation of a special character for their particular interests? Never, in my knowledge in the last twenty-five years. I say to the members of this House that no Legislature that ever sat here since that great question has confronted the agriculturists of a fraud upon their product, has a legislative body of Pennsylvania refused to stand by them. Will you refuse it to-day? I know you will not. The Legislature of 1913 is not going to forget, is not going to be blinded by an argument that comes from whence? I am going to state some plain facts and they are going to hit somebody, but they don't in any way reflect against the author or men who are defending this bill in the House. No, there is no joker in this bill, is there? Let us see what it says in its title: "Hotels, restaurants, dining-rooms and boarding-houses" and so on, shall sell under certain regulations, and "to regulate the manufacture and sale of oleomargarine, butterine or other similar products not colored in imitation of yellow butter." If it is colored in imitation of butter, then it goes through under that title. Take the bill and read it. All those regulations apply to oleomargarine if it is colored, but in the title that which is colored none of these regulations apply. Whether it was intentional or not I don't know. I know it was not the intention of the author. Why? I understand that all those who are here defending this bill are not those who are interested in any way in the bill, but unfortunately they are men that are not acquainted with this great industry and do not know the effect of it. Why, as it was stated here by the member who said what is wrong if the agriculturists when on account of the product or the vegetation that he feeds to his animals, the color of the butter is a little lighter, if he puts some coloring matter in to bring it up to the standard and uniform color? If the agriculturist can do it, why cannot the oleomargarine manufacturer do it? Why? The question is so simple that it don't need to be answered. Because the only way that the unsuspecting public, when they go out and buy this product, can be protected is to prevent the man who tries to imitate butter from putting it in a form that you cannot detect it. Why, one of the unwritten principles of government is that which prevents a person from taking a penny and coloring it with silver. Is it wrong? Not within itself. There is nothing wrong about it. But suppose I begin slipping them around for dimes. Ah! That is the question that you want to consider. There is no reason for coloring oleomargarine, except to the manufacturer to get a fictitious price, and a profit to those who manufacture it. That is the only reason why they tell you that if it is not colored yellow, people will not eat it; it is not palatable. Now, I would like to know what member of this House who goes down to the candy store to buy some candy does not, when he wants to buy chocolate, buy the dirty brown, and the color cuts to figure whatever. He buys candy of another kind, he knows it by its color. If he wants a plate of ice cream and asks for strawberry and it is not pink, he will think that it don't taste like strawberry. Now, I have heard those who have been friends of this bill in the House very much abuse the dealer, and to my great surprise I find a dealer who don't on the floor resent the imputation. I resent the imputation. It is not the little dealer on the street corner that is the cause of this deception; it is the man who manufactures the article. I know it from its very inception. The first manufacturer was in the City of Philadelphia. They packed it in tubs and they branded it butter and they imitated the color of butter and it was sold over the State until the agriculturists came to the Legislature and asked them to be stopped, and the first act placed heavy penalties similar to the provisions contained in this bill to protect the public, and we tried year after year, by regulation and by brands to be put on, stamps on the boxes, language on the wrappers, but each and every time we found the manufacturers were still making it yellow, and they were making it yellow to deceive the public, and for no other reason, and at last, in 1901, we succeeded in so convincing the Legislature that there was only one way to protect the public, if you are in earnest, if this Legislature meant to be honest, and in 1901 they satisfied themselves there was only one way to protect the public. And what did they ask for? They simply asked that they shall not imitate the color of the agriculturist's product, and it has been effective. Why, it is almost silly; it is foolish to think that those who are interested in the manufacture and sale of this product should come into this House and tell you that it is not because we can sell more that we want this yellow color. Why, men do not make any effort in life unless they can see some benefit flowing therefrom, do they? Not in the commercial life. Of course, legislators never stoop so low. But in the commercial life each man is striving to make some money, and he takes that course that will promise to do that, will make the greatest amount of money in the easiest way. That is an undenied and unquestioned fact, in this broad land of ours, which says to the man who makes a particular article, that you shall have the right to protect it by a trade-mark. No man would ask to have that taken from the statute books. What is it put on there for? So that he who excels in the manufacture of any particular article will not be imposed on by the party who makes an inferior one. That is all the agriculturist asks. He would take no other course. He would not ask for the yellow color to protect him if some other method were better. They have driven the agriculturist from pillar to post by imposition, until he has taken his last stand: "Protect us in our color and we will ask no more." It is no favor that the agriculturist is asking of this Legislature; no favor, common justice, that is all. Honesty between man and man; that which no man on the floor of this House will not ask for himself. I only want to say to the members from the great City of Pittsburgh: You are mistaken when you say that your people are asking for this legislation. You are mistaking the voice of the oleomargarine manufacturers for the voice of the people. If the people had stopped to consider that there is only one way that they can possibly be gulled out of their money; it is by deception; but I know only too well as a citizen that they can deceive us. Are you going to vote to deceive your people? Are you going to vote for a measure that means that instead of buying this product whose price is known in the market, which can be sold at a fair profit at twenty-two cents a pound—I am surprised beyond measure that my friend from Pittsburgh should undertake to tell you that the difference in the price of the milk that was used to churn the oleomargarine oil made a matter of two or three a pound. I say that if he knows no more about the effects of this bill and the effects of the bill upon his people then indeed he is going blind. The truth of the matter is that they follow the price of butter and they imitate the color of butter, and you know it. I know it, and every sensible man knows it. I do not think that when the members who represent the great City of Pittsburgh, the members who represent the great City of Philadelphia, and those who represent the great mining interests of this State come here and present a case that is as plain as the noonday sun, that you are not going to heed and take our word upon it. Perhaps you will do it. You ought to do it. It is the right thing for the great agricultural interests of this State.

Mr. WALTON. Mr. Speaker, I move the previous question.

The motion was seconded by Messrs. Lenker, Neel, Whitaker, Rockwell, Lorenzo Smith, Watson, Heyburn, McAleer, Wiltbank, Gramley, Charles A. Shaffer, Herman, Newton, Latshaw, J. H. Wilson, Burnett, Jackson, Savacool, Matt, Metzenbacher, Ulman, Barner, Snavely and others.

On the question,

Shall the main question now be put.

It was agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

Mr. JAMES J. CAMPBELL. Mr. Speaker, this is the bill known as the Parkway Bill, about which there has been a great deal of newspaper criticism and it is a bill relative to which Judge Sulzberger rendered a decision a few weeks ago, stating that Philadelphia should not go into the real estate business. It is an act to amend the Act of June 8th, 1907, giving Philadelphia the right to condemn property for parkway purposes, but does not give them the right to take individual properties and resell them. I come from Philadelphia and desire Philadelphia beautified just as much as any other man that comes from that city, but I do not want Philadelphia to become beautiful or be beautified at the expense of the individual; therefore, Mr. Speaker, I ask the members of this House to vote in favor of this bill.

Mr. S. B. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, this bill is one which is designed to do a great deal of injury not only to the City of Philadelphia, but to every city in this Commonwealth, which desires to undertake large improvements in the way of parks and parkways. Philadelphia has invested already over four millions of dollars and has entered into a work which will involve the expenditure of millions of dollars more, upon the faith of the Act of 1907, which it is the desire of this bill to modify. Briefly speaking, the Act of 1907 gives the power to cities, when they are constructing parkways or boulevards, to condemn two hundred feet on each side of the line of way and sell that condemned land under restrictions which it desires to place upon it and in that way they have technically control of the whole line of parkway and the kind of buildings and improvements which will be placed upon it. Not only that, but when the city makes a great improvement of that kind, it naturally raises the real estate values on each side of the way. Now the old-fashioned way was to allow the real estate speculators or private owners to absorb the whole profit which was made by the improvements; but our European cousins have discovered a better way and in making improvements in Paris. Berlin and London they have been entirely financed by the extra value which the city has been enabled to gather through the condemnation of the land alongside and through the selling. Now after Philadelphia, on its parkway, had undertaken to do this thing on the faith of the Act of 1907, here comes this bill which has for its purpose the practical repeal of some of the most beneficial features of the Act of 1907. This act pretends to believe that by the repeal of the right of the city to condemn and giving it the right to simply impose restrictions, all the beneficial portions of the act will be retained, but this is a gross and serious mistake.

It is the hope that all along the great boulevard in Philadelphia will rise magnificient buildings, and magnificient buildings cannot be placed upon twenty foot properties, and unless some way can be evolved by which these property lines can be wiped out and sold in larger plots of ground, then we will have in the City of Philadelphia the great boulevard extending from City Hall to Fairmount Park lined with small insignificant buildings, the properties being held by the parties in the hope that the city will buy at the exorbitant prices asked. This whole thing arises from the disappointment of one particular property owner, who was unable to get a cent more than he deserved for his property, and that was the real value of the property. He was unable to get the exorbitant price for the property which he had hoped to realize. The act of 1907 has been through the Common Pleas Courts of Philadelphia and it has been determined that it is constitutional, and that its principles are correct. But because the method that the City of Philadelphia pursued in this particular condemnation was not proper, the whole subject has been clarified, and the particular property owners have won their point in that respect, and it would be a most absurd proceeding for this legislature to begin all over again and make this serious change. This is not only of interest to Philadelphia, but to other cities as well. I have had letters from other cities, Easton, York and Meadville, and I have heard from other directions also. This is a matter of statewide importance, and I hope that the members will give it their careful consideration. This bill ought to be defeated

Mr. O'NEILL. Mr. Speaker, It is not true that this amendment of the Act of June 7, 1907 will interfere with or retard the protection, beautification or completion of the Parkway, which has been lying dormant for eight or nine years but it will prevent any such real estate deals as the one lately attempted by the City of Philadelphia, whereby the city took the land from one small corporation by exercise of the right of eminent domain and then attempted to sell the same to a large corporation, for ninety per cent of its cost to the city. The Courts refused to sanction the scheme but it seems from the decision that if councils had passed an ordinance laying down restrictions for the protection of the whole parkway the transaction might have been allowed. Therefore the deal may yet go through. Gentlemen, the reason I am for this bill is because after his right to live comes a man's right to possess the property that his industry has brought to him and while the public welfare may authorize its condemnation and compensation, nevertheless I think it the heighth of injustice and absolutely indefensible that the City of Philadelphia or any city in this Commonwealth can forcibly take one man's property from him for the sole purpose of transferring it to another, that other a corporation rich beyond count, in order to make the big corporation's property more available for the purposes for which it desired to use it. There was no argument on the ground that the transaction was a profitable real estate deal for the City since the favored corporation, the Bell Telephone Company pays no taxes and the City would certainly be the loser. Gentlemen, I want to say that the parkway passes through the centre of my ward and the people are in favor of it, but there is not a soul that believes the City should have the power to take forcibly one man's land for the purpose of transferring to another. I do hope you gentlemen will vote for this bill, because it will in a way stop these real estate deals. If the Bell Telephone Company wants a man's property—let them pay for it. This bill will prevent a man forcibly taking the property of a small corporation and sell it to another. I think this bill ought to pass.

Mr. REESE. Mr. Speaker, this bill not only affects Philadelphia, but it affects other municipalities. I do not think it is fair that the City of Philadelphia should go into the real estate business. In the first place, it was all right so long as the Bell Telephone Company could buy it, and as the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. S. B. Scott, has said about twenty foot law, it was all right at that time if the Bell Telephone Company could put through a deal. I think the members of this House ought to consider their own homes. Under this act as it was, any municipality could take one man's property forcibly, and turn it over to another and this bill prohibits and stops them from doing that. Therefore, I ask the members of this House to support this bill.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to the insertion of the amendments?

BILL RECOMMITTED.

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be recommitted to the Committee on Judiciary General.

Mr. MATT. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

Mr. HEIDINGER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Crawford.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Crawford, Mr. Humes, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, yes, sir.

Mr. HEIDINGER. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman from Crawford give his reasons for moving to recommit this bill?

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, I understand this bill has for its purpose the abolition of the distinction between a guarantor and a surety. I think it is pretty far-reaching bill and deserves very careful consideration. At a recent meeting of the Committee on Judiciary General the matter came up for some discussion and it was the sense of the committee, and I think all of the members were present at that time, that the bill ought to be recommitted in order that it might be given a little further consideration and a little investigation to see how far-reaching it was in its effect.

Mr. HEIDINGER. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman is substantially correct in his statement. The bill was introduced by Senator McIlhenny, at the request of Judge Sulzburger and George Wharton Pepper of the Philadelphia bar, and the purpose intended is so that a grantor may be sued in accordance with the provisions of the bill. The purpose of the bill is plain, and I do not see what practical purpose can be gained by recommitting it.

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, I have made this motion at the instance of the members of the Committee on Judiciary General, who were present when the matter was discussed at a meeting subsequent to the time the bill was reported out. It is a very important bill, a bill that is technical in its nature, and that deserves the careful consideration of the attorneys of the House, because it very largely affects the practice of the courts, and I think this motion should prevail in order that we may determine just how far-reaching it may be.

On the question recurring,

Will the Hosue agree to the motion?

It was agreed to.

RECESS.

The SPEAKER. The hour of one o'clock having arrived, the House will take a recess until three o'clock this afternoon.

AFTER RECESS.

The House reconvened at three o'clock P. M.

The SPEAKER (George E. Alter) in the Chair.

BILLS ON TIHRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1007, entitled:

An Act authorizing the appointment of two delegates from Pennsylvania as members of a commission to investigate European systems of rural credits and report thereon and making an appropriation therefor

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, The Southern Commercial Congress held in Nashville, Tenn., in April 1912, suggested that each state send delegates, and this bill authorizes their appointment, one a person well versed in agricultural and the other person well versed in financial matters, to represent Pennsylvania at the conference soon to be held in Rome looking to an investigation of the system of agricultural finance and rural credits so popular at the present time in European countries, to the end that our constituents engaged in agricultural pursuits may secure cheaper money and easier credits on their crops and other property.

Mr. McDERMOTT. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Tioga, Mr. Williams, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, I will.

Mr. McDERMOTT. Mr. Speaker, did I understand the gentleman to say that this commission would investigate the agricultural question on this trip to Europe?

Mr. WILLIAMS. The idea is to look into the agricultural finances and rural credits in the European countries.

Mr. McDERMOTT. Mr. Speaker, do you not think that that would be an acknowledgement that we do not know how to manage our financial affairs.

Mr. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, practically every other State in the Union has already chosen its delegates, and it is for Pennsylvania to say whether it wants delegates to go. It is up to this Legislature.

Mr. McDERMOTT. Mr. Speaker, I think if we had guaranteed banks in the states and rural banks in the smaller towns scattered across the state that would be the key to the situation, without going to Italy or the other European countries for information, and I think this bill ought to be licked.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—107.

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE.

Mr. WATSON. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up from page 35 of today's calendar bills on final passage postponed, House Bill No. 937.

Agreeably to order,

The House resumed the consideration on final passage of H. R. bill No. 937, entitled:

An Act to establish a Bureau of Housing for the Sanitary Inspection and control of tenement boarding and lodging houses defining its powers and duties and providing certain penalties

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. WATSON. Mr. Speaker, This bill was called on third reading Thursday night a week ago when there were ninety-five votes in favor of it, twenty-eight against it and ninety-three absent. It is an important bill and is in the interest of bettering the condition of employees and others by preventing the evil of over-crowding tenament houses and also to prevent the evil results of such conditions on the occupants and their off-spring. It is intended to delegate additional authority to the local Boards of Health to enable them to enforce existing laws in locations of the Bituminous coal fields and elsewhere. In the mining regions where mines are developed in the rural district, towns grow up at the rate of a thousand and upwards per year. Seventy-five per cent of the inhabitants are foreign immigrants who have no regard for health laws or sanitation. You will find as many as fifteen occupying shacks and shanties with one and two rooms. There is no sewerage system or drainage in these towns, and the water becomes contaminated, and as a result, I have known epidemics of Typhoid Fever where there would be sixty cases at one time in a town of 1500 inhabitants. Other epidemics are of a frequent occurrence. It is not a question of caring for the adults, as much as it is the little children, who in many instances are the victims of these conditions. This act will enable the local Boards of Health and Sanitation to regulate these conditions and compel them to observe the requirements of the law, and if these people are to remain with us and eventually become citizens, we cannot begin too soon to teach them to observe the customs of civilization. There are other locations where these same conditions exist, where such conditions could be looked after and improved, but they are not. This act if it becomes a law will compel them to do so. The bill only applies to where there is filth, ignorance and crime. Filth and ignorance by a singular sequence go hand in hand with crime and produce a race of degenerates, who fill our alms houses, our hospitals and our prisons. The law would not in any way effect the law abiding tenament owner or tenant where families, mothers and children live like civilized human beings. Such homes develop intelligent, useful American Citizens. This is the object of the bill, it requires more work by the local Boards of Health and Sanitation with additional power to enforce the law, and it will eventually save millions of dollars of money now expended to support the degenerate and criminal class, who are the out-growth of life in the slums.

With this explanation I trust the bill will pass unanimonsly. In other words, I trust that there is not a single member of this House who wants to register his vote against an effort to better the conditions of this class and especially take care of the babies and little children, who by no fault of their own are doomed to this character of life, and who never knew the blessings of a well regulated happy home. They grow up creatures who never knew the sweet sentiment of the sweetest song ever composed so dear to us all, "Home , home sweet, sweet home, be it ever so humble there is no place like home."

I appeal to you to give these little creatures a chance to escape from these degrading conditions cast upon them by changing the hovel into a clean, bright, happy home, in order that they in after years may think of their happy childhood and join our children in that sweet song.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1460, entitled:

An Act fixing the salary and providing for the expenses of township commissioners of townships of the first class of this Commonwealth

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. MARTIN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the sponsor of this bill.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Allen, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I will.

Mr. MARTIN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the sponsor of this bill in regard to the duties of the township commissioners. I notice that they are to be paid sixty dollars per annum. I wish the gentleman would define the duties of the township commissioners.

Mr. ALLEN. The statute does that, Mr. Speaker. This bill does not impose any additional duties. The township commissioners are presumed, in townships, to attend to the business of the township, and the rule is that they meet once a month, twelve times a year, and this bill simply provides that the township commissioners shall receive for these regular meetings the sum of five dollars per meeting; and if they do not attend the meetings they do not receive anything. The bill is for this purpose: in many of the townships the men who know the most about the township affairs cannot afford to give his time to attending these meetings, and he cannot afford to become a township commissioner, even though the people desire him to be one. It requires that he give twelve days of his time each year devoted to the interests of the township, and in the interest of the township business.

Mr. MARTIN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to further interrogate the gentleman. Do the township commissioners at this time receive any renumeration.

Mr. ALLEN. No. They may receive their actual expenses incurred in the performance of township business.

Mr. MARTIN. Mr. Speaker, I do not know what the duties are of the township commissioners, and would like to know what they do. I simply ask for that information.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, the township commissioners in townships of the first class have the same duties as the supervisors in townships of the second class. They perform all the business relating to townships, all the buying of supplies necessary for such things as come under the province of the commissioner, they let such contracts as the township has to let, they do the same business in relation to the township as the county commissioners do in relation to the county.

The question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Mr. McALEER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up from page 24 of today's calendar, bills on third reading postponed, House Bill No. 671.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 671, entitled:

An Act regulating the custody of records of criminals during trial of cases

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

BILL DROPPED FROM CALENDAR.

Mr. McALEER. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be dropped from the calendar.

Mr. E. E. JONES. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to and it was so ordered.

BILLS ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1708, entitled:

An Act relating to the payment of costs in all cases wherein the judgment order sentence or decree of a court is reversed by an appellate court with or without a venire or order as to costs

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. BURNETT. Mr. Speaker, this is an act relating to the payment of costs in all cases wherein the judgment, order, sentence or decree of court is reversed when appellant with or without order has paid costs. This is only making provision for the cost so it may be collected more easily.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order.

The House proceeded to the consideration on third reading of H. R. bill No. 1078 (Senate No. 22), entitled:

An Act to avoid delay in the administration of justice by fixing a time within which decisions in certain questions and matters shall be rendered by judges and requiring certificates from judges before their salaries shall be paid

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That whenever any question or matter in law or in equity shall be submitted to or argued before any court or judge of record of this Commonwealth it shall be the duty of such court or judge to render a decision on such question or matter within nine months after such submission or argument unless the time be extended in writing signed by all parties in interest or by their respective counsel

Section 2 It shall be unlawful for the Auditor General to draw a warrant in payment of the salary of any law judge of this Commonwealth unless the said judge shall have certified to the Auditor General that this act has been fully complied with during the time covered by such warrant and that such judge has not at the time of giving such certificates any question or matter under consideration or advisement contrary to the requirements of this act

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. J. R. K. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker. I move that further consideration of this bill be postponed for the present.

Mr. G. A. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was not agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be recommitted to the Committee on Judiciary General.

Mr. G. A. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was not agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. E. G. M. KUHNS. Mr. Speaker, I wish that some of the advocates of this bill in the House would explain the necessity for this bill.

Mr. SCHUCK. Mr. Speaker, I am not entirely familiar with it, but I know about the provisions as talked about by our Senator from Westmoreland and those who are interested in the bill. As I understand it, the provisions are that a judge on the bench shall not get in arrears in rendering his decisions more than nine months. In case he does, he shall not draw his salary until he can certify that his work is up to that point. Now that may look drastic to you on the face of it. In case both sides of the case have a hearing or any meeting on this case, or any conference, that again renews the length of time for the decision of the judge. There is fairness about it, that the attorneys on both sides of the case may call a hearing at any time. As it is now, a case can go on for an unlimited time; there is no recourse for either side of the case to have the decision made.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

NAYS—3

Baldwin, G. A.,	Carson,	Carter,

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk return the same to the Senate with information that the House has passed the same without amendment.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on final passage of H. R. bill No. 1294, entitled:

A supplement to an act entitled "An Act defining and prohibiting pandering providing penalties for violation hereof and regulating the competency of certain evidence at the trial thereof" approved the seventh day of June one thousand nine hundred and eleven

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the sponsor of this bill.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Blair, Mr. Claycomb, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. CLAYCOMB. Mr. Speaker, I will.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman who is the sponsor of this bill what extended provisions are made in the proposed act from the provisions of the Pandering Act as it now stands at this time?

Mr. CLAYCOMB. Mr. Speaker, the bill as it now appears on the calendar amends the Act of 1911 and extends to all cases where a female is kept without her consent, or even voluntarily frequents or inhabits a house of prostitution, or if it is suspected she is there, the officer of the law is enabled to remove her, and also upon an affidavit presented to the court of quarter sessions, there can be issued a search warrant.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, under the present act, in a case of suspected pandering could not an officer have a writ issued by the court for the purpose of searching that house?

Mr. CLAYCOMB. Under the second section of the present act which is a felony, an officer could at present, but under the first he could not. It simply strengthens the first section of the act. It lends to the arm of the law for removal of females. Section two of the present act provides that because it is a felony and the officer can enter the house.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, under the present provisions of the law, the Courts do not have to be applied to for a search warrant if the house is suspected of harboring females.

Mr. CLAYCOMB. No, I take it that after there is reasonable evidence that the house is a house of prostitution, then upon the sworn facts being presented to the court, the writ may be issued, but not before.

The question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

NAYS—3.

Bass,	Keegan,	McDermott,

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of H. R. bill No. 1636, entitled:

An Act making it the duty of the recorders of deeds of the various counties of this Commonwealth to require the furnishing of affidavits that the consideration mentioned in deeds or other instruments of conveyance of real estate offered for record is the actual and true consideration therefor or if not what is the acutal and true consideration providing that such affidavits shall be sent to the authorities in the respective counties charged with the revision and equalization of the taxes on real estate therein and further providing that those making or furnishing false affidavits thereunder shall be guilty of perjury

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to insert an amendment at this time.

The SPEAKER. The amendment will be read by the Clerk.

The Clerk then read the amendment as follows:

Amend the title by adding after the word "counties" in line two the words "containing a population of 1,000,000 inhabitants or over."

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to the insertion of the amendment? Is there any objection? The Chair hears none, and the amendment will be inserted in accordance with the instructions of the House.

The bill as amended was then agreed to.

Ordered, That the bill as amended lie over for printing.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of H. R. bill No. 1473, entitled:

An Act to amend an act approved the tenth day of May one thousand eight hundred and eighty-one entitled "An Act making it a misdemeanor for any minor to knowingly and falsely represent himself to be of full age for the purpose of obtaining intoxicating liquors"

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

The county commissioners shall prepare and furnish to the election officers at said primaries such ballot boxes properly numbered for each election district lists of voters forms including forms of affidavits for voters challenged as to identity residence and bribery blanks return sheets blank books and other supplies as they are or hereafter may be required to furnish by law to said officers for use at elections and shall deliver them together with forms of affidavits for obtaining assistance in marking ballots required by this act all in the same manner as at elections The said supplies shall have printed upon them appropriate instructions and shall be in appropriate form for use at the primaries They shall also provide for the opening of the polling places and for the compensation of the owners thereof and shall see that they are in proper order and provided with voting booths as at elections

Section 12 The said primaries shall be conducted by the regular election boards duly elected under existing or future laws who shall receive the same compensation for their services as they receive at elections Inspectors of elections shall have the right to appoint clerks to assist them as at elections who shall receive the same compensation that clerks receive for such services at elections Vacancies on election boards shall be filled in the manner now provided by law Before entering upon their duties the election officers and clerks shall be sworn and execute written oaths as is now required by law

The polls shall be open between the hours of eight o'clock ante meridian and eight o'clock post meridian All persons licensed to sell liquors either at wholesale or retail or as bottlers shall be compelled to keep their places of business closed on said days for holding said primaries only between the hours of seven o'clock ante meridian and eight o'clock post meridian

Said primaries shall be conducted in conformity with the laws governing the conduct of elections in so far as the same are not modified by the provisions of this act or are not inconsistent with its terms Provided however That no elector shall be permitted to receive any assistance in marking his ballot except under the following conditions

If a voter by reason of physical disability is unable to mark his ballot he may be accompanied into the voting compartment by the judge of election who shall mark his ballot for him in accordance with his directions and who shall not disclose how he marked said ballot under any circumstances except when required to do so in a judicial proceeding The term "physical disability" shall be construed to mean disability arising from blindness or from such a degree of blindness as will prevent the voter from distinguishing the names printed upon the ballot or the loss of both hands or such total inability to use both hands as to incapacitate the voter from making a mark or such physical conditions as makes it impossible for him to enter the voting compartment without assistance The term "physical disability" shall not be construed to mean illiteracy or inability to understand the ballot It shall be the duty of the judge of election to grant or refuse to grant a voter the right to have assistance If in the opinion of the judge of election the voter shall be entitled to receive assistance in marking his ballot he shall before receiving such assistance be required by the judge of election to make affidavit in the following form "I do solemnly swear (or affirm) that I am unable to mark my ballot without assistance "because" and after the word "because" shall be left a blank space in which shall be written the specific disability which must be a physical disability within the meaning of this act The judge of election shall reduce said oath to writing certifying the same as correct and return it to the county commissioners with other papers required by law to be so returned The fact that a voter has received assistance and the name of the election officer or clerk who assisted him shall be noted against his name in the voting check list and the ballot check list

Section 13 The county commissioners shall keep an accurate account of the entire expense of holding such primaries including payment of watchers the preparation and delivery of supplies voting materials et cetera and the total amount shall be paid in the first instance by the county treasurer upon the order of the county commissioners As soon as convenient thereafter the county commissioners shall prepare an itemized statement of the amount so paid verified by oath and send the same accompanied by the receipted vouchers to the Auditor General who if he finds the same correct shall draw a warrant on the State Treasurer for the proper county for the amount so approved which shall be paid by the State Treasurer out the money in the State Treasury not otherwise appropriated

Section 14 The qualifications of electors entitled to vote at a fall primary shall be the same as the qualifications of electors entitled to vote at elections within the election district where the primary is held except that with respect to the payment of taxes it shall be sufficient if an elector shall have paid within two years before the next succeeding election a state and county tax which shall have been assessed at least one month before said election and on or before the day of the primary and in cases where registration is required on or before the registration day on which the elector registers Each elector shall prove his qualifications and his identity in the same manner in which electors in the election district in which he offers to vote are or hereafter may be required by law to prove their qualifications or indentity on election day and may be challenged as at elections

Section 15 The ballot boxes lists of voters (a copy of which shall be posted outside of the polling place) and other records shall be delivered into the custody of the officers who are or hereafter may be requird by law to keep similar records of elections

Upon the closing of the polls at any fall primary the election officers shall forthwith proceed to open the ballot boxes and take therefrom the ballots and first count the number of ballots cast and make a record thereof and then count the vote cast for the different persons named on the ballots and make a record thereof and when said count is finally completed they shall certify in due and proper form to the number of votes cast for each person They shall then place the ballots so counted and canvassed together with all stubs and unused ballots in an envelope or package to be furnished by the county commissioners and forthwith seal the same and they shall also place the returns of votes and the register of voters aforesaid and all affidavits made pursuant to the provisions of this act in another envelope also to be furnished by the county commissioners and forthwith seal the same Both of said envelopes and packages shall then be kept by the judge of election and shall at or before noon of the Tuesday following be deposited by him in person or by registered mail with the county commissioners who shall on the succeeding day at noon publicly commence the computation and canvassing of the returns and continue the same from day to day until completed and for that purpose to have the right to petition the Court of Common Pleas for the use of its processes to enforce the provisions of this act in relation to the returns of the election officers

All the ballots together with the stubs and unused ballots and all returns of votes registers of voters and affidavits returned to the county commissioners as aforesaid shall be carefully preserved by them for a period of at least one year .

Section 16 At any spring primary whereat any nomination for the office of judge of any court is to be made the election officers after counting the vote in the manner prescribed by law shall certify in due and proper form to the aggregate number of votes cast on all party ballots for each person for nomination to such office but shall not make any certificate or return showing in any manner what number of votes for such person was cast on the ballots of any specified party Except as by this act otherwise provided the vote for candidates for nomination for the office of judge of any court at a spring primary shall be returned and certified to the county commissioners by them computed canvassed returned and certified to the Secretary of the Commonwealth and by him tabulated computed and certified as in the case of the vote at such primary for the nomination of candidates for other State offices No party distinctions or classifications shall be made at any stage of the proceedings with respect to candidates for the office of judge of any court

Section 17 Upon the sworn petition of any ten qualified electors of any county setting forth that they believe fraud or error has been committed with respect to any fall primary in any election precinct division or district of said county the county commissioners shall open the envelopes or packages containing the ballots of such election precinct division or district and recount the votes It shall not be necessary for the petitioners to set forth in their petition or to establish the grounds of their belief that such fraud or error has been committed An appeal may be taken from any decision of the county commissioners in the matter aforesaid to the court of common pleas of the proper county whose duty it shall be forthwith to hear said appeal The court on said appeal shall have full power and authority to hear and determine all matters pertaining to any fraud or error committed in said election precinct division or district and to make such decree as right and justice shall require and in making such decree the court may reject any or all of the votes cast in said election precinct division or district

Section 18 The County Commissioners shall make the proper certification of returns of votes cast at any fall primary for the candidates for nomination for all offices of judge of any court to the Secretary of the Commonwealth who shall tabulate the same and shall certify to the County Commissioners of the respective counties the result of the computation of the vote at least twenty days prior to the date of the succeeding election

Section 19 The candidates for nomination at any spring primary for the office of judge of any court and the candidates for nomination at any fall primary for any office to be filled at the succeeding regular municipal election including the office of judge of any court equal in number to twice the number to be elected at the succeeding general or municipal election who shall have received at such primary the highest number of votes cast for nomination to the office for which they are candidates (or if the number of all the candidate voted for as aforesaid be not more than twice the number to be elected then all the candidates) shall be the nominees for such office and their names and none other except as hereinafter provided shall be printed as candidates for such respective offices upon the official ballots for use at such succeeding election as is now or may hereafter be required by law and shall be printed on such ballots in alphabetical order under the respective offices and without any designation of party or principle Provided That whenever at any primary any candidate for nomination to any of the aforesaid offices to which but one person is to be elected at the succeeding general or municipal election or whenever at any primary a number of the candidates for any one of the aforesaid offices equal to the number of persons to be elected to such office at the succeeding general or municipal election shall each receive more than one-half of all the votes cast for such office at such primary such candidate or candidates shall be the sole nominee or nominees for such office and his or their names and none other shall be printed as candidate or candidates for such office upon the official ballots for use at such succeeding election

In case of a tie the candidates receiving the tie vote shall unless such candidates shall by written agreement duly acknowledged and filed with the County Commissioners or the Secretary of the Commonwealth as the case may be otherwise determine such tie appear and cast lots before the County Commissioners or the Secretary of the Commonwealth as the case may be on the third Wednesday after the primary and the one to whom the lot shall fall shall be entitled to the nomination Provided in any case where the fact of a tie is not authoratatively determined until after the third Monday after the day of the primary the day for appearing and casting lots shall be the second day after the day on which the fact of such tie vote is authoratively determined If any candidate or candidates receiving a tie vote fail to appear before twelve o'clock noon on said day the County Commissioners or the Secretary of the Commonwealth as the case may be shall cast lots for him or them For the purpose of casting lots any candidate may appear in person or by proxy appointed in writing

Section 20 If after any primary and before the succeeding election any candidate nominated pursuant to the provisions of this act shall die or shall by virtue of any present or future law be disentitled to have his name printed on the ballot for the election a vacancy shall be deemed to exist which shall be filled by the otherwise unnominated and not so disentitled candidate next in rank with respect to the number of votes received at such primary provided he received votes not less in number than the number of signatures required by this act for a nomination petition for the office If after any primary and before the succeeding election there should not be any candidate whatever nominated living and entitled to have his name printed on the ballot for any office which is within the foregoing provisions of this act and which is to be filled at the succeeding election or not enough of such candidates for any such office to equal the number of persons to be elected thereto at the succeeding election other candidates may be nominated for such office with the same effect as though nominated at the primary by the filing of nomination petitions on behalf of and affidavits by such candidates in the manner and form and according to the directions hereinbefore provided in Sections six and seven of this act with respect to getting the name of a candidate for such office printed upon the ballot for the primary varied in so far as may be necessary to fit the different purpose Such nomination petitions and affidavits may nevertheless be filed at any time after the primary and before the succeeding election but as soon as enough of such after-primary nomination petitions shall have been filed to provide a number of candidates including any previously nominated and still remainig available equal to twice the number of persons to be elected to the office no more such petitions shall be received The Secretary of the Commonwealth shall immediately upon the filing of any such after-primary petition and its accompanying affidavit in proper form in his office forward to the County Commissioners of the county or counties whose electors are entitled to vote at the election for the office a written statement of the name residence and posoffice address of the candidate therein named as shown in his affidavit as well as the name of the office for which a candidate and shall at the same time notify the said candidate by mail that his name has been so certified to the County Commissioners As soon as any such substituted or additional candidate shall have been duly nominated as herein provided his name shall be used by the proper officers as though he had been nominated at th primary so far as time will allow and in case such after-primary nomination be filed with or transmitted to the County Commissioners after the ballots have been printed the said Commissioners shall prepare and distribute the ballots suitable slips of paper bearing the substituted or added name together with the title of the office and having adhesive paste upon the reverse side which shall be offered to each voter with the regular ballot and may be affixed thereto

Section 21 Whenever an office is to be filled at a regular or special election because of the prior happening of a vacancy in such office if such office is one within the foregoing provisions of this act that is to say is the office of judge or is an elective office regularly filled at the municipal election nominations of candidates for such election shall be made as follows

If such vacancy is to be filled at a regular election of the class at which such office might regularly be filled and if such vacancy happened not less than thirty days prior to the last day of filing nominations petitions for the office for the regular primary antecedent to such election nominations shall be made at the primary preceding such election in the same manner that candidates for the same office are nominated under the provisions of this act when there has been no antecedent vacancy occasioning the election

In all other cases within the purview of this section candidates for such office shall be nominated with the same effect as though nominated at a primary by the filing of nomination petitions on behalf of and affidavits by such candidates in the manner and form and according to the directions hereinbefore provided in Section six and seven of this act with respect to getting the name of a candidate for such office printed upon the ballot for the primary varied in so far as may be necessary to fit the different purposes Such nomination petitions and affidavits shall be filed the same length of time prior to the election as corresponding nomination petitions are required to be filed before a primary shall be filed in the same office and the same proceedings shall be had with respect thereto with relation to the election as herein provided with respect to a primary Provided however said nomination petitions shall not be deemed to be filed too late if filed within ten days after such vacancy happened

Section 22 At the head of every official ballot furnished for a general election at which any candidate for the office of judge is to be voted for there shall be printed immediately after the instructions now by law required to be printed thereon the following additional instructions in the same style and size of type to wit "A cross (X) in the party square in the first column does not carry a vote for judge To vote for judge mark a cross (X) opposite the name or the candidate desired"

In case a special election to fill a vacancy in an office within the provisions of this act is held with a general election the same additional instructions shall be used inserting therein however the name of the office to be voted for specially in place of the word "judge" if no judge is to be voted for or with a preceding word "or" after the word "judge" if a judge is to be voted for at such election The names of the candidate for such office shall be printed on the ballot in alphabetical order under the name of the office which shall be followed by the words "Special Election" and without any designation of party or principle

On the official ballots furnished for municipal elections there shall not be printed the name or appellation of any political party or principle and the instructions printed at the head of such ballots shall not include any directions for voting a party ticket Provided in case a special election to fill any office not within the provisions of this act is held with a municipal election the names of the candidates for such office accompanied by the names or political appellations of the parties or bodies of electors which nominated them may be printed on the ballot at a general election under the name of the office which shall be followed by the words "Special Election"

Section 23 Any candidate for nomination to be voted for at a primary under this act may at any time before four o'clock Post Meridian of the Wednesday next succeeding the last day fixed for filing nomination petitions for the office for which he is a candidate withdraw his name as a candidate by a request in writing signed by him and acknowledged before any officer authorized by law to take acknowledgments and filed with the Secretary of the Commonwealth if such candidate's nomination petition was filed with the Secretary of the Commonwealth and in all other cases with the county commissioners

The Secretary of the Commonwealth upon the filing of requests for withdrawal in the manner herein provided shall forthwith certify to the county commissioners of the proper county a correct list of candidates filing such requests

No candidate for any office within the provisions of this act nominated at or after a primary may withdraw his name as candidate for election

Section 24 Upon the petition of five or more citizens who are lawful voters of any election district setting forth that the appointment of overseers is a reasonable precaution to secure the purity and fairness of the election of any fall primary in said district it shall be the duty of the Court of Common Pleas of the proper county to appoint two overseers of election in said district who shall be entitled to remain within the polling place during the casting and counting of the ballots

Section 25 Each candidate shall be entitled to appoint one watcher at the primary in each election district in which such candidate is to be voted for who shall be a qualified elector of the county but need not be a resident of the district in which he is authorized to act as such watcher and who shall serve without compensation Each watcher shall be provided with a certificate from the county commissioners stating his name the district in which he is authorized to act and the name of the candidate appointing him and shall have the right to remain in the room outside of the enclosed space Watchers shall be required to show their certificates when required to do so

If any election officers officiating at any primary shall refuse to permit a watcher appointed under the provisions of this act to be present as herein provided such officer or officers shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and on conviction thereof shall be sentenced to pay a fine not exceeding one thousand dollars or to undergo an imprisonment not exceeding one year or both in the discretion of the court

Section 26 If said watcners or overseers shall be driven away from the polls by violence or intimidation all the votes polled in such election district may be rejected by the proper tribunal making a recount of the votes cast therein or a part or portion of such votes aforesaid may be counted as such tribunal may deem necessary to a just and proper disposition of the case

Any person or persons who by violence or intimidation shall threaten or drive away said watchers or overseers shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and on conviction thereof shall be sentenced to pay a fine not exceeding one thousand dollars or undergo an imprisonment for a period not exceeding one year or both in the discretion of the court

On the question,
Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

BILL POSTPONED.

Mr. JOHN ROBERT JONES. Mr. Speaker, I move that further consideration of this bill be postponed for the present.

Mr. GIBSON. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

BILLS ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1883 (Senate Bill No. 661), entitled:

An Act making an appropriation to the American Oncologic Hospital at Philadelphia

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. GEORGE A. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, if there is any one in the House qualified to explain this bill, I would like to have it explained.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Walnutt.

Mr. WALNUT. Mr. Speaker, as I undersand it, this bill is calendar number 36. This bill provides for an appropriation that was overlooked in 1911. In 1911 the hospital introduced two bills: one for maintenance and the other for permanent improvements. They received the appropriation for permanent improvements but the appropriation for maintenance was overlooked and for that reason they made the application for an appropriation to take the place of the appropriation that was overlooked in 1911. The hospital is a cancer hospital. The appropriation was $20,000.00.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

NAYS—0.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk return the same to the Senate with information that the House has passed the same without amendment.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1341 (Senate Bill No. 328), entitled:

A further supplement to an act approved the seventh day of June one thousand eight hundred and seventy-nine entitled "An Act to provide revenue by taxation" as variously ambended and supplemented

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. ROCKWEL. Mr. Speaker, it seems to me that this is a most peculiar bill. Under the present law, manufacturing corporaions are exempt from taxation in this State. This bill undertakes to have this General Assembly include within this class of manufacturing corporations corporations engaged in the laundry business and thus would exempt from taxation corporations engaged in that business, asking us to legislate and make corporations engaged in that business manufacturing corporations. It seems to me this is a very bad, peculiar and unwise provision, and I think the bill ought to be voted down or dropped from the calendar.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I am very sorry to disagree with my friend from Tioga, but I think my friend from Tioga, as well as the members of the House, knows that there exists a difference of opinion as to whether or not a laundry is a manufacturing corporation, or whether it is not, and it was supposed, I presume, by the author of the bill that by allowing the Legislature to define whether it is a manufacturing corporation or whether it is not, would probably decide the proposition without allowing it to go to the Supreme Court.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Delaware.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Yes, sir.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman what, if anything, a laundry manufactures.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. That is just the difficulty. One side claims that it manufactures out of dirty garments nice, clean, wearable garments, something that is of some account in the community, while a dirty garment is not. On the other hand, some parties claim that is not manufacturing. That is where the difficulty arises. Of course, if the House feels that a laundry should not be classed as a manufacturing proposition, why they ought not to pass this bill. If they feel that it does come within that scope, they ought to support the bill, and that would settle the proposition. In my own mind, it seems to me that as a laundry is one of the largest employers of labor, I personally feel inclined to classify them as manufacturing corporations, and thus evempt them from certain taxations. That is the way I feel about it. It is simply a question of settling that proposition. That is all that is involved in that bill.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Would a woman working in a laundry, engaged in this line of business by a manufacturing corporation, would she be a manufacturess?

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. I presume she would be one of the employees in a manufacturing concern.

Mr. ROCKWELL. How about a washerwoman?

Mr. BALDWIN. Unfortunately, a washerwoman does not often work for a corporation. If that were true, every farmer would be a corporation. That a private family is not a corporation has been settled long since, and doesn't need any legislation. There are grave dobuts as to whether a laundry is a manufacturing corporation. There are coming up constantly shade-line propositions. Here is a shade-line proposition. The Legislature has it in its power to settle this proposition by voting for or against this bill. I think it is wise legislation which settles the controversy and the question for all time.

BILL POSTPONED.

Mr. SPANGLER. Mr. Speaker, I move that further considèraion of this bill be postponed for the present, as there seems to be some misapprehension concerning it.

Mr. W. H. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

The SPEAKER. It has been suggested that the House continue for a short time after six o'clock and then have no evening session.

BILLS ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1730, entitled:

An Act to amend an act approved the thirty-first day of March one thousand eight hundred sixty entitled "An Act to consolidate revise and amend the penal laws of this Commonwealth"

On the question,
Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?
It was agreed to.
On the question,
Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker, as there is nothing in the title of this bill to give you any idea as to its contents, I will just take about a minute to explain what it really means. The present law covering assault and battery with intent to kill fixes the penalty at seven years. This has always appeared to me to be a peculiar situation where, in an isolated district, a man might shoot another man, and because of the distance from a hospital where he might receive proper and suitable attention, he dies on the way. That man would be tried and probably convicted of murder in the first degree. Now, I have one particular case in mind where a man was shot five times in the body and his inside organs were punctured in twenty-four places. Owing to the skillful medical attention he received, that man lived. Now, the man who shot had just as much malice in his heart and committted jus as dastardly a crime as the man who shot the man at a place distant from a hospital, and I think they were equally culpable. So I have fixed in this bill the crime of attempted murder, instead of assault and battery with intent to kill, and have fixed the penalty for that crime at fifteen years, rather than at seven, and I think it is a very good bill.

On the question recurring,
Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

NAYS—1.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1719, as follows:

An Act amending article eleven of an act entitled "An Act for the government of cities of the second class" approved the seventh day of March Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred and one changing the provisions relating to the Sinking Fund Commission

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That Article eleven of an act entitled "An Act for the government of cties of the second class" approved the seventh day of March Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred and one (Pamphlet Laws twenty) which reads as follows

NAYS—0.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1293, entitled:

An Act creating the office of commissioner of municipal lighting in boroughs of this Commonwealth providing for the election of such commissioner and prescribing his powers and duties

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

BILL POSTPONED.

Mr. REX. Mr. Speaker, in the absence of the sponsor of this bill I move that further consideration of it be postponed for the present.

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

BILL ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 16, entitled:

A Joint Resolution proposing an amendment to the Constitution of Pennsylvania

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

The SPEAKER declared the nays seem to have it.

Whereupon, a division was called for, 66 voting in the affirmative, and 38 in the negative,

And the question was determined in the affirmative.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass?

BILL POSTPONED.

Mr. C. M. C. CAMPBELL. Mr. Speaker, I move the further consideration of this bill be postponed for the present.

Mr. LOWERS. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

BILLS ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1692, enttitled:

An Act giving the power to mayors of third class cities of this Commonwealth to be present and vote at council meetings in order to make a quorum and cast a deciding ballot in case of a tie vote

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass?

Mr. MOSES. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the sponsor of the bill why he wants these additional powers given to the Mayor.

Mr. ZIMMERMAN. Mr. Speaker, the reasons are quite obvious, owing to the fact that quite frequently councils are tied up for months and the interests of the people are neglected. For that reason the bill has been presented, so that matters of that kind may be settled.

Mr. MOSES. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman the powers of the mayor in cities of the third class.

Mr. ZIMMERMAN. He is the chief executive officer.

Mr. MOSES. Well, Mr. Speaker, what are the duties?

Mr. ZIMMERMAN. Mr. Speaker, the duties are the same of those of the Chief Burgess, to enforce the ordinances, and so on.

Mr. MOSES. Well, Mr. Speaker, is it not the duty of the mayor to recommend legislation to councils? It is not the duty of the mayor to help make legislation in councils, is it? Is it his duty to recommend legislation or to help make it?

Mr. ZIMMERMAN. Mr. Speaker, he can make recommendations, yes, sir.

Mr. MOSES. Mr. Speaker, is it his duty to recommend and then make it?

Mr. ZIMMERMAN. Mr. Speaker, it is his business to make recommendations.

Mr. MOSES. Mr. Speaker, it is a bad bill and I am opposed to it.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1403 (Senate Bill No. 556), entitled:

An Act to permit the relocation of certain portions of the track of street passenger railway companies with the consent of the local authorities

Mr. JOHN R. K. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I would like to have the Chairman of the Committee having charge of this bill explain to the House what the purpose of the bill is.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. McNICHOL.

Mr. McNICHOL. Mr. Speaker, the purpose of this bill is to permit the removal of tracks that are now on Filbert Street running to Cuthbert Street in Philadelphia. The removal of those tracks is necessary to the improvement that is contemplated to be made by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company to its station at Broad and Filbert St. In order to protect the stockholders in the Continental Transit Company Pasenger Railway, they could not give their consent to the removal of the tracks because then it would impair their holding in the General Transit Company and for that reason it requires legislative enactment. The purpose of the bill is to remove the tracks from Filbert St. to Culbert St. and at the same time prevent the Continental Passenger Railway Company from keeping the Pennsylvania Railroad Company from making their improvement to their Station at Broad and Filbert Sts.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

THURSDAY, April 24th, 1913.

The House met at 10.00 o'clock A. M.
The SPEAKER (George E. Alter) in the Chair.

PRAYER.

The Chaplain, Rev. J. E. Wright, offered the following prayer:

O, God, we thank Thee that Thou hast made us as we are and that Thou hast set us in an environment that is adapted to us. We thank Thee for our bodies, with their members and appetites and senses so fitted for pleasure, so conditioned for work. May we reverence these bodies and guard them sacredly, doing all that we can to promote their vigor and healthfulness; not wasting their energies by careless living or sensous living. We thank Thee for our mental faculties; for the keenness and the zest which we find in seeking to understand the things which are about us; for the learning and the joys of knowing. We thank Thee for our spiritual nature, rooted in the innermost fibers of our being; for our innate reverence for the good and true; for our compassions and sympathies; for our aspirations to be better men ourselves and to promote the good that is prevailing about us. All this is an evidence to us that Thou art our Father and that we are Thy children. We thank Thee for the enjoyment which we find in this beautiful world through which we are passing. Thou hast given us all things richly to enjoy; Thou hast made us to drink of the river of Thy pleasures and we would say with Thy servant of old "Oh The depths of the riches both of the wisdom and the knowledge of God; how unsearchable are His judgments and His ways past finding out." Now, we give ourselves to Thee for this day and pray for Thy blessing upon it and Thy name shall have the praise of it forever. Amen.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the Journal of yesterday's proceedings.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of yesterday's procedings, when on motion of Mr. Wiltbank, the further reading was dispensed with and the Journal was approved.

Section 3 All acts and parts of acts inconsistent with this act are repealed

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to,

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in committee of the whole being in this case dispensed with,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 935, entitled:

An Act providing for the purchase by the Commonwealth of certain lands owned by the A. Cook Sons Company at and near Cooksburg in the counties of Forest Clarion and Jefferson Pennsylvania for a public park and forest reserve providing an appropriation for said purchase and providing for the appointment of a commission to take charge of said property and defining the powers and authority of said commission and the uses to which the property shall be put

The first section of the bill was read as follows:

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That for the purpose of preserving and prepetuating a portion of the original forest of Pennsylvania in the interest of forestry conservation and preservation and maintenance of opportunities to the people of the Commonwealth and others for the study and enjoyment of distinctively natural views and conditions and for wholesome out-door recreation and the results and advantages to the people of the Commonwealth at large arising therefrom there shall be vested in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania All that certain tract of land situate at or near Cooksburg in the counties of Forest Clarion and Jefferson State of Pennsylvania containing seven thousand two hundred and nineteen (7,219) acres being the property of A Cook Sons Company and which is more fully described in the report and accompanying maps of the commission created by an act approved the fourteenth day of June one thousand nine hundred and eleven entitled "An Act providing for a commission to examine and report on the property of the purchase by the Commonwealth of a certain tract of land in Jefferson Clarion and Forest Counties and making an apropriation therefor" subject to the rights liberties preserved and maintained forever as a public place or park to be known and designated by the name of "Cook State Park"

On the question,
Will the House agree to the section?

Mr. MECHLING. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer the following amendments.

The amendments were read by the Clerk as follows:

Section 1, line 22, after "liberties" insert "exceptions and reservations hereinafter set forth to be"
Section 1, line 23, after "park" insert "and"

On the question,
Will the House agree to the amendments?

Mr. REESE. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be referred back to the Committee on Appropriations. My reason for so doing at this time is because it was partly understood when this bill was reported out that we would have it recommitted to the committee. The reason for this is that some of the committee thought that an investigation should be made on that tract before this House took action on the bill, and I do this in order to place myself in that position, because I do not think we should act on the bill until we have information that would warrant it.

The SPEAKER. The custom is to refer bills back to the Appropriation Committee after they have passed second reading.

Mr. JOSIAH HOWARD. Mr. Speaker, the main purpose in referring back to committee, was to amend it, if necessary, in the committee in order that it would be satisfactory to the House. Mr. Speaker there are two or three hundred acres in the centre of this tract which do not belong to the Cook Estate, and there is a proposition on hand and really agreed to that some of the members of this House shall visit this tract and see the location of this land which is owned by different people and which is located right in the center of the Cook tract, and the advisability of making this whole plot of land a park, is a question. There don't seem to be much question as to the value of the virgin pine on it, but the proposition as a whole though is a question and some of the members are to go and visit the tract for a thorough investigation so as to know whether to amend this bill or not. The question is as to whether the bill ought to be amended or accepted as a whole and the idea is to refer it back to the committee simply to hold it, and I would move just for that purpose that it be recommitted to the Committee on Appropriations. I am not fighting the bill as a whole proposition.

Mr. REESE. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, as a point of information, I would like to know just what the status of the bill at this time would be.

The SPEAKER. The motion is to recommit the bill to the Committee on Appropriations, and that would leave the question on the amendment to the first section pending.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I cannot understand why it would not be just as well and serve the purposes of the gentlemen who made this motion to do as the Chair suggested, to let the bill be passed on second reading, and let the amendments be made to it and then recommit it to the committee when the amendments can be made as readily later and the bill would have an advanced place on the calendar to that which it would occupy if recommitted at this stage, and I would suggest that the gentlemen withdraw their motion until the bill has passed second reading and then renew their motion to recommit.

Mr. JOSIAH HOWARD. Mr. Speaker, I would like to inquire whether the committee would then have the right to amend it in committee.

The SPEAKER. The Committee can amend the bill as they see fit, except that they could not take out amendments which had been put in by the House on second reading.

Mr. JOSIAH HOWARD. Mr. Speaker, I have no objection to that, if it is understood that the bill goes back to the committee for the purpose that I have suggested, and I will now withdraw my motion to recommit.

On the question,
Will the House agree to the amendment?
It was agreed to.
On the question,
Will the House agree to the section as amended?
It was agreed to.

The second section was then read and agreed to as follows:

Section 2 The sum of six hundred twenty-four thousand dollars ($624,000) is hereby specifically appropriated and set aside for the purpose of purchasing said property to be paid from any moneys in the State Treasury not otherwise appropriated upon warrant issued on the State Treasurer by the commission hereinafter appointed and countersigned by the Auditor General of the Commonwealth The said sum to be paid as follows namely two hundred thousand dollars ($200,000) on the first day of July one thousand nine hundred and thirteen two hundred sixteen thousand dollars ($216,000) on the first day of July one thousand nine hundred and thirteen two hundred sixteen thousand dollars ($216,000) on the first day of July one thousand nine hundred and fourteen and two hundred eight thousand dollars ($208,000) on the first day of July one thousand nine hundred and fifteen Provided That no part of said consideration shall be paid until the title to said property shall be approved by the Attorney General of the Commonwealth and the property be conveyed by the owners thereof to the Commonwealth by deed approved by the Attorney General

The third section of the bill was read as follows:

Section 3 Five citizens of the State shall be appointed by the Governor by and with the consent of the Senate for the term of five years who are hereby constituted commissioners of said park and shall have control and supervision thereof As often as a vacancy occurs either by expiration of term or otherwise the Governor shall fill said vacancy either for another term of five years or for the unexpired term as the case may be Said Commissioners shall organize annually on the first day of June for election of a president and secretary to serve one year They shall receive no compensation for their services as commissioners rendered under this act but shall be reimbursed for their necessary expenses for travel and subsistence while engaged in their duties which reimbursements shall be upon return to the proper State officials upon oath or affirmation to be paid from an appropriation duly made for maintenance any revenue derived from the park to be turned into the State Treasury

On the question,
Will the House agree to the section?

Mr. MECHLING. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer the following amendments:

The amendments were read by the Clerk as follows:

Section 3, line 13. Strike out "be."
Section 3, line 14. After "affirmation" strike out "to."

On the question,
Will the House agree to the amendments?
They were agreed to.
The section as amended was then agreed to.

The fourth, fifth, sixth and seventh sections were then separately read and agreed to as follows:

Section 4 Within thirty days after the passage of this act the Governor shall appoint said commissioners who shall promptly organize by the appointment of a president and secretary and thereupon after the approval of the title and deed by the Attorney General on behalf of the Commonwealth accept the proposition of the A. Section 5 After the said premises shall have passed into possession of said park commissioners they shall have full control and supervision thereof and be empoewred to adopt plans for the improvement preservation and maintenance thereof with power to carry the same into execution But the said commissioners shall not have power to contract any debt or expend any moneys for any purpose unless an appropriation for said debts or expenditures shall previously have been made

Section 6 If and whenever a State Park Commission shall be created by act of Assembly for the supervision of State parks then such commission shall take over the park hereby created and administered the same in a manner not inconsistent with the provisions for its use as defined in this act and thereupon the commission hereby created shall be dissolved

Section 7 All acts or parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act are hereby repealed

The preamble was read as follows:

Whereas, The report of said commission warrants the purchase of said land and the A. Cook Sons' Company has proposed to sell the same to the Commonwealth for the sum of six hundred twenty-four thousand dollars ($624,000) payable as follows two hundred thousand dollars ($200,000) on the first day of July one thousand nine hundred thirteen two hundred sixteen thousand dollars ($216,000) on the first day of July one thousand nine hundred fourteen two hundred eight thousand dollars ($208,000) on the first day of July one thousand nine hundred fifteen reserving to the A. Cook Sons' Company its successors and assigns all of the gas from fire gas wells now on the land and the oil and gas from such wells as may be drilled or drilling before the first payment on account of the purchase price as herein provided is made by the Commonwealth for the term or period of twenty-five years together with the right to maintain said wells and lay and maintain such pipe lines from the same as be necessary to convey the oil and gas to places of consumption and sale with all rights necessary to the mining and removing of the same in the ordinary and customary manner reserving also the right to remove all personal property from the lands the right to remove all farm products for the year one thousand nine hundred thirteen the right to use the saw mill on the land and during the spring of the year one thousand nine hundred thirteen to manufacture about three hundred thousand feet of lumber and the right to lay and maintain a water line from the spring at the head of Henry's Run on the three acres lying north of Cooksburg and not included in this purchase now therefore

On the question,

Will the House agree to the preamble?

Mr. MECHLING. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer the following amendment.

The amendment was read by the Clerk as follows:

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

It was agreed to.

The title as amended was then agreed to.

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to, as amended,

Ordered. To be transcribed for a third reading.

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in committee of the whole being in this case dispensed with.

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1911, as follows:

An Act relating to petroleum and natural gas wells drilled through coal measures within the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and providing penalties for the violation thereof

ARTICLE I

Definitions

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That for the purposes of this act the terms and definitions contained therein shall be as follows

Well A bore hole drilled for the purpose of developing petroleum or natural gas or a bore hole producing petroleum or natural gas

Well Operator Any person firm partnership company or corporation who drills operates or abandons or purposes to drill operate or abandon such well as hereinbefore defined

Coal Operator Any person firm partnership company or corporation owning leasing or operating coal mines or coal properties excluding coal stripping operations

Plot A map drawing or print made in accordance with the provisions of this act as hereinafter contained

Casing The pipe commonly used with in wells drilled for petroleum and natural gas The sizes of casing refer to nominal commercial dimensions

Cement Mortar Cement mortar shall consist of one part Portland cement two parts clean sand mixed with sufficient water

Coal Seam A workable seam of coal not less than eighteen inches in thickness

Inspector The person commissioned by the Governor to have supervision of coal mines

Location of Wells

Section 1 Within six months after the passage of this act every well operator in the Commonwealth shall survey and plot every well whether active or not drilled through coal seams and send description and plot in duplicate to the inspector of the district in which the well is located

Section 2 When a location for a well has been made it shall be the duty of the well operator to make written application in duplicate to the inspector of the district for permission to drill and to send therewith a description and plot in duplicate of the proposed location one copy of which application description and plot shall be sent forthwith by said inspector to the Department of Mines of this Commonwealth The location shall be determined by survey and the description and plot shall give the courses and distances from two permanent points on the boundaries of the tract of land upon which the proposed well is located together with the name of the tract names of adjoining tracts township or district and county It shall also be the duty of the well operator to send to the coal operator a copy of the description and plot filed with the district inspector It shall be the duty of the coal operator immediately on receipt of the plot to verify the well location and mail to the well operator and to the inspector a plot showing the present and proposed mine workings under the tract of land on which the proposed well is located

Within ten days after the receipt of said plots by the inspector he shall personally examine the location referred to and if he aproves of the same he shall immediately give the well operator written permission in duplicate to drill said well Provided however that no permit issued under the provisions of this act shall be valid until countersigned by the Chief of the Department of Mines

If however the said inspector shall not approve of said location it shall be his duty to confer with the coal operator and the well operator and designate within fifteen days from the date of said conferrence a suitable location for the well or if no well can be drilled on the premises because of conditions hereinafter specified he shall refuse to give such permission If the well is re-located a re-survey shall be made by the well operator and a corrected description and plot in duplicate shall be mailed to the inspector as previously required and a copy of the corrected description and plot shall also be mailed to the coal operator

Section 3 It shall be the duty of any coal operator to furnish annually to the inspector of the district upon his request a plot of all its present and proposed mining operated by the said well operator furnish annually if requested to do so to any well operator a plot of the mine under the leases of property owned or operated by the said well operator

Section 4 No well drilled under the provisions of this act shal be located within three hundred feet of a hoisting shaft air shaft slope or drift into a coal mine not definitely abandoned or sealed nor within three hundred feet of a boiler house engine house power house mine fan or mine tipple unless such structures have been abandoned

No well shall be drilled within fifteen feet of any haulage way entry or airway in use

Section 5 It shall be the duty of the well operator to display at the location one copy of the permission provided for in section two of this article properly protected from injury and in such place and manner that it may be easily seen

Section 6 Permission given to drill a well shall expire at the end of one year from the date of issue unless drilling operations are actually in progress

ARTICLE III

Drilling Casing and Protecting of Wells

Section 1 Each well passing through a workable seam of coal shall be drilled cased and protected in the following manner

(a) Where the coal is in place

A hole of a diameter six inches greater than the inside diameter of the outside casing to be put through the coal shall be drilled at least thirty feet below the bottom of the coal seam Within this hole shall be placed the casing and the space between the outside of the casing and the wall of the hole shall be filled with cement mortar to a height of at least thirty feet above the top of the coal seam in such manner as to exclude water from the coal seam

(b) Where the coal is removed and the mine excavation is inaccessible

A hole of a diameter sufficiently large to permit the setting in of a liner four inches larger in diameter than the inside diameter of the casing to be put through the coal shall be drilled at thirty feet below the bottom of the coal seam Within this hole shall be placed a liner four inches larger than the inside diameter of the casing and extending from the bottom of the hole to at least thirty feet above the mine roof A string of casing centrally guided by shoes or winged guides shall be placed within the liner and the space between the lines and the casing shall be filled with cement mortar to the top of the liner

To exclude water the space between the casing and the wall of the hole and immediately above the top of the liner shall be filled a distance of at least ten feet with cement mortar

(c) Where the coal is removed and the mine excavation is accessible

The method may be the same as that provided in the case of inaccessible mine excavations or as that provided where the coal is in place Provided that if the latter method is chosen the well operator shall at his own expense provide a suitable retaining wall laid in cement mortar to retain the cement mortar about the casin This wall shall extend from two feet below the mine floor to the roof of the mine and be of such size as to retain at least six inches of cement mortar about the casing

Section 2 Under any of the above provisions the work of casing and protecting from gas and water through the coal seam shall be completed before the well is drilled to a greater depth and in the event of any well being productive of petroleum or gas the space between the said outside casing and the next string of such other casing as may be left in shall remain open at the surface for proper ventilation the top being provided with a suitable device to permit such ventilation and at the same time to prevent dirt or debris from falling in or being thrown in or the ventilating opening from being readily closed

Section 3 The well operator shall upon completion of the work of casing through a coal seam make an affidavit in duplicate signed by two men having at least three years' experience in casing wells as to the method of casing and protecting the well said affidavit to be filed with the inspector

ARTICLE VI

Abandonment of Wells

Section 1 It shall be the duty of any well operator upon determining to abandon a well to send a written notice in duplicate to the inspector of the district of his intention to do so and the work of plugging the hole or pulling the casing shall not proceed until the inspector or his authorized agent is present to see that the plugging is done as prescribed by this act

The well operator shall send to the inspector with the notice of abandonment a legally certified copy of the permission given to drill the well provided the well was drilled under the provisions of this act if the well was drilled prior to the passage of this act the well operator shall send to the inspector with the notice of abandonment a plot in duplicate showing the location as provided for in section two article two of this act

Section 2 When the work of plugging and filling from bottom to top has been completed the well operator or his authorized agent shall make a report in duplicate to the inspector upon forms to be furnished by the inspector showing the date of completion of the work the depth of the coal seam or seams and the total depth of well If the well previous to abandonment was productive of petroleum or gas shall state in the report the name and depth of the productive sand measures He shall also report the location and the kind of all plugs used and the method followed in placing them also the material used and the method followed in filling well

If the inspector or his authorized agent has been present during the performance of this work he shall also sign the report

Section 3 Every well upon abandonment must be plugged and filled solidly and tightly from the bottom to the top as follows The hole must be filled with rock sediment sand clay or other suitable material from the bottom of the well to a hard and firm stratum below the last string of casing set in above the producing petroleum or gas sands When the inspector declares that it is impracticable to fill the cavity in the lowest producing sand then he shall permit the well operator to place plugs at the top of the lowest producing sand and fill as hereafter specified In this firm hard stratum three seasoned wood plugs of a diameter equal to the diameter of the hole and each of a length of at least three feet shall be driven into place Above the third plug ten feet of clay must be placed and thoroughly tamped down so as to prevent the passage of petroleum gas or water

Immediately below the seat of each and every string of casing there shall be driven a seasoned wood plug as described and all spaces betwen wood plugs shall be filled solidly and tightly with rock sediment clay sand or other suitable material as the casing is withdrawn length by length All plugs shall be driven in place with proper drilling tools

In the case of a well in which the outside casing has been cemented as hereinbefore provided said outer casing may be cut off at a point not less than fifty feet above the coal seam and removed but in any event the hole shall be filled to the surface

The locations of the plugs herein provided for are made with preference to the relative positions of the workable coal seams and the gas and petroleum sands for the purpose of preventing the passage of petroleum or gas into the workable coal seams and of water into the petroleum and gas sands and if any well presents a variation in such relative positions of the said strata such additional wood plugs as the inspector may deem necessary shall be driven into place by the well operator

In case of failure or neglect of the well operator to plug an abandoned well in accordance with the provisions of this act it shall be the duty of the inspector to have the work done by contract the cost to be assessed against the well operator and collected as other debts are collected by law

Section 4 When the coal is removed from around a casing or liner the coal operator shall protect the same from corrision and mechanical injury by a wall of suitable material to retain six inches of cement mortar between the said wall and the said casing or liner This protection shall extend from two feet below the mine floor to the roof of the mine except in the case of an abandoned well that has been plunged and filled as prescribed in this act

ARTICLE V.

Section 1 The inspector shall carry out all the provisions of this act pertaining to him He shall keep a complete record of the wells drilled in his district together with their location date of completion depth character of product date of abandonment name of owner and any other information required by the Chief of the Department of Mines and shall include said data in his annual report to the Chief of the Department of Mines

The inspector shall receive and investigate all complaints as to injury present or impending due to lack of precaution on the part of any well operator or coal operator If he finds the complaints to be well founded he shall submit the facts to the Chief of the Department of Mines for decision

If the inspector discovers any well being drilled operated or plugged contrary to the requirements of this act he shall order the workmen engaged upon such well to cease work at once and he shall not permit the work to be resumed until he is satisfied that the law is being complied with

The inspector shall have the right at all times to approach and examine any well in his district and upon the discovery of any violation of this act or upon being informed of such violation he shall institute proceedings against the person or persons at fault as provided for in section one article six of this act

He shall determine the sufficiency of plots for the purpose of accurately locating wells and shall cause a new survey of the location in case the available plot and descriptions are unsatisfactory The cost of this survey shall be recoverable from the well operator as other debts are recoverable by law unless it is shown that the original plot was correct in which case the expense incurred in making the survey shall be paid by the State Treasurer upon warrant of the Auditor General issued upon the presentation of vouchers approved by the Chief of the Department of Mines

It shall be the duty of the inspector to transmit to the Chief of the Department of Mines the duplicate of plots descriptions applications and reports sent to him by well operators to be retained in the Department as official records

Section 2 For the purpose of carrying out the provisions of this act the district mine inspectors with the approval of the Chief of the Department of Mines are hereby empowered to employ whenever necessary persons with technical and practical knowledge of the drilling casing and plugging of petroleum and gas wells The expense thus incurred shall be paid out of the State Treasury on warrant of the Auditor General issued upon the presentation of vouchers approved by the Chief of the Department of Mines

ARTICLE VI.

Section 1 Any coal operator or well operator or any other person who neglects or refuses to comply with the provisions of this act or who violates any of the provisions or requirements thereof shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and shall upon conviction thereof in the court of the county in which the misdemeanor was committed be punished by a fine of not less than five hundred dollars nor more than five thousand dollars or by imprisonment for not less than one nor more than six months either or both at the discretion of the court

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to,

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1915, as follows:

An Act to repeal an act approved the twenty-eighth day of March one thousand eight hundred seventy entitled "An Act extending to Crawford county an act to enlarge the jurisdiction of justices of the peace in the county of Erie"

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That the act approved the twenty-eigthth day of March one thousand eight hundred seventy entitled "An Act extending to Crawford county an act to enlarge the jurisdiction of justices of the peace in the county of Erie" is hereby repealed

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to.

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in committee of the whole being in this case dispensed with,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1785, as follows:

An Act to provide for the health and safety of persons employed in and about the anthracite coal mines of Pennsylvania and for the protection and preservation of property connected therewith

ARTICLE 1

Application of Act

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That the provisions of this act shall apply to every anthracite coal mine or colliery in this Commonwealth

ARTICLE II

Definition of Terms

Section 1 For the purposes of this act the definitions of terms contained herein shall be as ollows

Colliery The term 'colliery" means the inside workings of a mine or mines and the outside works connected therewith

Mine The term "mine" means the shafts slopes drifts tunnels incline planes and the excavations connected therewith penetrating coal stratum or strata which are ventilated by one general air current or divisions thereof and connect by one general system of mine railroads over which coal is delivered to one or more common point out side the mine when such is operated by one operator together with all roads appliances machinery and materials below the surface

Shaft The term "shafe" means a vertical opening through that strata that is or may be used for the purpose of ventilation or drainage or or hoisting men or material or both in connection with the mining of coal

Slope The term "slope" means an incline opening used for the same purpose as a shaft

Workings The term "workings" means all the excavated parts of a mine those abandoned as well as those being worked

Breaker The term "breaker" means the structure containing the machinery used for the preparation of coal

Approved Safety Lamp The term "approved safety lamp" means any safety lamp approved by the Chief of the Department of Mines

Operator The term "operator" means any firm corporation or individual operating any colliery mine or other part thereof as owner occupier or lessee

Superintendent The term "superintendent" means the person who shall have immediate supervision of one or more mines or collieries on behalf of the operator

Mine Foreman The term "mine foreman" means the person who is in charge of the inside workings of a mine or mines and of the persons employed therein in so far as it is necessary for him to comply with his duties under this act

Outside Foreman The term "outside foreman" means the person in charge or has charge of a working place also any person engaged at general work in a mine who has the qualification of a miner as herein prescribed

Chief The term "chief" means the Chief of the Department of Mines who is charged with the supervision of the execution of the mining laws of this Commonwealth

Inspector The term "inspector" means the person elected by the qualified electors in the inspection district in which he resides and who is charged with the supervision of the execution of the mining laws of this Commonwealth in the mines and collieries assigned to him by the Chief of the Department of Mines

Working Place The term "working place" means the gangway airway breast chamber pillar or other working face where coal is being mixed

ARTICLE III

Duties of mine owner operator or superintendent

Section 1 The mine owner operator or superintendent of a mine or colliery shall use every precaution to insure the safety of the workmen in all cases whether provided for in this act or not and he shall place the underground workings thereof and all that is related to the same under the charge and daily supervision of a competent person who shall be called mine foreman and who shall perform such duties and only such duties as are prescribed for said mine foreman in this act

Section 2 Whenever a mine foreman cannot personally carry out the provisions of this act so far as they pertain to him the owner operator or superintendent shall employ a sufficient number of competent and qualified persons to act as his assistants who shall be subject to his orders

Section 3 Whenever safety lamps are required in any mine they shall be the property of the owner of said mine and a competent person who shall be appointed for the purpose shall examine every safety lamp immediately before it is taken into the workings for use and ascertain if it is clear safe and securely locked and safety lamps shall not be used until they have been examined and found safe clean and securely locked unless permission be first given by the mine inspector of the district to have the lamps used unlocked

Section 4 Whenever a place is likely to contain a dangerous accumulation of water the working approaching such place shall not exceed twelve feet in width and there shall be constantly kept at a distance of not less than twenty feet in advance at least one (1) bore hole near the center of the working and sufficient flank bore holes on each side

Section 5 The superintendent shall employe a competent person as engineer and place him in charge of an engine whereby persons are hoisted or lowered in any mine who shall be sober and competent and not less than twenty-one years of age which engineer shall have charge of but one engine and be constantly in attendance at the same during the time that workmen are in the mine

Section 6 A competent person to be termed headman and a competent person to be termed footman shall be employed by the superintendent and shall be in constant attendance at the head and foot of each shaft or slope where men are hoisted or lowered while workmen are in the mine who shall see that the provisions of this act so far as they relate to them of either of them are obeyed

Section 7 A suitable quantity of all props ties rails timbers cap-pieces and all other material and supplies necessary for the health and safety of the employes shall be kept on hand at all times at a mine or colliery All props ties rails timbers and cap-pieces of suitable sizes as ordered by the miner shall be delivered to the workmen as near to their working places as they can be conveyed in ordinary mine cars free of charge If from any cause the materials and supplies cap-pieces timbers rails ties and props mentioned aforesaid cannot be furnished as required by this act the workmen shall be withdrawn from the mine or part of the mine affected by reason of the non-furnishing of the aforesaid articles as required above

Section 8 Every passageway used by persons in any mine and also used for the transportation of coal or other material shall be made of sufficient width to permit persons to pass moving cars with safety the distance from the body of the car to the side of the passageway shall not be less than three feet which distance shall be maintained continuously on one side of said passageway the same shall be kept well drained and free from obstruction

Section 9 Safety holes shall be made at the bottom of all shafts slopes and planes and be kept free from obstruction to enable the footman to escape readily in case of danger

Section 10 Waiting rooms of proper dimensions and properly secured shall be constructed at the foot of all shafts and intermediate lifts thereof for workmen to wait therein prior to ascending the shaft

Section 11 Safety blocks or some other device for the purpose of preventing cars from falling into a shaft or running away on a slope or plane shall be placed at or near the head of every shaft slope plane or intermediate lift thereof and said safety blocks or other device must be maintained in good working order

Section 12 No mint cars shall be used in any mine unless the bumpers are of sufficient length and width to keep the bodies of said cars separated by not less than twelve (12) inches when the cars stand on a straight level road and the bumpers touch each other

Section 13 Breakers shall be properly heated and kept sufficiently clear of dust to maintain a healthful atmosphere therein

Section 14 Ample means to produce and maintain a constant and adequate supply of pure air for the workmen and animals in every mine shall be provided and the air shall be circulated through the main entries cross entries working places and abandoned workings to such an extent that it will dillute carry off and render harmless the smoke and noxious or dangerous gases generated in the mines affording not less than two hundred (200) cubic feet of air per minute for each and every person employed therein

Section 15 All shafts slopes planes traveling ways tunnels and haulage ways shall be maintained in a safe condition for persons and animals to travel therein

Section 16 The following safety devices shall be provided installed and maintained in good working order in and about every coal mine and colliery

(a) The top of each shaft and also of each slope if dangerous or any intermediate lift thereof shall be securely fenced off by railing or by vertical or flat gates

(b) Every abandoned slope shaft air hole drift and cave hole shall be properly fenced around or across its entrance

(c) Suitable appliances through which conversation can be held by and between persons at the bottom and at the top of the shaft or slope or any intermediate lift thereof shall be installed in every mine and maintained in good working order and also an efficient means of signaling from the bottom of such shaft or slope and any intermediate lift thereof to the engineer in charge of the hoisting engine which shall be maintained in good working order

(d) Guard rails which will prevent persons from falling into the shaft and efficient safety catches shall be attached to and a sufficient cover over head shall be provided on every cage used for lowering or hoisting persons in any shaft the safety catches shall be tested monthly and the report of said test stating the distance said cage dropped shall be sent to the mine inspector the test shall be made by detaching the rope from the cage and allow the cage to descend by gravity Every cage or gunboat used for lowering or hoisting persons in any slope shall be provided with a proper protector so constructed that persons while on such cage or gun boat shall not be struck by anything which may fall or roll down said slope

(e) The main link of the chain connecting the rope to the cage gun boat or car in any shaft or slope shall be made of the best quality of iron Bridle chains made of the same quality of iron shall be attached to the main link rope or rope socket from the cross-head of the cage or gun boat when persons are being lowered or hoisted thereon

(f) An efficient brake shall be attached to every drum that is used for lowering or raising persons or materials in any mine Flanges or horns of sufficient dimensions to prevent the rope from slipping off the drum shall be provided and properly attached to the drum and all machines used for lowering or hoisting persons in mines shall be provided with an indicator to show the position of the cage car or gun boat in the shaft or slope An overwind safety device shall be attached to each engine used to hoist or lower any persons in any shaft to prevent the cage from going to the sheave

(g) Over all shafts which are being sunk or shall hereafter be sunk a safe and substantial structure shall be erected to sustain the sheaves or pulleys at a height of not less than twenty (20) feet above the tipping place and the top of such shaft shall be arranged in such manner that no material can fall into the shaft while the bucket is being emptied

(h) All rock and coal from shafts as they are being sunk shall not be raised except in a bucket or on a cage and such bucket or cage must be connected to the rope or chain by a safety hook clevice or other safe attachment Such shafts shall be provided with guides and guide attachments applied in such manner as to prevent the bucket from swinging while descending or ascending therein and such guides and guide attachments shall be maintained at a distance of not more than seventy-five (75) feet from the bottom of such shaft until its sinking shall have been completed but this sentence shall not apply to shafts one hundred (100) feet or less in depth

(i) Whenever the strata are not safe every shaft shall be securely cased lined or otherwise made secure

(j) All boilers used for generating steam in and about mines or collieries shall be kept in good order and the same shall be examined and inspected by a qualified person as often as once in six months and oftener if needed All air receivers used in or about a mine shall be kept in good order and shall be examined once every six months and oftener if needed The results of such examination under oath shall be certified in writing to the inspector of the district within thirty (30) days after said examination

(k) Every nest of boilers shall be provided with a steam gauge properly connected which will indicate the steam pressure in the boilers and another steam gauge shall be attached to the steam pipe in the engine house and placed in such position that the engineer or fireman can readily examine them and see what pressure is carried Such steam gauges shall be kept in good order and inspected as often as once every six months and their condition reported to the inspector of the district in the same manner as the report of boiler inspector

(l) Each nest of boilers shall be provided with a safety valve of sufficient area for the steam to escape in case the pressure should arise above that set by the boiler inspector and with weights or springs properly adjusted The said weights or springs shall be locked after the same are adjusted and no person except the superintendent shall have a key to the same

(m) All machinery used in or about the mines and collieries and especially in breakers such as engines rollers wheels screens shafting belting and conveyor lines shall be protected by covering or railing which will prevent persons from inadvertently walking against falling upon or into the same The sides of the stairs trestles and plank walks in and around the colliery shall be provided with hand and guard rails which will prevent persons from falling over their sides This section shall not forbid the temporary removal of a fence guard rail or cevering for the purpose of making repairs if proper precautions are used and the fence guard rails or covering is replaced immediately thereafter

(n) It shall not be lawful to place any boiler or boilers for the purpose of generating steam under or nearer than one hundred (100) feet to any coal breaker or other structure in which persons are employed in the preparation of coal provided that this section shall not apply to boilers or breakers already erected

(o) There shal lbe provided installed and properly maintained a sufficient number of telephones speaking tubes barometers thermometers and anemometers in and about every coal mine or colliery as provided in sections forty-one forty-two and forty-four of general rules Article nine of this act

(p) Whenever batteries are used in any mine for the purpose of exploding blasts they shall be the property of the owner and he shall furnish and maintain in good condition a sufficient quantity of electric batteries to amply supply all workmen who will use the same

Section Any owner operator or superintendent who fails to comply with the provisions of this article shall be deemed guilty of an offense against this act

Duties of Mine Foreman and Assistant Mint Foreman

Section 1 The mine foreman shall have charge of all matters pertaining to ventilation and the speed of the ventilators shall be particularly under his charge and direction and any owner operator or superintendent who shall cause the mine foreman to disregard the provisions of this act shall be amendable in the same manner as the mine foreman

Section 2 All acesible parts of an abandoned portion of a mine in which explosive gases have been found shall be carefully examined by the mine foreman or his asistants at least once a week and all danger found existing therein shall be immediately removed A report of said examination shall be recorded with ink in a book kept at the colliery for that purpose and signed by the person making the same a copy of the record thus made shall be mailed to the superintendent of the colliery and also to the mine inspector of the district on the day the examination is made

Section 3 In mines generating explosive gases the mine foreman or his asistants shall make a careful examination every morning of all working places and traveling roads and all other places which might endanger the safety of the workmen before the workmen shall enter the mine and such examination shall be made with a safety lamp within three (3) hours at most before time for commencing work at the breaker and the workmen shall not enter the mine or his working place until the said mine or part thereof and working place are reported to be safe Every report shall be recorded without delay with ink in a book which shall be kept at the colliery for that purpose and shall be signed by the persons making the examination

Section 4 The person who makes said examination shall establish proof of the same by marking plainly the date thereof at the face of each working place and all other places examined

Section 5 A station or stations shall be established at the entrance to each mine or different parts of each mine as the case may require and a workman shall not pass beyond such station until the mine or part of the mine beyond the same has been inspected and reported to be safe It shall be the duty of the mine foreman or assistant mine foreman to remain at the danger station until relieved by some persons authorized b ythe mine foreman or assistant mine foreman who shall stand guard until said mine or part of said mine shall be reported safe by the person in authority and he shall not permit any person to pass without permission from the mine foreman or assistant mine foreman

Section 6 If at any time it is found by the person for the time being in charge of the mine or any part thereof that by reason of noxious or explosive gases prevailing in such mine or such part thereof or of any cause whatever the mine or the said part is dangerous every precaution shall be used to insure the safety of the workmen and every workman except such persons as may be required to remove the danger shall be withdrawn from the mine or such part thereof as is so found dangerous until the said mine or said part thereof is examined by a competent and qualified person and reported by him to be safe

Section 7 The mine foreman or assistant mine foreman shall visit and examine every working place in the mine in addition at least twice a day while the men of such place dition to the examination required by section three of this article at least twice a day while the men of such place are or should be at work the first of said examinations shall take place in theforenoon and the second in the afternoon while the men are at work The person who makes these examinations shall see that each and every working place is properly secured by props and timber and that safety in all respects is assured by having all loose coal or rock pulled down or secured and that a sufficient quantity of air is circulating in the face of each working place to dilute render harmless and sweep all smoke noxious and explosive gases and that no person shall be permitted to work in an unsafe place unless it be for the purpose of making it secure

Section 8 The mine foreman or the assistant mine foreman shall examine at least once every day all slopes shafts main roads traveling ways signal apparatus pulleys and timbering and see that they are in a safe and efficient working condition A report of said examination shall be made with ink in a book kept at the colliery for that purpose and signed by the person making the examiation a copy of said report shall be sent to the superintendent and inspector of the district at the close of each working day together with a report of the number of working places and where situated in which gas had been found on that day

Duties of Miner

Section 1 No miner shall fire a blast in any mine or in any portion of a mine where locked safety lamps are used except by permission of the mine foreman or assistant mine foreman and before such blast is fired and person giving the permission shall examine the place and satisfy himself that it is safe to fire the same

Section 2 No miner while charging holes for blasting coal slate orr ock sall use an iron or steel pointed needle or tamping bar unless the end is tipped with at least six tight cartridge into any hole inches of copper or other soft material nor shall he force a

Section 3 A miner who is about to fire a blast shall be careful to notify all persons who may be in danger therefrom and give sufficient alarm to warn all persons approaching of the danger

Section 4 A miner who ignites a feeder of gas by blast or otherwise if he discovers the same shall make a reasonable effort to extinguish it If he is unable to do so he shall notify the mine foreman or assistant mine foreman of the location where the feeder is burning Before leaving his working place he shall see that no gas blowers are left burning

Section 5 No miner shal withdraw a charge of any explosive from a hole that has misfired nor shall he reopen the same

Section 6 Any miner having charge of a working place shall keep the roof and sides thereof properly secured by timber or otherwise so as to prevent such roof and sides from falling and he shall not do any work nor permit any work to be done under loose or dangerous material except for the urpose of securing the same

He shall order props cap-pieces and timbers necessary at least one day in advance of needing them as provided for in ther ues of the mine If he fails to rerceive the same and finds his place becoming unsafe he shall vacate it until the necessary timbers are supplied shall before commencing work and also after firing every

Section 7 A miner working a breast or anw other place blast enter said breast or place until the miner has examined it and found it to be safe

Section 8 No miner shall cut out any props or timbers that are supporting the roof or sides When it becomes necessary to remove such props ortimbers it shall be done by blasing or by placing a chain or rope around such props or timbers that the pressure necessary to remove the same can be exerted at a point of safety

Section 9 Any miner who has gun powder or other explosive shall keep it in a wooden or metallic box securely locked said box shall be placed at a safe distance from the working face and tracks in the entry

Section 10 A miner when opening a box containing explosives or when handling the same shall first place his lamp at a distance of not les than five feet therefrom and in such position that the air current cannot convey sparks to the explosives and he shall not approach with a lighted lamp pipe or any other thing containing fire nearer than five feet to any open box containing the same

Section 11 Any person who fails to comply with the provisions of this article shall be deemed guilty of an offense against this act

Shafts Slopes Openings and Outlets

Section 1 It shall not be lawful for the owner operator or superintendent of any mine to employe any person or persons in such mine or permit any person or persons to be in such mine for the purpose of working therein unless they are in connection with every seam or stratum of coal and from every lift thereof worked in such mine not less than two openings or outlets separated by a startum of not less than sixty (60) feet in breadth underground and one hundred and fifty (150) feet in breadth at the surface at which openings or outlets safe and distinct means of ingress and egress are at all times available for the person or persons employed in the said mine but it shall not be necessary for the said two openings to belong to the same mine if the persons employed therein have safe ready and available means of ingrss and egress by not less than two openings This section shall not apply to opening a new mine or to opening any new lift of a mine while being worked for the purpose of making communication between said two outlets so long as not more than twenty persons are employed at any one time in such mine or new lift of a mine neither shall it apply to any mine or part of a mine in which the second district has beeno rendered unavailable by reason of the gnal robbing of pillars previous to abandonment so long as not more than twenty persons are employed therein at any one time The cage or cages and other means of egress shall at all times be available for the persons employed where there is no second outlet

Section 2 The owner operator or superintendent of any mine to which there is only one shaft slope or outlet may petiton the Court of Common Pleas in and for the county in which said mine is situated which said court is hereby empowered to actin the premises setting forth that in consequenle of intervening lands between the working of his mine and the most practicable point or the only practicable point as the case may be at which to make or bring to the surface from the working of his mine he is unable to make an additional shaft slope or outlets in accordance with the requirements of this act the court may make an order of reference and appoint three disinterested persons residents of the county viewers one or more of whom shall be a practical mining engineer all of whom after being sworn to a faithful discharge of their duties shall view and examine the premises and determine as to whether the owner should nave the privilege of making an additional outlet through or upon any intervening lands as the case may require and report in writing to the court which report shall be entered and filed of record If the finding of the viewers or any two of them is in favor of the owner of such coal mine or colliery he may make an aditional shaft slope or outlet under through or upon intervening lands as may be determined upon and provided for by the award If the finding of the viewers is against the owner or if no award be made by reason of any default or neglect on the part of the owner he shall be bound to comply with the provisions of this act in the same manner as if this section had not been enacted In case the said owner operator or superintendent desires to and claims that he ought to make additional opening under through or upon any adjoining on intervening lands to meet the requirements of this act for the ingress and egree of the men employed in his or their mine he or they shall make a statement of the facts in the petition with a survey setting forth the point of commencement and the point of termination of the proposed outlet which he or they their engineers agents or employes may enter upon said intervening lands and survey and mark as he or they shall find it proper to adopt for such additional outlet doing as little damage as possible to the property explored as the viewers shall state in their report what damage will be sustained by the owner or owners of the intervening lands by the opening constructing and using of the outlet and if the report is not appealed from it shall be confirmed or rejected by said court as to right and justice shall appertain and any further and all proceedings in relation thereto shall be in conformity with like proceedings as in the case of a lateral railroad across or under intervening lands under the act in relation to lateral railroad approved the fifth day of May Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and thirty-two and the supplements thereto so far as the provisions of the same are applicable hereto and the notice to the owner of intervening lands of the intention to apply for the privilege of making an outlet and meeting of the viewers shall be given and the costs of the case shall be paid as provided in the said act of the fifth day of May Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and thirty-two and the supplements thereto

Section 3 The escapments shafts or slopes shall be fitted with safe and available appliances by which the persons employed in the mine may readily escape in case an accident occurs deranging the hoisting machinery at the main outlets

Section 4 In slopes where the angle of inclination is fifteen degrees or less there must be provided a separate traveling way which shall be maintained in a safe condition for travel and kept free from steam and dangerous gases

Section 6 No inflammable structure other than a frame to sustain pulleys or sheaves shall be erected over the entrance of any opening connecting the surface with the underground workings of any mine and no "breaker" or other inflammable structure for the preparation or storage of coal shall be erected nearer than two hundred (200) feet to any such opening but this act shall not be construed to prohibit the erection of a fan drift for the purpose of ventilation or of a trestle for the transportation of cars from any slope to such breaker or structure neither shall it apply to any shaft or slope until the work of development and shipment of coal has commenced Provided That this section shall not apply to breakers that are now erected

Section 6 Every abandoned slope shaft air-hole and drift shall be properly fenced around or across its entrance by the owner operator or superintendent

Section 7 Fences shall be placed around or across all underground entrances to any place not in actual course of working by the owner operator or superintendent which will prevent persons from inadvertently entering the same

Section 8 The following rules shall be observed in every shaft to which this act applies

First After each and every blast the chargeman must see that all loose material is swept down from the timbers before the workmen descend to their work

Second After a suspension of work and also after firing a blast in a shaft where explosive gases are envolved the person in charge must have the said shaft examined and tested with a safety lamp before the workmen are allowed to descend

Third Not more than four persons shall be lowered or hoisted in any shaft on a bucket at the same time and no person shall ride on a loaded bucket

Fourth Whenever persons are employed on platforms in shafts the person in charge must see that the said platforms are properly and safely constructed

Fifth While shafts are being sunk all blasts therein must be exploded by an electric battery

Sixth Any person firm or corporation who fails to comply with or who violates the provisions of this article shall be guilty of an offense against this act

ARTICLE VII

Ventilation

Section 1 The owner operator or superintendent of every mine shall provide and maintain a constant and adequate supply of pure air for the same as hereinafter provided and see that the same is circulated therein as required in this article

Section 2 It shall not be lawful to use a furnace for the purpose of ventilating any mine wherein explosive gases are generated

Section 3 The minimum quantity of air thus produced shall not be less than two hundred (200) cubic feet per minute for each and every person employed in any mine and as much more as the circumstances may require

Section 4 The ventilating current shall be conducted and circulated to and along the face sides and roof of each and every working place throughout the entire mine in sufficient quantities to dilute render harmless and sweep away smoke and noxious or dangerous gases to such an extent that all working places and traveling roads shall be in a safe and fit state to work and travel therein

Section 5 All worked out or abandoned parts of a mine in operation shall be kept free of dangerous bodies of gas or water or fenced off by sufficient walls which will prevent any gas or water from any abandoned mine or portion thereof from entering any mine or portion thereof where men are employed therein

Section 6 Every mine employing more than seventy-five (75) persons must be divided into two (2) or more districts Each district must be provided with a separate spilt or pure air and the ventilation shall be so arranged that not more than seventy-five (75) persons shall be employed at the same time in any one current or split of air The inlet and return air passages for any particular district must be separated by a pillar of coal stone or cement except where it is necessary to cut through said dividing pillar for the purposes of ventilation traffic or drainage

Section 7 All air passages shall be of sufficient area to allow the free passage of not less than two hundred (200) cubic feet of air pressure per minute for every person working therein and in no case in mines generating explosive gases shall the velocity exceed four hundred and fifty (450) lineal feet per minute in any opening through which the air currents pass if gauze safety lamps are used except in the main inlet or outlets air ways

Section 8 All cross-cuts connecting the main inlet and outlet air pasages of every district when it becomes necessary to close them permanently shall be substantially closed with brick or other suitable building material laid in mortar or cement but in no case shall said air stoppings be constructed of plank except for temporary purposes

Section 9 All doors used in assisting or in any way affecing the ventilation shall be so hung and adjusted that they will close automatically

Section 10 All main doors shall have an attendant whose constant duty it shall be to open them for transportation and travel and prevent them from standing open longer than is necessary for persons or cars to pass throgh

Section 1 All main doors shall be so placed that when one door is open another which has the same effect upon the same current shall be and remain closed and thus prevent any temporary stoppage of the air current

Section 12 An extra main door shall be so placed and kept standing open as to be out of reach of accidents and so fixed that it can be at once closed in the event of an accident to the doors in use

Section 13 The frame work of such main doors shall be substantially secured in stone or brick laid in mortar or cement unless so otherwise permitted in writing by the inspector

Section 14 All permanent air bridges shall be substantially built of such material and such strength as the circumstances may require

Section 15 The quantities of air in circulation shall be ascertained with an anemometer or other efficient instrument such measurements shall be made by the inside foreman or his assistants once a week at the inlet and outlet airways also at or near the face of each gangway and at the nearest cross-heading to the face of each gangway and at the nearest cross-heading to the face of the inside and outside chamber or breast where men are employed and the heading shall not be driven more than sixty (60) feet from the face of each chamber or breast and shall be entered in the colliery report book

Section 16 A report of these air measurements shall be sent to the inspector before the twelfth day of each month for the preceding month together with a statement of the number of persons employed in each district

Section 17 All ventilators used in mines shall be provided with recording instruments by which the speed of the ventilators or the ventilating pressure shall be registered for each hour and such data shall be preservevd at the colliery for future reference for a period of three (3) months

Section 18 Any person or persons who shall neglect or refuse or fail to comply with the provisions of this article or who shall make any false report in regard to air measurements shall be guilty of an offense against this act

ARTICLE VIII

Maps and Plans

Section 1 The owner operator or superintendent of every coal mine or colliery shall make or cause to be made an accurate map or plan of the workings or excavations of such coal mine or colliery on a scale of one hundred feet to the inch which map or plan shall exhibit the workings or excavations in each and every seam of coal and the tunnels and passages connecting with such workings or excavations It shall state in degrees the general inclination of the strata with any material deflection therein said workings or excavations and shall also state the tidal elevations of the bottom of each and every shaft slope tunnel and gangway and of any other point in the mine or on the surface where such elevation shall be deemed necessary by the inspector The map or plan shall show the number of the last survey station and date of each survey on the gangways or the most advanced workings it shall also show section of the seam on each gangway together with the coal thickness It shall also accurately show the boundary lines of the lands of the said coal mine or colliery and the proximity of the workings thereto and in case any mine contains any water dammed up in any part thereof it shall be the duty of the owner operator or superintendent to cause the true location of the said dam to be accurately marked on said map or plan together with the tidal elevation inclination of strata and area of said workings containing water and whenever any workings or excavations are approaching the workings where such dam or water is contained or situated the owner operator or superintendent shall notify the inspector of the same without delay

A true copy of which map or plan the said owner operator or superintendent shall deposit with the inspector of mines for the district in which the said coal mine or colliery is situated showing the workings of each seam if so desired by the inspector on a separate sheet of tracing muslin One copy of the said map or plan shall be kept at the colliery

Section 2 The said owner operator or superintendent shall as often as once in every six months place or cause to be placed on the said inspector's map or plan of said coal mine or colliery the plan of the extensions made in such coal mine or colliery during the preceding six months The said extensions shall be placed on the inspector's map and the map returned to the inspector within two months from the date of the last survey

Section 3 When any coal mine or colliery is worked out preparatory to being abandoned or when any lift thereof is about to be abandoned the owner operator or superintendent of such coal mine or colliery shall have the maps or plans thereof extended to include all excavations as far as practicable and such portions thereof as have been worked to the boundary lines of adjoining properties or any part or parts of the workings of which it is intended to be allowed to fill with water must be surveyed in duplicate and such surveys must practically agree and certified copies be filed with the inspector of the district in which the mines are situated

Section 4 Whenever the owner operator or superintendnt of any coal mine or colliery shall neglect or refuse or from any cause not satisfactory to the inspector shall fail for a period of three months to furnish to the inspector the map or plan of said colliery or of the extensions thereof as provided for in this act the inspector is hereby authorized to cause an accurate map or plan of such coal mine or colliery to be made at the expense of the owner thereof which cost shall be recoverable from said owner as other debts are by law recoverable

Section 5 If the inspector finds or has reason to believe that any map or plan of any coal mine or colliery furnished under the provisions of this act is materially inaccurate it shall be his duty to make application to the Court of Common Pleas of the county in which such colliery is situated for an order to have an accurate map or plan of said colliery prepared and if such survey shall prove that the map furnished was materially inaccurate or imperfect such owner operator or superintendent shall be liable for the expense incurred in making the same

Section 6 If it shall be found that the map or plan furnished by the owner operator or superintendent was not materially inaccurate or imperfect the Commonwealth shall be held liable for the expense incurred in making said test survey

Section 7 If it shall be shown that the said owner operator or superintendent has knowingly or designedly caused or allowed such map or plan when furnished to be incorrect or false such owner operator or superintendent thus offending shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine not exceeding five hundred dollars or imprisonment not exceeding three months at the discretion of the court

Section 8 The maps or plans of the several coal mines or collieries in each district and which are placed in the custody of the inspector shall be the property of the Commonwealth and shall remain in the care of the inspector of the district in which the said collieries are situated to be transferred by him to his successor in office and in no case shall a copy of the same be made without the consent of the owner operator or superintendent

Section 9 The inspector's map or plan of any particular colliery shall be open for inspection in the presence of the inspector to any miner or miners of that colliery whenever said miner or miners shall have cause to fear his or their working place or places are becoming dangerous by reason of the proximity to other workings which may be supposed to contain water or dangerous gases or for any other reason map shall also be open to the inspection and examination of any citizen interested during business hours

Section 10 It shall be obligatory on the owners of adjoining coal properties to leave or cause to be left a pillar of coal in each seam or vein of coal worked by them along the line of adjoining property of such width that taken in connection with the pillar to be left by the adjoining property owner will be a sufficient barrier for the safety of the employees of either mine in case the other should be abandoned and allowed to fill with water such width of pillar to be determined by the engineer of the adjoining property owners together with the inspector of the district in which the mine is situated and the surveys of the face of the workings along such pillars shall be made in duplicate and must practically agree A copy of such duplicate surveys certified to must be filed with the owners of the adjoining properties and with the inspector of the district in which the mine or property is situated

Section 1 Any person firm or corporation who fails to comply with the provisions of this article shall be deemed guilty of an offense against this act

ARTICLE IX

General Rules

Section 1 In every working approaching any place where there is likely to be an accumulation of explosive gas or where workings are required to be examined by safety lamps before the men enter the mine as required in section three article four of this act no light or fire other than a locked safety lamp shall be allowed or used unless permission is given in writing by the inspector of the district specifying what kind of lamps may be used if the inspector gives permission in writing to the superintendent to use other than locked safety lamps he can withdraw that permission in writing at any time to prevent the use of open lights in the mine In testing for gas however the use of any safety lamp approved by the chief of the Department of Mines will be permitted

Section 2 No one except a duly authorized person shall have in his possession a key of any other contrivance for the purpose of unlocking any safety lamp in any mine where locked safety lamps are used No Lucifer matches or any other apparatus for striking light shall be taken into such mine or parts thereof

Section 3 Every workman in want of props ties cappieces rails or timbers shall notify the mine foreman or his assistant of the fact at least one day in advance giving the length of the props or timber required and in case of danger from loose roof or sides he shall not continue to cut or load coal until the said props and timber have been properly furnished and the place made secure A failure to furnish articles above mentioned to the miner or workman ordering the same on the part of the owner operator superintendent or mine foreman shall be deemed an offense against this act and shall be taken to be negligence per se on the part of the owner operator superintendent or mine foreman as the case may be of such mine in any action for the recovery of damages for accidents resulting from insufficient propping of such mine through failure to furnish the necessary props or timbers

Section 4 No blast shall be fired in any mine where locked safety lamps are used except by permission of the mine foreman or assistant mine foreman and before a blast is fired the person in charge must examine the place and adjoining places and satisfy himself that it is safe to fire such blast before such permission is given

Section 5 The doors of any carriage cage bucket or gun boat shall not face downwards while persons are being hoisted or lowered in any shaft slope or plane

Section 6 No person shall ride upon or against any loaded car cage or gun boat in any shaft slope or plane in or about a mine or colliery

Section 7 Not more than ten (10) persons shall be hoisted or lowered at any one time in any shaft or slope and whenever five (5) persons shall arrive at the bottom of any shaft or slope in which persons are regularly hoisted or lowered they shall be furnished with an empty car or cage and be hoisted except however in mines where there is provided a traveling way having an average pitch of fifteen (15) degrees or less and not more than one thousand (1,000) feet in length This however shall not prohibit the hoisting or lowering of twenty (20) persons at one time on slopes where two (2) or more loaded cars are regularly hoisted Provided that not less than thirty (30) workmen working therein make such request in writing to the inspector of the district and after inspection by him he finds the hoisting appliances in every respect are of sufficient strength he may comply with the request of the workmen Provided that in any coal mine or colliery where the hoisting appliances are not of sufficient strength to hoist or lower the number of persons named he shall have the power to reduce the number of persons to be hoisted or lowered

Section 8 Every engineer shall work his engine slowly and with great care when any person is being lowered or hoisted in a shaft or slope and no one shall interfere with or intimidate him while in the discharge of his duties

Section 9 An engineer who has charge of the hoisting machinery by which persons are lowered or hoisted in the mine shall be in constant attendance for that purpose during the whole time any person or persons are below ground and he shall not allow any person or persons except such as may be deputed by the owner operator or superintendent to handle or meddle with the engine under his charge or any part of its machinery

Section 10 No person engaged as hoisting engineer at or about the anthracite coal mines of this Commonwealth part of whose duties it is to lower men and boys into and hoist them and coal from the said mines shall be engaged for a longer period than eight (8) hours out of each day of twenty-four (24) hours

Section 11 The engineer shall operate his engine with great care and in such manner that the cage carriage or gun boat shall not exceed a speed of one thousand (1000) feet per minute in shafts and five hundred (500) feet per minute in slopes when any person is being lowered or hoisted in a shaft or slope and no person shall interfere with him while in the discharge of his duties

Section 12 In any shaft or slope where the engine has been standing idle for one-half hour or more an empty trip shall be hoisted as a precautionary measure before any person shall be permitted to ride on the cage carriage or gun boat

Section 13 No person except those who have permission from the superintendent shall enter the engine house while the engineer is on duty and no person shall engage in conversation with the engineer while his engine is in motion Telephone or speaking tubes installed to engine houses shall not be used by any person except to communicate with the engineer and then only on matters pertaining to the engineer's duties under this act

Section 14 When any person is about to descend or ascend a shaft or slope the headman or footman as the case may be shall inform the engineer by signal or otherwise of the fact and the engineer shall return a signal before moving or starting the engine In the absence of a headman or footman the person or persons about to descend or ascend shall give or receive the signals in the same manner

Section 15 Any miner or other workman who shall discover any thing wrong with the ventilating current or with the condition of the roof side timber or road way or with any part of the mine in general such as would lead him to suspect danger to himself or his fellow workmen or to the property of his employer shall immediately report the same to the mine foreman or other person for the time being in charge of the portion of the mine

Section 16 Any person or persons who shall knowingly or willfully damage or without proper authority remove or render useless any fencing means of signalling apparatus instrument or machine or shall throw open or obstruct any airway or open a ventilating door and not have the same closed or enter a place in or about a mine against caution or carry fire open lights or matches in places where safety lamps are used or handle without proper authority or disturb any machinery or cars or do any other act or thing whereby the lives or health of persons or the security of property in or about a mine or colliery are in danger shall be guilty of an offense against this act

Section 17 Gun powder or any other explosive shall not be stored in a mine and the workmen shall not have at any time in any one place more than one keg or box containing twenty-five (25) pounds unless more is necessary for a person to accomplish one day's work

Section 18 Any person who has gun powder or other explosive in a mine shall keep it in a wooden or metallic box securely locked and said box shall be located at a place of safety

Section 19 Whenever a workman shall open a box containing explosives or while in any manner handling the same he shall first place his lamp not less than five (5) feet from such explosive and in such a position that the air current cannot convey sparks to it and a workman shall not approach nearer than five (5) feet to an open box containing powder with a lamp lighted pipe or any other thing containing fire

Section 20 When high explosives other than gun poyder are used in any mine the manner of storing keeping moving charging and firing or in any manner using such explosives shall be in accordance with special rules as furnished by the manufacturers of the same The rules shall be endorsed with his or their official signature and shall be approved by the owner operator or superintendent of the mine in which such explosives are used

Section 21 In charging holes for blasting coal slate or rock in any mine no iron or steel pointed neeedles shall be used and a tight cartridge shall not be rammed into a hole in coal slate or rock with an iron or steel tamping bar unless the end of the tamping bar is tipped with at least six (6) inches of copper or other soft material

Section 22 A charge of powder or any other explosive in coal slate or rock which has missed fire shall not be withdrawn or the hole reopened

Section 23 When a workman is about to fire a blast he shall be careful and notify all persons who may be in danger therefrom and give sufficient alarm to warn any person or persons who might be aproaching

Section 24 No person shall be employed to blast coal or rock unless he is competent and qualified to do so and has successfully passed an examination before a miners' examining board and received a certificate of qualification from said board

Section 25 An accumulation of gas in miners shall not be removed by brushing where it is possible to remove it by brattice

Section 26 When gas is ignited by blast or otherwise the person igniting the same if he discovers it shall make a reasonable effort to extinguish it and if the the same is not extinguished by him he shall notify the mine foreman or assistant mine foreman of the fact

Section 27 Every fireman in charge of a boiler or boilers for the generation of steam shall keep a constant watch of the same and be in constant attendance in the boiler house while on duty He shall see that the steam pressure does not at any time exceed the limit allowed by the superintendent He shall frequently try the safety valve and shall not increase the weight on the same he shall maintain a proper depth of water in each boiler and if anything should happen to prevent this he shall report the same without delay to the superintendent or other person for the time being in charge and take such other action as may under these circumstances be necessary for the protection of life and the preservation of property

Section 28 At every shaft or slope in which provision is made in this act for lowering or hoisting persons a headman and footman shall be designated by the superintendent to be at their proper places from the time that persons begin to descend until all the persons who may be at the bottom of said shaft or slope or any intermediate lift thereof when quitting work shall be hoisted Such headman and footman shall personally attend to the signals and see that the provisions of this act in respect to lowering and hoisting persons in shafts or slopes shall be complied with

Section 29 No person except the man giving the signal shall jump or a car cage or gun boat after the signal to start has been given and if any person should enter a car cage or gun boat in excess of the lawful number the headman or footman shall notify him of the fact and request him to get off which request must be immediately complied with Any violation of this rule must be reported promptly to the mine foreman

Section 30 When motors or engines are used in any mine their speed shall not exceed six (6) miles per hour and an efficient alarm shall be provided and attached to the front end of the trip in the direction in which it is imoving

Section 31 No person shall couple or uncouple loaded or empty cars while the same are in motion Provided however that this shall not apply to the top or bottom men of slopes planes or shafts or any intermediate lift thereof

Section 32 Whenever cars are run on gravity roads by brakes or sprags the runner shall only ride on the rear end of the last car and a space of not less than three (3) feet from the body of the car to the side of the gravity road shall be left on both sides of said gravity road wherever it may be necessary for the runner to pass along the side of the moving car or cars and said space or passageway shall always be kept free from obstructions

Section 33 No miner shall run cars out of any breast or chamber or on any gravity road unless he is a suitable person employed by the superintendent for that particular work

Section 34 No person shall travel on any gravity slope or plane while cars are being hoisted or lowered thereon Whenever five (5) persons arrive at the bottom or top of such slope or plane on which it is necessary for men to travel traffic thereon shall be suspended for a period of time long enough to permit them to reach the top or bottom of said slope or plane

Section 35 It shall not be lawful for any owner operator or superintendent of any mine or colliery to employe any person who is not competent to understand the regulations of any mine evolving explosive gases Provided that this rule will not apply to a section of a mine free from the said explosive gases

Section 36 No person or persons working in any coal mine or colliery shall cut out any rops or timbers while the same are in position to support the roof or sides When it becomes necessary to remove any of said props or timbers it must be done by blasting or by placing a chain or rope around said props or timbers of sufficient length that the pressure necessary to remove the props or timbers can be exerted at a point of safety

Section 37 All records furnished the mine inspector of the district as provided in Article four section two and section eight shall be preserved by said inspector in his office and be the property of the Commonwealth The inspector shall allow any person or persons their relatives or legal representatives who might be interested in what such report contains to see the same and take information therefrom

Section 38 The employees of any mine at their own expense may appoint two of their number who are practical miners with not less than five (5) years' experience to inspect the mine and the persons so appointed shall be allowed to go with any person acting as legal adviser of the employee together with a mining or electrical engineer in any part of the mine where an accident has occurred to investigate the cause of such accident Every facility shall be afforded by the owner operator or superintendent for the purpose of said inspection

Section 39 No motor propelled by steam gasoline oil or any engine using fire to generate its power shall be allowed in any mine

Section 40 If the mine owner operator or superintendent shall assign any duties to the mine foreman or assistant mine foreman other than those provided for the mine foreman or assistant mine foreman by this act or if the mine foreman or assistant mine foreman perform any duties for the mine owner operator or superintendent other than those imposed on the mine foreman or assistant mine foreman by this act which the mine owner operator or superintendent knows or ought to know by the exercise of ordinary prudence the mine foreman or assistant mine foreman who performed such other duties shall be deemed the party in charge on behalf of the owner for all purposes under this act

Section 41 The main office at the colliery shall be connected by telephone with the foot of every shaft and slope and every intermediate lift thereof and also at the head and foot of all inside slopes and planes and also within a half mile of the face of each gangway in sections where persons are employed And the telephones stationed within a half mile of the face of gangways where persons are employed shall have an attendant who shall always be within hearing distance of the telephone while at work

Section 42 A telephone shall be installed at each fan house in mines generating explosives gases in order that communication can be had with the section of the mine ventilated by the fan

Section 43 In mines generating explosive gases an engineer shall be stationed at each fan house whose duty it shall be to remain at the engine during the time that workmen are in the mines Provided however that one fan engineer may attend to two fan engines if the distance between the same is not more than two hundred (200) feet

Section 44 Barometers shall be installed in the main office at every colliery and every change indicated by the barometer of the atmospheric pressure which will affect the condition of the mine must be reported immediately to the mine foreman

Section 45 The mine foreman assistant mine foreman outside foreman or any and all persons having charge of the works or any portion thereof shall be deemed the agent of the operator and shall be under the direction and supervision of the owner operator or superintendent

Section 46 In all seams having a pitch of twenty-five (25) degrees or more no less than two (2) men shall be employed in the robbing of pillars and the persons so employed must not do any work in the robbing of pillars unless in company with the other workman employed for that purpose

Section 47 No person firm or corporation shall place any miner in charge of more than one breast chamber or other working place as a miner and no person shall accept and have charge of as a miner any more than one breast chamber or other working face at one and the same time

Section 48 No fuse or caps shall be used in or about any mine for the purpose of blasting except those approved by the chief of the Department of Mines provided however that all powders fuse caps and explosives listed as permissible by the Bureau of Mines of the United States Government can be used in blasting in any mines

Section 49 The report to be furnished to the mine inspector as required by section two and section eight of article four of this act shall be upon blanks approved by the chief of the Department of Mines

Section 50 Any person firm or corporation who fails to comply with the provisions of this article shall be deemed guilty of an offense against this act

ARTICLE X

Electricity

Section 1 When elecricity is generated on the surface at any mine and the current is to be conducted by wires or cable into the mine for the purpose of power there in no such wires or cables shall be strung in shafts or slopes where men are hoisted or lowered

Section 2 No wire to conduct electricity in a mine containing a voltage sufficient to cause death or serious injury to persons employed therein shall be strung in any place or places where workmen can inadvertently come in contact with the same

Section 3 Trolley wires used to carry the voltage for electric hauling motors shall not contain a pressure of over two hundred and fifty (250) volts and the same shall be placed i nthe m ne or any part thereof in such manner that workmen cannot inadvertently come in contact with the same

Section 4 Stationary motors used in a mine or any part thereof shall be enclosed in flame proof castings which when completely filled with a mixture of methane and air are capable of either confining the product of such explosion or of so discharging them from the casting that they cannot ignite a mixture of methane and air combined its proportions most sensitive to ignition and entirely surrounding the points of discharge and in most intimate proximity therewith

Section 5 Any person firm or corporation who fails to comply with the provisions of this article shall be deemed guilty of an offense against this act

ARTICLE XI

Wash Houses

Section 1 It shall be the duty of the owner operator or superintendent of each mine or colliery at the request in writing of twenty or more men employed in any of the mines to provide a suitable building not an engine or boiler house which shall be convient to the principal entrance of such mine for that use of the persons employed therein for the purpose of washing themselves and changing their clothes when entering the mine and returning therefrom which must be constructed within eight weeks from the receipt of said petition The said building shall be maintained in good sanitary condition and order be properly lighted and heated and supplied with pure cold and warm water and shall be provided with facilities for persons to wash If any person or persons shall neglect or fail to comply with the provisions of this article or maliciously injure or destroy or cause to be injured or destroyed the said building or any part thereof or any of the appliances or fittings used for supplying light heat or water therein or doing any act tending to the injury or destruction thereof he or they shall be deemed guilty of an offense against this act

ARTICLE XII

Ambulances and Stretchers

Section 1 The owner operator or superintendent of every mine or colliery except as hereinafter provided shall provide and keep at such mine or colliery an ambulance and also at least two (2) stretchers for the purpose of conveying to their places of abode any person or persons who may be injured while in the discharge of his or their work at such mine or colliery

Section 2 The said ambulance shall be constructed upon good substantial and easy springs It shall be covered and closed and shall have windows on the side or ends It shall be of sufficient size to convey at least two (2) injured persons with two (2) attendants at one time and shall be provided with spring mattresses or other comfortable bedding to be laced on roller frames together with sufficient covering and protection and convenient movement of the injured It shall also be provided with seats for the attendants The stretchers shall be constructed of such material and in such manner as to afford the greatest ease and comfort in the carriage of the injured person

Section 3 Whenever any person or persons employed in or about a mine or colliery shall receive such injury by accident or otherwise while so employed as would render him or them unable to walk to his or their place of abode the owner operator or superintendent of such mine or colliery shall immediately cause such person or persons to be removed to his or their place of abode or to a hospital as the case may require

Section 4 It is provided however that where two or more mines or collieries are located within one mile of each other or the ambulance is located within one mile of each colliery but one ambulance as aforesaid shall be required if the said mines or colliery shall have ready and quick means of communication one with the other by telegraph or telephone

Section 5 An ambulance as aforesaid shall not be required at any mine or colliery at which less than twenty (20) persons are employed

Section 6 In case of the distance from any mine or colliery to the place of abode of the person injured is such as to permit his conveyance to his home or to a hospital more quickly and conveniently by railway such mode of conveyance shall be permitted but in such case the conveyance must be under cover and the comforts of the injured person must be provided for

Section 7 Any person firm or corporation who fails to comply with any of the foregoing sections or any of the provisions of this article shall be guilty of an offense against this act

ARTICLE XIII

Emergency Hospital

Section 1 After the passage of this act it shall be unlawful to operate any mine where twenty or more persons are employed inside unless said mine is provided with a sufficient quantity of linseed or olive oil bandages splints and woolen and water-proof blankets Said articles shall be stored in a room to be known as the Emergency Hospital erected at a convenient place in the mine and on the surface which shall not be less than eight by twelve feet and sufficiently furnished lighted kept clean and properly ventilated so that medical treatment may be given therein promptly to injured employes

There shall also be provided small handboxes in which shall be kept a quantity of oils bandages and splints which shall be stored in each lift of the mine and the same shall be taken to the scene of accident and the injured cared for preparatory to being taken to the emergency hospital

Section 2 It shall be the duty of the mine foreman or an assistant mine foreman in case of a serious personal injury to an employe from any cause to at once visit the scene of the accident see that the injured is properly cared for wrapped in woolen blankets and removed to the emergency hospital in the mine or on the surface and then so treated as will add to the comfort and ease of the patient Immediately thereafter the injured person shall be wrapped up and sent to the surface and taken to his home or to a hospital The mine foreman shall keep a book showing the required articles on hand name of the person injured nature of the injury treatment and by whom treated at the time of accident

Section 3 The neglect or refusal to perform the duties required by this article by any person required to perform them or the violation of any requirement hereof shall be deemed guilty of an offense against this act

ARTICLE XIV

Certified Mine Foreman

Section 1 It shall not be unlawful neither shall it be prohibited for any person or persons to act as mine foreman or assistant mine foreman in any coal mine or colliery unless they are registered as a holder of a certificate of qualification under act and are citizens of the United States of America

Section 2 Certificates of qualification to mine foreman and assistant mine foreman shall be granted by the Chief of the Department of Mines to every applicant who may be reported by the examiners as hereinafter provided as having passed a satisfactory examination and as having given satisfactory evidence of at least five years' practical experience as a miner and of good conduct capability and sobriety

The certificate shall be in manner and form as shall be prescribed by the Chief of the Department of Mines and a record of all certificates issued shall be kept in his department

Section 3 For the purpose of examination of candidates for such certificates a board of examiners shall be appointed in each of the inspection districts provided for by this act The said board shall consist of the District Inspector of Mines two (2) practical miners and one owner operator or superintendent of a mine The said inspector shall act ex-officio and the said engineer and owner operator or superintendent shall be appointed in like manner and at the time as the board of examiners for candidates for mine inspectorship under this act are now appointed The said board shall act as such for the period of one year from the date of their appointment Meetings of the board may be held at any time and they may make such rules and conduct such examinations as in their judgment may seem proper for the purpose of such examinations The said board shall report their action to the Chief of the Department of Mines and at least three (3) of the members thereof shall certify to the qualification of such candidate who has passed a successful examination The traveling expenses of the members of such said board to and from their place of meeting together with the sum of six dollars per day each to the said two (2) practical miners owner operator or superintendent members of each board for each day they are actually engaged therein not exceeding twelve (12) days in all during the year shall be paid by the Commonwealth on an order of the Auditor General drawn on the State Treasurer upon the certificate of the mine inspector member of such board

Section 4 The said board shall be permitted to engage the services of a clerk who shall be paid in like manner as the miner superintendent or owner member of the board

Section 5 Certificates of qualification to mine foreman and assistant mine foreman shall be granted by the Chief of the Department of Mines to every applicant who may be reported by the examiners as heretofore provided as having passed a satisfactory examination and as having given satisfactory evidence of at least five (5) years practical experience as a miner Certificates of qualification shall contain the full name age and place of birth of the applicant as also the length and nature of his previous service in or about the mines

Section 8 Before certificates as aforesaid shall be granted applicants for same shall pay to the Chief of the Department of Mines the following fee namely

For examination one dollar for registration of certificate one dollar for certificate one dollar All fees so received shall be pail into the treasury of the Commonwealth

Section 7 No mine shall be operated for a longer period than thirty days without the supervision of a mine foreman In case any mine is wrecked a longer period than thirty (30) days without the supervision of a mine foreman the owner operator or superintendent thereof shall be subject to a penalty of twenty dollars per day for each day over the said thirty (30) days during which the said mine is operated

Section 8 In case of the loss or destruction of a certificate the Chief of the Department of Mines may supply a copy thereof to the person losing the same upon the payment of the sum of fifty (50c) cents Provided it shall be shown to the satisfaction of the Chief of the Department of Mines that the loss has actually occurred

Section 9 If any person or persons shall forge or counterfeit a certificate or knowingly make or cause to be made any false statement in any certificate under this act or in any official copy of the same or shall urge others to do so or shall utter or use any such forged or false certificate or unofficial copy thereof or shall make give utter produce or make use of any false declaration representation or statement in any such certificate or copy thereof or any document containing the same he or they shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be fined two hundred dollars or imprisonment for a term not exceeding one (1) year or either or both at the discretion of the court trying the case

Section 10 In addition to the fines and penalties provided in sections seven and nine of this article any person firm or corporation violating any of the provisions of this article shall be guilty of an offense against this act

ARTICLE XV

Inspectors and Inspection Districts

Section 1 The counties of Luzerne Lackawanna Sullivan Susquehanna Wayne Carbon Schuylkill Northumberland Columbia and Dauphin shall be divided into eight inspection districts as follows

Section 2 First district—county of Luzerne

Second district—county of Lackawanna

Third district—county of Carbon

Fourth district—county of Schuylkill

Fifth district—county of Northumberland

Sixth district—county of Columbia

Seventh district—county of Dauphin

Eighth district—counties of Susquehanna Wayne and Sullivan

Section 3 In order to fill any vacancy that may occur in the office of inspector of mines by reason of the expiration of term resignation removal for cause or the creation of a new district or from any other reason whatever the judges of the court or Lackawanna county shall appoint an examining board for the county of Lackawanna and the judges of the court of Luzerne county shall appoint an examining board for the counties of Carbon and Luzerne and the judges of Schuylkill county shall appoint an examining board for the counties of Schuylkill Northumberland Columbia and Dauphin and the judge of the court of Susquehanna county shall appoint an examining board for the counties of Susquehanna Wayne and Sullivan Whenever owing to the creation of a new district or for any other reason an inspection district shall be without a board of examiners the judge or judges of that court in which is vested the appointing power for that district shall appoint a board of examiners for said district as soon as such a vacancy arises The members of said board or boards shall hold their positions until the first term of said court of the following year when the successors shall be named as provided by law

Section 4 The said board of examiners shall be composed of three reputable coal miners in actual practice and two reputable mining engineers all of whom shall be appointed at the first term of court in each year to hold their places during the year Any vacancies that may occur in the board of examiners shall be filled by the court as they occur The said board of examiners shall be permitted to engage the services of a clerk and they together with the clerk shall each receive the sum of six ($6.00) dollars per day for every day they are actually engaged in the discharge of their duties under this appointment and mileage at the rate of six cents per mile from their home to the place of meeting and return by the nearest practicable railway route

Section 5 Whenever candidates for the office of inspector are to be examined the said examiners shall give public notice of the fact in not more than five newspapers published in the inspection district and at least two weeks before the meeting specifying the time and place where such meeting shall be held The said examiners shall be sworn to a faithful discharge of their duties and at least four of them shall sign a certificate setting forth the fact of the applicants having passed a successful examination and who have answered ninety per cent of the question the names of the applicants the questions and answers thereto shall be sent to the Chief of the Department of Mines and published in at least two papers daily or weekly and shall give such certificates to only such applicants as have passed the required examination

Section 6 The said Board of Examiners shall hold at least one such examination during each year at least six months before the date of the general election in the month of November of each year

Section 7 The qualified electors of the several inspection districts mentioned in this act shall select respectively the following number of qualified persons to act as mine inspectors of this Commonwealth namely

First inspection district six inspectors
Second inspection district five inspectors
Third inspection district one inspector
Fourth inspection district four inspectors
Fifth inspection district two inspectors
Sixth inspection district one inspector
Seventh inspection district one inspector
Eighth inspection district one inspector

Said inspectors elected under this act shall be under the direction of the Chief of the Department of Mines who shall assign districts to the several inspectors in the respective counties in which they are elected but where an inspector has not enough work or duty to perform in his own inspection district then it shall be the right of the Chief of the Department of Mines to assign said inspector to work or duty in another adjoining district or territory wherein the services of said inspector are necessary

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to,

Ordered. To be transcribed for a third reading.

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in committee of the whole being in this case dispensed with,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1563, entitled:

An Act making it unlawful to use any electric current for any purpose in any room breast or entry where miners are engaged in mining or loading coal in any bituminous coal mine in the State of Pennsylvania generating explosive gases and providing a penalty

The first, second and third sections were separately read and agreed to as follows:

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by authority of the same That from and after the passage of this act it shall be unlawful for any person or persons firm or corporation whether as owners lessees or agents to use or cause to be used an electric current for any purpose in any room breast or entry where miners are engaged in mining or loading coal in any bituminous coal mine in the State of Pennsylvania generating explosive gases Provided however that this regulation shall not apply to the use of electricity in the main haulage ways of said mines

Section 2 Every person owner lessee or agent or executive officer of any corporation violating the provisions of this act shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall for the first offense be sentenced to undergo imprisonment for not less than three years nor more than five years and for a subsequent violation of the provisions of this act be sentenced to undergo imprisonment for not less than five years nor more than ten years at the discretion of the court

Section 3 All acts or parts of acts inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed

The title was read as follows:

An Act making it unlawful to use any electric current for any purpose in any room or entry where miners are engaged in mining or loading coal in any bituminous coal mine in the State of Pennsylvania generating explosive gases and providing a penalty

On the question,

Will the House agree to the title?

Mr. McDERMOTT. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer the following amendments to title.

The amendments were read by the Clerk.

Title, line 2. After "room" insert "breast."
Title, line 3. Strike out "State," insert "Commonwealth."

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

Mr. McDERMOTT. Mr. Speaker, I want to explain this bill to the House. I want this House to understand where the propostion is coming from and I think in justice to myself this bill ought to be explained to this honorable body. You ought to know that this bill regulates electricity in the mines where it generates gas sufficiently to be detected by a safety lamp. This bill does not apply to any mines that don't generate gas sufficient to be detected by a safety lamp. Why, I want to state that if this law would have been in effect when the Marianna explosion took place, when over one hundred and fifty men were blown into eternity, these men would be living to-day. What did that company do on the strength of that explosion? They took out the electric mining apparatus and installed compressed air. Every mine that generates gas sufficient to be detected with a safety lamp must be taken out of all mines. The head of the department, Mr. Roderick, has advised it in his report of 1911, that if electricity is not controlled more effectively, that it will have to be taken out of mines altogether. This only changes the title of the bill, by inserting the word "Commonwealth" instead of "State." The other change which it makes is to insert "breast" after the word "room." I ask the House to support me in this bill for it means thousands of lives saved and millions of dollars' worth of property saved to this Commonwealth. We have a right to protect the men and the miners in this hazardous occupation, even if it does cost a little more to put the output on the market.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

They were agreed to.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on second reading?

So the question was determined in the negative and the bill was not agreed to.

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in committee of the whole being in this case dispensed with,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1800, entitled:

An Act defining indecent assault and providing penalty for same

The first section of the bill was read as follows:

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That if any person male or female shall lay hands with lascivious intent upon the person and private parts of any other person male or female under the age of sixteen years with or without such person's consent or if any person male or female shall lie upon the body or person of any other person or shall or touch another person in the private parts with lascivious intent then such person so offending shall be guilty of misdemeanor and shall be punishable by imprisonment not exceeding five years

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer the following amendment:

The amendment was read by the Clerk as follows:

Amend Section one line three after the word "same" by striking out the whole of the section and inserting in lieu thereof the following:

"That if any person male or female shall lay hands with lascivious intent upon the private parts of any other person male or female under the age of sixteen years with or without such person's consent or if any person male or female shall lie upon the body or touch the private parts with lascivious intent of any other person under the age of sixteen years with or without such person's consent then such person so offending shall be guilty of misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof be sentenced to undergo an imprisonment not exceeding five years and to pay a fine not exceeding five hundred dollars or either or both in the discretion of the court."

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

It was agreed to.

The section as amended was then agreed to.

The title of the bill was read and agreed to as follows:

An Act defining indecent assault and providing penalty for same

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on second reading, as amended?

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker, where consent would be given to any indecent assault, under our present law that negatives any idea of assault and battery, because consent and assault are terms in conflict. This bill is meant to protect the boy or girl under sixteen years of age from the wiles and moral weaknesses of the moral prevert. The same situation was called to my attention when reading a case in the Supreme Court reports of Ohio, where the justice of the Supreme Court suggested that the Legislature take the matter in hand. A case was tried in Philadelphia County in which I saw the plain necessity for such a bill as this and I am giving that protection which I think the law should give to the female or male under the age of sixteen from the actions of the moral pervert.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, (Mr. Roney) permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker, Yes, sir.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, as I read the bill there is no exception in it in relation to married persons under sixteen years of age.

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker, of course this could not apply to married persons because of the construction of unlawful carnal intercourse, because the intercourse that exists between married people is not lascivious and the law recognizes it as perfectly lawful. It is not the intent that married persons should be included in this bill; in fact, I think this bill excludes them, because the relations between man and wife are in no sense lascivious.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on second reading as amended?

It was agreed to.

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to, as amended,

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in committee of the whole being in this case dispensed with,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 556, entitled:

An Act to provide for the compensation by the proper county of the licensed practitioner of medicine of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania for the execution and furnishing certificates of death birth and health and the various reports of contagious and reportable diseases and other medical certificates and reports required by law and the rules and regulations of the Department of Health of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and to provide that the county treasurer of each and every county in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and the Commissioner of Health of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania shall carry out the provisions of this act

The first, second, third, fourth and fifth sections and preamble were separately read and agreed to as follows:

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That from and after the date of the passage of this act the county treasurer of each county in this Commonwealth shall pay out of the funds of the county upon proper warrant as hereinafter provided twenty-five cents for each certificate of death and certificate of birth to the physician executing and signing and furnishing to the proper health authorities such certificate

Section 2 The Commissioner of Health of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania shall after the date of the passage of this act on or before the tenth day of January April July and October of each year send to each licensed physician in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania who has furnished one or more death certificates or birth certificates a statement or voucher addressed to the county treasurer of the county in which such death or birth occurred setting forth the name and address of the licensed physician who furnished certificates of same to the proper health authorities and the number of death certificates and the number of birth certificates as required by law or the rules and regulations of the Department of Health of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania furnished by said licensed physician during the three calendar months last preceding and the Commissioner of Health of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania shall in issuing the above statement or voucher use the form as hereinafter provided in section three of this act

Section 3 The form to be used by the Commissioner of Health of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in carrying out the provisions of section two of this act shall be as follows

To the county treasurer of (name of county) county Pennsylvania greeting

'I (name of Commissioner of Health of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania) Commissioner of Health of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby certify that doctor (name of licensed physician furnishing certificates) of (address of said licensed physician) has furnished to the proper health authorities as required by law and the rules and regulations of the Department of Health of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania during the months (name of three calendar months last preceding) (year) certificates as follows

Death certificates to the number of (number furnished)

Birth certificates to the number of (number furnished)

Certificates required by law or by the rules and regulations of the Department of Health of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania (number furnished) occurring in your county of (name of county) under the professional care of the above named licensed physician and you are therefore hereby commanded as required by law to pay on presentation of this voucher to doctor (name of licensed physician furnishing certificates) above named the sum of (amount due) dollars ( ) cents this being at the legal rate of twenty-five cents per certificate or report and this shall be sufficient warrant to you for such payment

(Signature of the Commissioner of Health of the. Commonwealth of Pennsylvania)
Commissioner of Health of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania

This voucher shall bear the seal of the Department of Health of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania

Section 4 The county treasurer of each county of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania shall upon demand pay out of the funds of the county to the licensed physician named in such voucher as set forth in section three of this act the sum set forth in the voucher as being due said licensed physician provided said voucher bears the signature of the Commissioner of Health of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and bears the seal of the Department of Health of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania

Section 5 All other acts or parts of acts general special or local pertaining to this subject matter covered by this act and inconsistent herewith be and the same are hereby repealed

Whereas, The laws of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and the rules and regulations of the Department of Health of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania require licensed practitioners of medicine to report in writing to the Health officers of the local health districts each case of a disease designated by law or by the rules and regulations of the State Department of Health as contagious or reportable and

Whereas, The licensed physicians of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania are required by law or the rules and regulations of the Department of Health of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania to furnish to the proper authorities certificates of health birth and death and

Whereas, The furnishing of such reports and certificates aids very materially in the protection of the health and lives of the citizens of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in general and in the local health districts in particular therefore

The title was read as folows:

An Act to provide for the compensation by the proper county of the licensed practitioner of medicine of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania for the execution and furnishing certificates of death birth and health and the various reports of contagious and reportable diseases and other medical certificates and reports required by law and the rules and regulations of the Department of Health of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and to provide that the county treasurer of each and every county in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and the Commissioner of Health of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania shall carry out the provisions of this act

On the question,

Will the House agree to the title?

Mr. RICHARDS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer the following amendment:

The amendment was read by the Clerk as follows:

Title: Strike out the title and insert in lieu thereof the following: "An Act providing for the compensation by the proper county of licensed physicians for certain reports and certificates required to be furnished to the State Department of Health; and fixing the duties of the respective county treasurers and of the Commissioner of Health."

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

It was agreed to.

The title as amended was then agreed to.

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to, as amended,

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in committee of the whole being in this case dispensed with,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 961, entitled:

An Act to amend the twenty-eighth section of an act entitled "An Act to consolidate revise and amend the laws of this Commonwealth relating to penal proceedings and pleadings" approved the thirty-first day of March one thousand eight hundred and sixty Pamphlet Laws page four hundred thirty-seven so as to include all acts of embezzlement committed within statutory period

The first section was read as follows:

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That the twenty-eighth section of an act approved the thirty-first day of March one thousand eight hundred and sixty entitled "An Act to consolidate revise and amend the laws of this Commonwealth relating to penal proceedings and pleading" which reads as follows

"Section 28 It shall be lawful in cases of embezzlement by clerks servants or other persons in the employ of another to charge in the indictment and proceed against an offender where any distinct acts of embezzlement not exceeding three which may have been committed by him against the same master or employer within the space of six calendar months from the first to the last of such acts and in every such indictment except where the offence shall relate to a chattel it shall be sufficient to allege the embezzlement to be of money without specifying any particular coin or valuable security and such allegation so far as regards the description of the property shall be sustained if the offender shall be proved to have embezzled any amount although the particular species of coin or valuable security of which such amount was composed shall not be proved or if he shall be proved to have embezzled any piece of coin or valuable security or any portion of the value thereof although such piece of coin or valuable security may have been delivered to him in order that some part of the value thereof should be returned to the party delivering the same and such part shall have been returned accordingly" is hereby amended to read as follows

Section 28 It shall be lawful in cases of embezzlement by clerks servants or other persons in the employ of another to charge in the indictment and proceed against an offender for any distinct acts of embezzlement and in every such indictment except where the offense shall relate to a chattel it shall be sufficient to allege the embezzlement to be of money without specifying any particular coin or valuable security and such allegation so far as regards the description of the property shall be sustained if the offender shall be proved to have embezzled any amount although the particular species of coin or valuable security of which such amount was composed shall not be proved or if he shall be proved to have embezzled any piece of coin or valuable security or any portion of the value thereof although such piece of coin or valuable security may have been delivered to him in order that some part of the value thereof should be returned to the party delivering the same and such part shall have been returned accordingly

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

Mr. BERNTHEIZEL. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer the following amendment.

The amendment was read by the Clerk as follows:

Section one, line twelve, strike out "where" insert "for"

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

It was agreed to.

The section as amended was then agreed to.

The title was then read and agreed to as follows:

An Act to amend the twenty-eighth section of an act entitled "An Act to consolidate revise and amend the laws of this Commonwealth relating to penal proceedings and pleading" approved the thirty-first day of March one thousand eight hundred and sixty Pamphlet Laws page four hundred thirty-seven so as to include all acts of embezzlement committed within statutory period

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to, as amended,

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to call up the first bill on third reading, on page 23 of to-day's calendar. There are several typographical errors in it and the committee will meet to-day and I would like to have the bill recommitted for the purpose of amendment.

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent for the consideration of the bill at this time? The Chair hears no objection and consent is granted.

BILL ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 507, entitled:

An Act providing for an initiative and referendum system of legislation under certain conditions in all boroughs within the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

BILL RECOMMITTED.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill (House Bill No. 507) be recommitted to the Committee on Municipal Corporations.

Mr. EHRHARDT. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

RECONSIDERATION OF VOTE.

Mr. MATT. Mr. Speaker, I move that the vote by which Senate Bill No. 465, entitled:

A Joint Resolution providing for a commission to arrange for and supervise the transfer from the Library and Museum building to the new cases in rotunda of the Capitol building of the flags of Pennsylvania commands in the War for the Suppression of the Rebellion and the Spanish-American War and other flags of historical value and to arrange proper and fitting patriotic ceremony in connection therewith and making an appropriation to defray the necessary expenses incident thereto was defeated on final passage, be reconsidered.

Mr. McKAY. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. MATT. Mr. Speaker, this bill that was defeated, provides for the transferring of the flags from the Library and Museum Building to the new cases erected for them in the rotunda of the Capitol Building. It carries with it an appropriation of $10,000.00. It has been thought that that sum can be reduced and if the bill it reconsidered it is proposed to recommit it to the Committee on Appropriations, so that a smaller appropriation can be provided for, which will probably be five or six thousand dollars. I hope that the gentlemen of the House will vote for the reconsideration of this bill, so that it may be recommitted to the Committee on Appropriations and there brought into shape satisfactory to the House.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to reconsider the vote by which the bill was defeated on final passage?

It was agreed to.

The question recurring,

Shall the bill pass?

BILL RECOMMITTED.

Mr. MATT. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill (Senate Bill No. 465) be recommitted to the Committee on Appropriations.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

Mr. KITTS. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to call up for the purpose of amendment House Bill No. 1909, entitled:

An Act to repeal an act approved the sixteenth day of May one thousand eight hundred and sixty-six entitled "An Act to prevent and punish prize fights and boxing matches in the counties of Pike Schuylkill Luzerne Erie and Montgomery" in so far as the same refers to the county of Erie page 31 of to-day's calendar, bills on third reading.

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to the consideration of the bill at this time? The Chair hears no objection and consent is granted.

BILL ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the bill on third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1909, entitled:

An Act to repeal an act approved the sixteenth day of May one thousand eight hundred and sixty-six entitled "An Act to prevent and punish prize fights and boxing matches in the counties of Pike Schuylkill Luzerne Erie and Montgomery" in so far as the same refers to the County of Erie

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. KITTS. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to offer an amendment at this time.

The SPEAKER. The amendment will be read by the Clerk.

The Clerk read the amendment as follows:

Amend Section 1, line four, strike out "May," insert in lieu thereof "March."

Amend the title, line one, strike out "May," insert in lieu thereof the word "March."

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to insert the amendments as read? Is there any objection? The Chair hears none and the amendment as read will be inserted in accordance with the instructions of the House.

The bill as amended was then agreed to.

Ordered, That the bill as amended lie over for printing.

COMMUNICATION FROM THE GOVERNOR.

The SPEAKER laid before the House a communication from His Excellency the Governor, which was read as follows:

APPROVAL OF CONCURRENT RESOLUTION.

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Executive Chamber, Harrisburg, April 23, 1913.

To the Honorable, the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Gentlemen:—I have the honor to advise you that I have this day approved and signed Concurrent Resolution from the Senate and House of Representatives, recalling from the Governor for the purpose of amendment, House Bill No. 442, entitled, "An Act amending section one thousand four hundred twelve, in article fourteen of an act approved the eighteenth day of May one thousand nine hundred and eleven, entitled, 'An Act to establish a public school system in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania together with the provisions by which it shall be administered and prescribing penalties for the violation thereof providing revenue to establish and maintain the same and the method of collecting such revenue and repealing all laws general special or local or any parts thereof that are or may be inconsistent therewith' by requiring the free education in the public schools of children who are inmates of institutions for the care or training of orphans or other children."

(Signed,) JOHN K. TENER.

RECONSIDERATION OF VOTE.

Mr. JAMES A. DUNN. Mr. Speaker, I move to reconsider the vote by which House Bill No. 442, entitled:

"An Act amending section one thousand four hundred twelve in article fourteen of an act approved the eighteenth day of May one thousand nine hundred and eleven entitled 'An Act to establish a public school system in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania together with the provisions by which it shall be administered and prescribing penalties for the violation thereof providing revenue to establish and maintain the same and the method of collecting such revenue and repealing all laws general special or local or any parts thereof that are or may be inconsistent therewith' by requiring the free education in the public schools of children who are inmates of institutions for the care or training of orphans or other children"

passed finally.

Mr. H. B. DUNN. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

Mr. JAMES A. DUNN. Mr. Speaker, I move to reconsider the vote by which this bill was agreed to on third reading.

Mr. H. B. DUNN. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

BILL POSTPONED.

Mr. JAMES A. DUNN. Mr. Speaker, owing to the fact that certain amendments which are being prepared by the Reference Bureau, have not yet reached me, I move that the further consideration of this bill be postponed for the present.

Mr. H. B. DUNN. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

COMMUNICATION FROM THE GOVERNOR.

The SPEAKER also laid before the House a communication from His Excellency the Governor, which was read as follows:

APPROVAL OF CONCURRENT RESOLUTION.

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Executive Chamber, Harrisburg, April 23, 1913.

To the Honorable, the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Gentlemen:—I have the honor to advise you that I have this day approved and signed Concurrent Resolution from the Senate and House of Representatives, recalling from the Governor for the purpose of amendment, House Bill No. 1362, entitled, "An Act authorizing H. W. Brown and D. E. Brown, citizens of Cambria County, Pennsylvania, doing business as the Woodman Lumber Company, to bring suit in the Court of Common Pleas of Cambria County against the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania."

(Signed,) JOHN K. TENER.

RECONSIDERATION OF VOTE.

Mr. JOSEPH GRAY. Mr. Speaker, I move to reconsider the vote by which House Bill No. 1362, entitled:

"An Act authorizing H. W. Brown and D. E. Brown citizens of Cambria County Pennsylvania doing business as the Woodman Lumber Company to bring suit in the Court of Common Pleas of Cambria County against the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania"

passed finally.

Mr. CONNIFF. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

Mr. JOSEPH GRAY. Mr. Speaker, I move to reconsider the vote by which this bill was agreed to on third reading.

Mr. CONNIFF. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. JOSEPH GRAY. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to offer an amendment at this time.

The SPEAKER. The amendment will be read by the Clerk.

The Clerk read the amendment as follows:

Amend the last line of the title of House Bill No. 1362, file folio 3661, by striking out the word "Cambria" and inserting in lieu thereof the word "Dauphin."

Also amend Section 1, line 8, by striking out the word "Cambria" and inserting in lieu thereof the word "Dauphin."

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to insert the amendment as read? Is there any objection? The Chair hears none and the amendment as read will be inserted in accordance with the instructions of the House.

The bill as amended was then agreed to.

Ordered, That the bill as amended lie over for printing.

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on final passage of H. R. bill No. 1125, as follows:

An Act to provide revenue by taxation for the improvement of the public roads in this Commonwealth

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by authority of the same That the State authorities levying and collecting taxes shall as provided under existing laws levy and collect an additional special tax of one mill for road purposes on personal property capital stock and bonds of corporations joint stock associations companies limited partnerships gross earnings of corporations bankers brokers and foreign insurance companies which are now taxed for State purposes including the capital stock and bonds of companies limited co-partnerships and corporations engaged in manufacturing and brewing Provided The provisions of this act shall not apply to mortgages and judgments given in the purchase of real estate

Section 2 The road taxes collected under the provisions of this act shall be held by the State as a separate road fund to be distributed under the direction of the State Highway Commissioner among the several boroughs and townships of the State in proportion to the number of miles of public streets and roads in each borough and township for permanent street and road improvements the provisions of this act as to assessment and collection of taxes shall go into effect on the first day of December one thousand nine hundred and thirteen and the distribution of the road fund so collected shall be made on the first day of April in each year beginning in the year one thousand nine hundred and fifteen

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, I would like to offer an amendment to this bill.

The SPEAKER. Then the vote by which the bill passed third reading will have to be reconsidered.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, I did not understand that it had passed third reading. I understand a motion will be made to recommit the bill.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I notice this is a bill involving a great deal of revenue, and it comes from the Committee on Public Roads. As it is at present, the bill is very loosely drawn, and as it involves a proposition of several millions of dollars of taxes, I think it should be recommitted to the committee on Ways and Means where it could receive the proper consideration.

I, therefore move, Mr. Speaker, that this bill be recommitted to the Committee on Ways and Means.

The SPEAKER. The motion of the gentleman from Delaware is not in order, and cannot be until a motion is made to reconsider the vote by which the bill passed third reading.

RECONSIDERATION OF VOTE.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I move that the vote by which this bill passed third treading be reconsidered.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

The SPEAKER anounced that the noes seem to have it.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I think this bill ought to be recommitted to the Ways and Means Committee. If you were to read this bill now, you would realize what there is at stake. It is the purpose of the bill to place about a one mill tax on about everything in the State of Pennsylvania for one particular purpose. If you will look into the bill you will find that it is very loosely drawn and impracticable for its own purpose as it is now printed. Now, those who are affected by this blil have had no chance to come forward and be heard on it, because you would not look for legislation of this kind in the Public Roads Committee. Therefore, I think it should be referred to the Ways and Means Committee when it involves a question of such magnitude as this, and I think that the public should be heard on it. I hope that the House will vote to reconsider the vote by which this bill passed third reading, and then vote to refer it to the Committee on Ways and Means where all Revenue Legislation should eminate.

POINT OF ORDER.

Mr. JOSEPH GRAY. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his point of order.

Mr. JOSEPH GRAY. Mr. Speaker, my point of order is that the gentleman is speaking on a proposition that has just been voted on, and the vote announced.

The SPEAKER. The Chair rules that the point of order is well taken.

On the motion to reconsider the vote by which this bill passed third reading,

Whereupon,

A division having been called for, and 101 gentlemen voting in the affirmative and 5 in the negative, the mo tion is agreed to.

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, I move that the further consideration of this bill be postponed for the present.

Mr. MATT. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

BILL RECOMMITTED.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, if it is the sense of the House that the bill should not go back to the Ways and Means Committee, for gracious sake do not put it on the postponed calendar where it can be brought up at any moment. The bill in that place can be brought up at any moment, and it should not be placed there when we don't know what we are voting on, and since it is a measure of so much importance to the State, it certainly should not be placed on the postponed calendar. I do not think, therefore, that the House should stand for its being put there, and I believe that the vote should be taken first on that, and then, if the House decides that it should not go to that Committee, we can agree on a day or fix a day at which time to consider the bill. I move, as a substitute, for the motion made by the gentleman from Crawford, to recommit the bill to the Ways and Means Committee.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The substitute motion was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion to recommit the bill

It was agreed to.

BILLS ON FINAL PASSAGE.

Agreeably to order,

Section 11 That all acts or parts of acts inconsistent with this act are hereby repealed

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

BILL POSTPONED.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I move that further consideration of this bill be postponed for the present.

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

BILLS ON FINAL PASSAGE.

NAYS—0.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on final passage of H. R. bill No. 1458, as follows:

An Act creating a division of distribution of documents defining its powers and duties regulating the printing binding and distribution of the public documents of this Commonwealth and providing penalties for the violation of this act

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That the word "documents" as used in this act shall be taken to mean all documents books pamphlets reports and other publications of similar or analogous nature printed at the expense of the Commonwealth for any department of the State Government or any branch thereof or for the General Assembly or for any legislative committee thereof or for any commission or commissioner authorized by law The term shall not include legislative bills the legislative journal legislative calendars or routine blank books or forms used in the performance of the work of the State Government bulletins issued by the departments of the State Government nor paper books briefs or other documents and papers printed for the use of the Attorney General

Section 2 There is hereby established in the Department of Printing and Binding a division to be known as the "Division of Distribution of Documents"

Section 3 The chief of the Division shall be appointed for the term of four years by the Superintendent of Public Printing and Binding with the approval of the Governor He shall before assuming the duties of his office take and subscribe to the oath or affirmation prescribed by the Constitution of this Commonwealth and shall give bond to the Commonwealth in the sum of ten thousand dollars ($10,000) conditioned on the faithful performance by him of the duties of his office He shall receive an annual salary of two thousand four hundred dollars ($2,400)

Section 4 The Superintendent of Printing and Binding shall appoint in said Division one stenographer and typewriter who shall receive an annual salary of twelve hundred dollars ($1,200) Additional help for said Division shall be furnished when necessary by the Superintendent of Public Grounds and Buildings

Section 5 It shall be the duty of the State Printer when he shall print any documents at the expense of this Commonwealth to deliver all such documents to the Division of Distribution of Documents Failure or refusal to do so shall constitute a misdemeanor

Section 6 Whenever any documents shall be delivered to the chief of the Division he shall ascertain the number of the same and shall compare the paper printing and binding thereof with the paper printing and binding set forth in the order of the Superintendent of Public Printing and Binding to the State Priter for such documents and if he shall find any variance in the number of documents or in the quality of the paper or the printing or binding he shall report the same at once to the Superintendent of Public Printing and Binding

Section 7 It shall be unlawful for any officer of the State Government or for any legislative committee or for any commission or commissioner authorized by law to have any document printed except by the State Printer unless the State Printer is required to order printing done elsewhere because of the failure of the State Printer to do the work or it is necessary in order to expedite the printing for the said Superintendent of Public Printing to have the printing done elsewhere as now provided by law

Section 8 The chief of said Division shall distribute documents only on a written order addressed to the chief of the Division by the official or person entitled to such documents The distribution of any document the distribution of which is not provided for in this act shall be subject to the approval of the Superintendent of Public Printing and Binding

Section 9 The only persons who shall be entitled to order documents from the Division shall be the following namely the Governor the members of the General Assembly the heads and deputy heads of the various departments of the State Government Each department and each sole commissioner and the chairman of any lawful commission and the chairman of any legislative committee shall be entitled to order from the Division such document not enumerated in this act as may be necessary in the performance of the work of such department of commissioner or commission or committee or institution and also such documents not enumerated in this act as shall embody the results of the work of such department or any bureau or division thereof or of any such commissioner commission or committee

Section 10 As soon as copies of any document are delivered to the Division the Chief shall in writing notify each member of the General Assembly and each official and department and commission and committee of the number thereof to which he or it is entitled If such member of the General Assembly or official or department or commission or committee shall not requisition his or its quota within three months thereafter The documents so remaining unrequisitioned or any part thereof shall then be open to general requisition on the part of such member and official and department and commission and committee without regard to number There shall however be retained such number of each document for future use as the Superintendent of Public Printing and Binding shall determine Notification thereof shall be sent to said members and officials and departments and commissions and committees

Section 11 To the persons entitled to documents the chief shall furnish on request blank forms for orders for documents

Section 12 Whenever any department or committee or commission shall requisition and receive documents for distribution it shall be the duty of the head of such department committee or commission to file with the Division before the first day of July of each year the exact number of documents of each kind that have been requisitioned but not distributed during the year ending the first day of June preceding said first day of July

Section 13 The Board of Commissioners of Public Grounds and Buildings shall furnish adequate rooms for conducting the affairs of the Division and shall furnish and keep the same duly furnished On requisition of the Chief of the Division countersigned by the Superintendent of Public Printing and Binding it shall furnish all supplies and labor that may be necessary in conducting the affairs of the Division

Section 14 The Superintendent of Public Printing and Binding shall (on requisition of the chief of the Division) furnish all printing that may be necessary in such Division

Section 15 The chief of the division shall on or before the first day of July annually report to the Superintendent of Printing and Binding the number of documents received the manner and on whose order they have been distributed and the number remaining undistributed He shall also report the names of those who in his judgment have unreasonably requested documents or who have exceeded in their orders the number of documents to which they would reasonably be entitled He shall also suggest improved methods leading to economy in the printing and distribution of documents This report or a summary thereof shall be included in the report of said superintendent to the Governor

Section 16 Documents shall be distributed in the following manner only

1 Personally to those entitled thereto or to their duly authorized agent

2 By mail if the documents be requested singly

3 When the documents can be sent more cheaply by common carrier than by mail the distribution shall be in bulk by contract

Upon the requisition of any member of the General Assembly at any time during their term of office any document requested shall be delivered by mail or otherwise to the address of the person indicated in such requisition Due credit shall be given to the respective member by a slip attached to the front of such document upon which shall be printed "Compliments of John Doe member of the Senate (or of the House of Representatives as the case may be)" This however shall not prevent any member from having his allotment sent on requisition in bulk to his home or business address if he shall so desire

Section 17 During the month of July in each even numbered year the Superintendent of Public Printing and Binding shall by advertisemet solicit proposals for distributing documents which are to be distributed in bulk Such advertisements shall be once a week for four consecutive weeks The advertisements shall state approximately the manner in which the documents shall be shipped and shall give the time and place when and where the proposals shall be opened The Governor shall designate one daily newspaper in each of the following cities wherein such advertising shall appear namely Philadelphia Pittsburgh Scranton and Harrisburg The Governor may also designate one newspaper each in such other counties not to exceed five as he may deem proper The rates for such advertising shall not exceed the ordinary legal rate for such newspaper

Section 18 No proposal shall be considered unless it conforms to all of the following requirements

1 Each proposal shall be in duplicate one of which shall be marked "Duplicate Proposal"

2 Each proposal shall be accompanied by a certified check to the order of the State Treasurer in one-fourth of the amount of the proposal or by a bond in such form as shall be prescribed by the Superintendent of Public Printing and Binding and in the full amount of the proposal Each bond shall be conditioned for the faithful performance of the terms of the contract if awarded and shall have as surety one surety company authorized to act as surety in this Commonwealth or two sureties approved by a judge of the court of Common Pleas of the county in which the bidder resides or the county wherein shall be located the principal place of business of the bidder

3 Each proposal together with the proper bond or check shall be enclosed in an envelope securely sealed and shall be mailed or delivered to the Superintendent of Public Printing and Binding who shall retain all envelopes unopened until the time fixed by law for the opening thereof

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. SCHUCK. Mr. Speaker, I do not want to take up the time of the House with this bill unless there is some one who wishes to ask some questions regarding it. It is a very long bill, but there is very little in it that is new. The first few pages provide for a new division in the department of printing and binding. The last few pages provide for a penalty for the lack of the proper enforcement. The bulk of the bill provides for the amount of supplies that bulk o the bill provides or the amount of supplies that shall be printed for each department, and is about the same as the old law. If there is any one who wishes to know anything about the bill I will be pleased to give him the information desired. This is not the bill of one man's mind, nor of two. We visited all the departments with a view of economizing on the printing contracts to be let. I do not wish to take up any more time unless some one desires some information.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman?

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Westmoreland permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. SCHUCK. I will.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to ask the gentleman how many new offices it creates.

Mr. SCHUCK. Mr. Speaker, it provides for the Head of the Division, a Division Chief, at twenty-four hundred dollars a year, and one assistant who shall be a stenographer at twelve hundred dollars a year. In the original provisions of the act, it called for two assistants, but the printing committee after advising with the head of the Printing and Binding Department with a view to economy cut off the two assistants and left it with one man at two hundred dollars, under a ten thousand dollar bond, which we did not think exorbitant, and the one assistant to be a stenographer at twelve hundred dollars a year.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to further interrogate the gentleman, and ask whether or not all the things provided for by the proposed newly created department are not now being attended to by the force of the Resident Clerk.

Mr. SCHUCK. Mr. Speaker, the chief object of this distribution act is to prevent the members of this House or Senate or any one in any department from having sent to them a lot of material and documents and reports which they don't want. This bill provides that you shall be entitled to so many requisitions of each report of the Phamplet Laws, and such books as Smulls and various other documents and that you are entitled to that. You can requisition that individually—that is, in separate requisitions. This department will mail from time to time to you or for your constituents what you requisition for; they prepare and stamp the first leaf; that is the popular feature which avoids double transportation and is a great advantage to the officials and members. Under the present system, some of the members cellars are full of documents that are never distributed and every member that has been here for a number of years has hundreds of dollars worth of books in some out of the way place or side office that he has never distributed. Under this act, you get only the reports that you have made a requisition for. You can make a requisition and have them sent in bulk by frieght or you can have them sent in piece meal, one piece at a time.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman has answered almost everything but my question. I desire to ask him again whether or not the general duties prescribed by this bill are not now performed by the Resident Clerks' force.

Mr. SCHUCK. Mr. Speaker, no, sir. They are not.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, under the present system my experience has been that the law, in the first place, provides for the printing of certain reports and in the next place, each year at the close of the sesison of this House, the resident clerk sends out a box of books to each member which covers the reports and documents which are issued by the various departments of the state and they are sent to the various members so that they may distribute these reports among their constituents, and if a member of this House should be in dire need of a number of extra copies, he can make a new requisition on the resident clerk and have his wants supplied as a general rule. I see no necessity for this bill. I see no necessity of creating a new department; I see no necessity of changing the manner of sending out these publications and it looks very selfish to me that a member of this House when he wants a report sent to some one of his constituents that he should place a requisition with this newly created department and have it sent at the expense of the State. If he has enough interest in that constituent to send him a report he ought to certainly have enough interest to put on the postage himself and have it sent to him and not ask the State to pay the bill. I cannot agree that the service would be any different from what we have now and I can only see that it creates a new department for which there is no necessity and I am against it.

Mr. SCHUCK. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Allen, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, Yes, sir.

Mr. SCHUCK. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman whether he has read this bill carefully and whether he has considered the provisions contained therein?

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, so far as the general provisions of the bill are concerned, I have read the bill and considered it. In relation to the details of the bill as to exactly how many of each publication would be sent, I have neither read them nor compared it with the list.

Mr. SCHUCK. Mr. Speaker, the resident clerk gets up a box of books containing reports. This bill provides that you have a right to a certain number which is not changed except in one respect. The number of the Phamplet Laws is increased from thirty-five to fifty. For this reason: The number of lawyers have increased greatly in this State and the demand among the common people for the laws, also, is greater, and after careful consideration we thought it was a good plan to conservatively increase the number of pamphlets from thirty-five to fifty. After three months, if a member has not requisitioned his supply, it will remain in the department and some other member may requisition, in addition to his specified number by law, and in that way it will permit members to get more if they want them, and there is a great saving and not so much waste. I hope the House will support this bill.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, just a word in explanation of this bill, because it may have confused the members in the reading of the bill. In the amendment of the original Act of 1865, which was a change in that amendment as being an act of 1869, and this makes that correction; being a matter in connection with the waterways between the Great Lakes and the rivers, it is a very important matter, and that change should be made, and carefully made, so that the law would positively be in effect and force.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The initiative may also be invoked as following if at any time not less than ten days prior to the convening of the general assembly there shall be filed with the Secretary of the Commonwealth an initiative petition for any measure signed by five thousand legal voters he shall transmit certified copies of said measure to the Senate and House of Representatives immediately upon organization If said measure be passed by the general assembly either as petitioned for or in an amended form it shall be subject to referendum petitions as other measures If it shall be enacted in an amended form or if no action is taken thereon within four months from the convening of the General Assembly it shall be submitted to the people by the Secretary of the Commonwealth at the next general election Provided such submission shall be demanded by a supplementary initiative petition signed by thirty thousand legal voters and filed not less than four months before such election Said measure shall be submitted in the form demanded by such supplemental initiative petition which form may be either as originally petitioned for or in any amended or substitute form which may have been proposed by or in the General Assembly or there may be incorporated in said measure any amendment or amendments thereto proposed by or in the General Assembly If the measure so submitted is approved by a majority of the electors voting thereon it shall go into effect and repeal all law in conflict therewith

Section 1B Referendum The second power is the referendum and it may be ordered either by a petition signed by the required number of legal voters or by the General Assembly as other bills are enacted Not more than thirty thousand legal voters (as may be determined by law) shall be required to sign and make a valid referendum petition Laws making appropriations for the maintenance of the State Government or existing State instiutions not exceeding the next previous appropriation for such purpose shall not be subject to referendum petitions The increase in any such appropriation shall take effect as other laws and such increase or any part or item thereof shall be submited to the people upon referendum petition The filing of a referendum petition against one or more items sections or parts of any measure shall not delay the remainder from becoming operative Referendum petition against measures passed by the General Assembly shall be filed with the Secretary of the Commonwealth not later than ninety days after the final adjournment of the session of the General Assembly at which such measures were passed except when adjournment shall be taken temporarily for a longer period than ninety days in which case such petition shall be filed not later than ninety days after such temporary adjournment All measures referred to a vote of the people by referendum petitions shall remain in abeyance until such vote is taken

Section 1C Emergency If it shall be necessary for the preservation of the public peace health or safety that a measure shall become effective without delay such necessity shall be stated in one section and if upon a yea and nay vote three-fourths of all members elected shall vote upon separate roll-call in favor of the measure going into instant operation such measure shall become operative at the time specified therein It shall be necessary to state in such section the facts which constitute such emergency Provided that an emergency shall not be declared on any franchise or act alienating any property of the Commonwealth If a referendum petition is filed against an emergency measure such measure shall be a law until it is voted upon by the people and if it is then rejected by a majority of the electors voting thereon it shall be thereby repealed The provisions of this sub-section shall apply to city councils

Section 1D Municipal and Local Initiative and Referendum The initiative and referendum powers of the people are hereby further reserved to the legal voters of each municipality county and district as to all local special and municipal legislation of every character in and for their respective municipalities counties and districts cities and towns may provide for the exercise of the initiative and referendum as to their local legislation Petitions shall be filed with the city clerk or other officer as may be provided by law Not more than ten per cent of the legal voters may be required to order the referendum nor more than fifteen per cent to propose any measure by initiative petition in any municipality county or local sub-division of the Commonwealth Every extension enlargement purchase grant or conveyance of a franchise or of any rights properly easement lease or occupation of or in any road street alley bridge or park thereof in any real property or interest in any real property owned by a municipal corporation whether the same be by statute ordinance resolution or otherwise shall be subject to referendum by petition and shall not be subject to emergency legislation The time for filing referendum petitions against municipal or local measures shall not be fixed at less than thirty days after the passage thereof by municipal or local legislative bodies

Section 1E General Provisions The word "measure" as used herein means any law bill resolution ordinance charter or constitutional amendment or any other legislative measure All elections on general local and special measures referred to the people of the Commonwealth or any locality shall be held at the regular general elections except when the Legislature or the Governor shall order a special election but counties cities and towns may provide for special elections on local legislation Any measure submitted to the people as herein provided shall take effect and become law when approved by a majority of the votes cast thereon and not otherwise Such measure shall be in operation on and after the thirtieth day after the election at which it is approved The veto power of the Governor or mayor shall not extend to measures initiated by or referred to the people If conflicting measures submitted to the people shall be approved by a majority of the votes severally cast for and against the same the one receiving the highest number of affirmative votes shall thereby become law No measure approved by a vote of the people shall be amended or repealed by the General Assembly or any city council except by a yea and nay vote upon roll call of three-fourths of all the members elected the whole number of votes cast for Governor at the last preceding general election shall be the basis upon which the number of legal voters necessary to sign local petitions shall be computed except that in municipalities it shall be computed upon the vote cast for mayor Duly legal voters only shall be counted upon petitions Petitions may be circulated and presented in parts but each part of any petition shall have attached thereto the affidavit of the person circulating the same that all the signatures thereon were made in the presence of the affiant and to the best of the affiant's knowledge and belief each signature is genuine and that the person signing is an elector and no other affidavit or verification shall be required The sufficiency of all petitions shall be decided by the Secretary of the Commonwealth or corresponding local officer as the case may be subject to review by courts of record which shall give precedence over all other cases in the adjudication of the same If the Secretary of the Commonwealth or such local officer shall decide any petition to be insufficient he shall without delay notify the sponsors of the petition and permit at least twenty days for correction or amendment In the event of legal proceedings in any court to prevent giving effect to any petition upon any grounds the burden of proof shall be upon the person or persons attacking the validity of the petition Not more than one-half of the signatures upon any petition filed with the Secretary of the Commonwealth shall be from any one county

This section shall not be construed to deprive any member of the General Assembly or city council of the right to introduce any measure The style of all bills shall be "Be it enacted by the people of (name of Commonwealth municipality or county as the case may be) All measures of any kind submitted to a vote of the people shall be published as may hereafter be required by law In submitting measures to the people the Secretary of the Commonwealth and all other officials shall be guided by the general laws until additional legislation shall be provided therefor This amendment shall be self-executing but the General Assembly may enact laws to facilitate its operation No legislation shall be enacted to impair or hamper the exercise of the rights herein reserved to the people

On the question,
Shall the bill pass finally?

HOUSE BILL NO. 1348 MADE A SPECIAL ORDER.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I move that further consideration of this bill be postponed for the present—it is known as the initiative and referendum bill—and move that it be made a special order of business for Monday evening at 10 o'clock.

Mr. BENSON. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN asked and obtained unanimous consent to call up House Bill No. 1491, file folio 6409, known as the "recall" bill of to-day's calendar, bills on third reading postponed for the present.

BILL ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House resumed third reading and consideration of H. R. bill No. 1491, as follows:

A Joint Resolution proposing a constitutional amendment to the constitution of Pennsylvania granting to the people the right of recall of public officers

Be it resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met That an amendment be submitted to the people of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania to amend article six by adding thereto a new section to be known as section five as follows

Section 5 Every elective public officer in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania including all the judges of the several courts whether holding his office by election or appointment is subject as herein provided to recall by the legal voters of the Commonwealth or of the electoral district from which he is elected There may be required twenty five per centum (25 per centum) but not more of the voters who voted in his district at the preceding election for the office to which he was elected to file a valid petition demanding his recall by the people save and except that the signatures of one hundred and fifty thousand (150,000) legal voters shall make valid petition demanding the recall of a State officer voted for by the qualified electors of the entire State That petitioners shall set forth in their petition the reasons for such demand If he shall offer his resignation it shall be accepted to take effect on the day the resignation is offered and the vacancy shall be filled as may be provided by law If he shall not resign within five (5) days after the petition is filed a special election shall be ordered to be held in his said election district not less than thirty (30) days nor more than sixty (60) days after the filing of such petition to determine whether the people shall recall such officer On the sample and official ballots at said election shall be printed in not more than five hundred (500) words the reasons for demanding the recall of said officer as set forth in the recall petition and in not more than five hundred (500) words the officer's justification of his course in office provided that the General Assembly may provide by means of a publicity pamphlet or otherwise for further information of the voters concerning the reasons alleged for the recall of any officer as set forth in the original petition filed for the recall of said officer together with the said officer's defense He shall continue to perform the duties of his office until the result of said special election shall be officially declared Other candidates for the office may be nominated to be voted upon at said special election by petition or in such manner as is or may be provided by law The recall of the officer against whom such recall petition is filed shall be voted upon as a separate question If a majority of all the voters voting in such special election shall vote in favor of the recall of said officer he shall thereby be removed from such office and the candidate who shall have received the highest number of votes shall be deemed elected to fill the remainder of the term The name of the officer sought to be recalled shall not appear on the ballot as a candidate No vote for any candidate shall be counted unless the voter has also voted upon the question of the recall of the officer sought to be removed The recall petition shall be filed with the officer with whom a petition for nomination to such office should be filed or other officer as may be provided by law and such officer shall order a special election when it is so required No such recall petition shall be circulated against any officer until he has actually held his office six months save and except that it may be filed against a Senator or Representative in the General Assembly at any time after twenty (20) days from the beginning of the first session after his election After one such petition and special election no further recall petition shall be filed against the same officer during the term for which he was elected within one year of the expiration of the term for which said officer was elected and no further petition shall be filed against said officer until such further petitioners shall first pay into the pulic treasury which has paid such election expenses the whole amount of its expenses for such previous special election Such additional legislation as may aid in the operation of this section shall be provided by law including provisions for payment out of the public treasury of the reasonable special campaign expenses of such officer in the event that he is not recalled

This section shall be self executing It shall be held independent of and additional to any other method of removal from office In carrying out this provision the general election laws shall apply as nearly as may be until the necessary legislation shall be provided therefor But no legislation shall in anyway restrict or limit the operation of the provisions of this article or impair the powers herein reserved to the people

On the question,
Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

HOUSE BILL NO. 1491 MADE A SPECIAL ORDER.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I move that House Bill No. 1491, file folio 6409, be made a special order for Monday evening at 10:30 o'clock.

Mr. BENSON. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

BILLS ON FINAL PASSAGE.

NAYS—4.

Jackson,	Keeport,	Kennedy,	Lowers,

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

BILL ON THIRD READING.

Mr. JAMES A. DUNN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up House Bill No. 442, entitled:

An Act amending section one thousand four hundred twelve in article fourteen of an act aproved the eighteenth day of May one thousand nine hundred and eleven entitled "An Act to establish a public school system in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania together with the provisions by which it shall be administered and prescribing penalties for the violation thereof providing revenue to establish and maintain the same and the method of collecting such revenue and repealing all laws general special or local or any parts thereof that are or may be inconsistent therewith" by requiring the free education in the public schools of children who are inmates of institutions for the care or training of orphans or other children which was recalled from the Governor for the purpose of amendment.

The SPEAKER. Action on this bill was deferred this morning because the amendments were not ready.

Mr. JAMES A. DUNN. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to insert amendments to this bill.

The SPEAKER. The amendments will be read by the Clerk.

The Clerk then read the amendments as follows:

Amend section 1 of House Bill No. 442, file folio 2039, by inserting after the word "district" in line 31, the words "either with or"

Also by inserting after the word "supplies" in line 32 the following: "as the directors of the district in which such institution is located may determine provided that when the education of such inmates of such institutions is charged for the cost thereof shall not exceed the cost of tuition text books and school supplies of other children of similar grade in such district and provided further that such cost shall be paid to the district in which such institution is located by the district of which the respective pupils are legal residents"

The SPEAKER. Will the House give its unanimous consent to the insertion of the amendments? Is there any objection? The Chair hears none, and the amendments will be inserted in accordance with the instructions of the House.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill as amended?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That the bill be prepared for final passage.

REPORT FROM THE COMMITTEE ON RULES.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to present a report from the Committee on Rules.

The SPEAKER. The report from the Committee on Rules will be read by the Clerk.

The Clerk twice read the report as follows:

That any House Bill placed upon the postponed calendar not called up within five days on which the House is in session, after being placed upon said calendar, or after the adoption of this rule, shall be dropped unless the time be extended by vote of the House upon motion for cause shown.

GEORGE W. SASSAMAN,
GEORGE A. BALDWIN
HARRY COCHRAN,
GEORGE W. ALLEN,
F. C. EHRHARDT,
GEORGE E. ALTER.

The SPEAKER. The question is on the adoption of the report.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, the reason for this report is clearly evident if the members of the House will simply examine the calendar at this time. While there has been very little taking advantage apparently, for postponing of bills for the purpose of having a full house, but to-day on bills on third reading postponed for the present, the calendar shows not less than forty-three. Now, Mr. Speaker, the printing amounts to something. In this five days' respite by the proposed rule as indicated and clearly stated in that rule, this is for the five days in which this House is in session, and under the present conditions, if the House were to run until Friday and the bill had been placed on the calendar on the Monday preceding, you would have until the following Monday to get the bill on that calendar. That is certainly long enough for anybody to canvass this House. If it is put on proposed calendar for the purpose of making a canvass of the House, that will be ample time. If it is put on on account of there being a light House in attendance, you have the beginning of the succeeding week in which to call up your bill. It is the duty of members of this House to be here at such times as this House may decide to take up a bill and to be here and look after legislation in which they are interested and if they neglect it and allow their bills to remain on the calendar of this House, by being absent from this House, then the punishment ought to be that that bill may be dropped from the calendar so that somebody may get on. To those members who look after their legislation in a businesslike way, this rule is no hardship whatever. All those members who neglect their duty, upon them the burden will fall, and this rule ought to be passed without any dissenting vote.

Mr. S. B. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I think an exception ought to be made in favor of Senate bills. When a Senate bill is postponed here, somebody might not be especially interested in it to watch it and might easily forget to bring it up again. I suggest that we except Senate bills.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I think that is a very proper suggestion.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, this does not apply to Senate bills. and it will not operate against Senate bills, but in order to make it clear, I have no objection to embodying that in the report.

The SPEAKER. If there is no objection, the rule will be changed to read "House bills" instead of "bills."

On the question,

Will the House agree to the report?

It was unanimously agreed to.

JOINT RESOLUTION INTRODUCED.

Mr. KEEGAN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to have unanimous consent to introduce a joint resolution at this time.

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent? The Chair hears no objection and the Clerk will receive the resolution.

Mr. MILLER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up from page 41 of to-day's calendar, bills on third reading postponed, House Bill No. 1581.

Agreeably to order,

The House resumed the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1581, entitled:

An Act relating to bail bond or surety bond furnished on appeals from courts of record in certain places

Aud said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION NO. 40.

Mr. DAVIS asked and obtained unanimous consent to call up Senate Resolution No. 40.

The Resolution was read as follows:

Whereas, The protection of the migratory and insertivorous wild birds is essential to the prosperity of man because of their work in consuming insect pests and the seeds of noxious weeds and

Whereas, The Biological Survey of the National Department of Agriculture has been engaged in exhaustive investigations to determine the foods of said birds and their effect on said destructive insect pests and noxious weeds and

Whereas, The publication and distribution of information concerning the beneficial results of the work of said birds has been resulting in a steady and increasing appreciation of the necessity of protecting and preserving the birds aforesaid and

Whereas, There is now pending before the Congress of the United States a joint resolution looking toward the international protection of migratory birds which is known as Senate resolution Number Twenty-five therefore be it

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), That the United States Senators and the members of Congress from Pennsylvania be urged to lend their votes and influence to the end that Senate Resolution Number Twenty-five shall be passed and the international protection of our migratory birds be thus assured and be it further

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur) That the United States Senators and the members of Congress from Pennsylvania be urged to support the work of the Biological Survey in every proper and consistent manner

Ordered That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for its concurrence

On the question,

Will the House concur in the resolution of the Senate?

Mr. DAVIS. Mr. Speaker, I don't know that it is necessary to explain this resolution. There is pending in the Congress of the United States at the present time a resolution to protect these birds. This is a resolution urging our United States Senators and Members of Congress from Pennsylvania to vote for the resolution pending in Congress.

The resolution was concurred in.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the Senate accordinly.

Mr. FLYNN asked and obtained unanimous consent to call up House Bill No. 984, file folio 5893, on page 43, of to-day's calendar, bills on third reading ponstponed for the present, for the purpose of amendment.

BILL ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House resumed the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 984, entitled:

An Act to provide for the registration and enrollment of the voters of the State according to their respective party preferences and to prescribe penalties for false registration and for voters voting or attempting to vote and for election officers permitting or conspiring to permit them to vote at a primary by or on any other than their own proper party ticket

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. FLYNN. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to offer amendments at this time.

The SPEAKER. The amendments will be read by the Clerk.

The Clerk read the amendments as follows:

Section 1: On page 1 in line 9 add the following at the end of the line as a new sentence:

"Provided, however, that if at any time the laws of this Commonwealth shall provide for non partisan primaries this act shall apply only to such enrollment and registration of voters as shall be made for or effective for a party primary."

Section 2: On page 2 in line 9 before the word "primary" insert the word "party."

Section 5: On page 3 strike out the entire section and in lieu thereof insert the following:

"Section 5. No voter at a primary shall be allowed to receive or vote the ballot of any given political party who is not enrolled or registered as herein provided as a member of that party."

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to insert the amendments as read? Is there any objection? The Chair hears none and the amendments as read will be inserted in accordance with the instructions of the House.

The bill as amended was then agreed to.

Ordered, That the bill as amended lie over for printing.

BILLS RECOMMITED.

NAYS—1.

Curry,

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1826 (Senate Bill No. 294), entitled:

An Act amending and supplementing section nine of an act entitled "An Act to establish a county court for the county of Allegheny and prescribing its powers and duties regulating the procedure therein and providing for the expenses thereof" approved the fifth day of May one thousand nine hundred and eleven by requiring the appellant in appeals to pay the costs in the county court and give bail for the compliance with the final judgment and fixing the final liability for costs in appeals in certain cases providing for an appeal in forma pauperis prescribing under what circumstances appeals shall operate as a supersedeas requiring notice to the opposite party when appeals are allowed by the common pleas court and requiring the appellant in cases where the appeal is from judgment on a verdict to first obtain leave of the common pleas court to take such appeal and prescribing the practice in such cases.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

BILL RECOMMITTED.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I was informed by Mr. Lowers, who was looking after the bill and who was called away during the noon recess, that it had been arranged that this bill should be recommitted to the Committee on Judiciary General, and I so move you.

Mr. RICHARDS. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

BILLS ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 525, entitled:

An Act to amend section eight of an act entitled "An Act relating to roads providing for the election and appointment of township supervisors in second class townships defining their powers duties and limitations relating to road tax and the expenditures thereof abolishing the work tax defining certain duties of the clerk of court fixing penalties for violation of this act and making an appropriation to carry out its provisions" approved the fourteenth day of June Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred and eleven.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass?

Mr. H. B. DUNN. Mr. Speaker, this bill as drawn does not seem to indicate what it means. I will explain in a few words what the object of the bill is. The twenty-sixth section of the Act of 1911, in regard to roads, known as the Jones Road Bill, provides for vacancies in the office of supervisors in second class townships. It provides that in case of a vacancy the vacancy shall be filled by the Court of Common Pleas and not less than ten days after the presentation of the petition. Now the court objected to it and the supervisors objected to it and the consequence was that when we wanted to have a supervisor appointed quickly, as was often the case, we had to wait ten days. Besides that the petition called for the signing of it by one or more of the supervisors. Now this bill also provides that in case of one vacancy only that the vacancy shall be filled by the other two supervisors and certified to the court. In case there are more than two vacancies, then they are to be filled as usual by the Court. This bill is presented for the purpose of saving expense to the township and saving time and has been unanimously passed by the Road Committee and I ask every member to vote for it.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

NAYS—0.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on third reading of H. R. bill No. 1793, entitled:

An Act to amend section one of article one of an act approved the seventh day of March one thousand nine hundred and one entitled "An Act for the government of cities of the second class".

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. ALWORTH. Mr. Speaker, I wish the sponsor of this bill would explain the bill to the House.

Mr. GEARY. Mr. Speaker, this bill applies to cities of the second class only, and gives to the chief executive the right to succeed himself or run for office just the same as any other candidate, if he wishes to do so. I feel that if we get a good live active progressive official at the head of the city government, a man popular and satisfactory to the people and he wants to become a candidate, he should have the same privilege as all others to go before the people for re-election, and I am sure all good citizens would only be too glad to have the opportunity of voting to keep a good man in harness, regardless of what his politics or his political views may be.

BILL POSTPONED.

Mr. STEEDLE. Mr. Speaker, I move that the further consideration of this bill be postponed for the present.

Mr. GEARY. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

BILL ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on third reading of H. R. bill No. 1828 (Senate No. 394), entitled:

An Act to give additional protection to the fish in the waters within the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania prohibiting the fishing for or capture or killing of such fish by unnaturalized foreign-born residents and prescribing penalties for violation of its provisions

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

Mr. WILTBANK. Mr. Speaker, Mr. John R. K. Scott being a great reformer, and not having voted on this bill, I would like you to order him to vote either for or against this bill.

The SPEAKER. The Chair has no power in the premises at this time.

Mr. JOHN R. K. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I think the gentleman is right. I will vote "No."

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will be so recorded.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE.

Mr. S. B. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his question.

Mr. S. B. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I think the remarks from the gentleman from Philadelphia in the second row suggest that a true reformer could only vote no on this question. It appears to me it ought to be taken up on the grounds of personal privilege. It has always been my belief that the salaries of the members are totally inadequate and reflect a point of view on the general public. From the value and necessity of the services of the members, it is entirely inadequate. I have been a member for four sessions, and if my memory serves me, in at least three and possibly all of those sessions. I think I have voted for an increase in the salaries of the members. I am sorry to say the Governor has not always seen it in that light. I believe this ought to be considered seriously, and that is the reason I voted aye at this time.

Mr. WILTBANK. Mr. Speaker, under the circumstances, my friend reformer having voted aye, and as I have always been a consistent reformer, I would like to change my vote from no to aye.

BILLS ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 731, as follows:

An Act relating to mutual fire insurance companies providing for assessments upon members or stockholders of such companies and fixing penalties for violation of this act

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by authority of the same That every mutual fire insurance company doing business in this Commonwealth shall in the month of October in each year make such an assessment upon its members or stockholders as will with the cash on hand be sufficient to liquidate the entire indebtedness of such company including losses if any existing up to the first day of October of the particular year

Section 2 It shall be unlawful for any such mutual fire insurance company to carry over after the first day of November in any year any debt of any nature including losses if any without making an assessment as required in section one of this act or to refund or renew any indebtedness that has existed at least one year

Section 3 Any mutual fire insurance company or any officer or director of such company that shall directly or indirectly violate any of the provisions of this act shall be guilty of a misdemeanor Upon conviction thereof the person or company so convicted shall be sentenced to pay a fine of not less than five hundred dollars ($500) nor more than one thousand dollars ($1,000) and such person so convicted shall also be sentenced to undergo imprisonment in the jail of the county for a period of not more than one year

Section 5 In the discretion of the Insurance Commissioner a period of time not exceeding two years from the approval of this act may allowed any mutual fire insurance company to enable it to comply with the provisions of this act

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. METZENBACHER. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to offer amendments at this time.

The SPEAKER. The amendments will be read by the Clerk.

The Clerk read the amendments as follows:

Title, line 2. Strike out "stockholders" and insert in lieu thereof "policy holders."

Section 1, line 6. Strike out "stockholders" and insert in lieu thereof "policy holders."

Section 1. Add at the end thereof the following: "If the total amount of the losses, expenses and any other indebtedness of any such mutual fire insurance company unpaid on the first day of October in any year shall be less than one-tenth of one per centum of the total amount of the insurance in force, the holders of which policies of insurance are liable for assessment for the payment of said losses, expenses and indebtedness, the said company may, with the consent of the Insurance Commissioner, omit the assessment required by this act."

Section 2, line 2. Insert after "company" the words "without the consent of the Insurance Commissioner."

Section 3, line 7. Strike out "and such person so convicted shall also be sentenced."

Section 3. Strike out lines 8 and 9.

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to insert the amendments as read? Is there any objection? The Chair hears none and the amendments as read will be inserted in accordance with the instructions of the House.

The bill as amended was then agreed to.

Ordered, That the bill as amended lie over for printing.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1190, entitled:

An Act relating to the payment of bonus on the incorporation merger or consolidation of banks and trust companies

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1836, entitled:

An Act to repeal an act approved the second day of July one thousand nine hundred and one entitled "An Act to encourage the planting of trees along the roadsides of this Commonwealth and providing a penalty for killing removing or injuring the same what disposition is to be made of moneys collected as penalties and for keeping a record by the supervisor of roads or boards of supervisors of roads of the trees so planted and upon which a tax abatement has been granted

On the question,
Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

BILL POSTPONED.

Mr. FRANK GRAY. Mr. Speaker, In the absence of the sponsor, I move that further consideration of the bill be postponed for the present.

Mr. W. H. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

BILL ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1525, as follows:

An Act regulating the safe conveyance of passengers in cars on roller-coasters by providing a guard for all openings and providing a penalty for the violation hereof

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That all cars used on roller-coasters for the conveyance of passengers shall be provided with guard rails for each opening on said car by means of which its passengers have ingress or egress

Section 2 It shall be the duty of every one in charge of the said car to see that the guard rails of said car are properly closed when the car is in motion

Any owners lessees or persons in charge violating the provisions of this act shall be guilty of misdemeanor and on conviction thereof shall be sentenced to pay a fine of not less than one hundred dollars ($100) or more than five hundred dollars ($500) or by an imprisonment in the county jail for not less than ten days nor more than sixty days at the discretion of the court

On the question,
Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

BILL POSTPONED.

Mr. CONNIFF. Mr. Speaker, I move that further consideration of this bill be postponed for the present.

Mr. FOSTER. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

BILL ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1402 (Senate Bill No. 421), entitled:

An Act to repeal the act entitled "An Act to provide for the erection of a house for the employment and support of the poor in the county of Washington" approved the sixth day of April Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and thirty and to repeal the first four sections of the act entitled "A supplement to an act entitled 'An Act to provide for the erection of a house for the employment and support of the poor in the county of Washington' passed the sixth day of April Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and thirty and also 'An Act to incorporate the Monongahela Manual Labour Academy' " aproved the twenty-ninth day of March Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and thirty-six and to repeal the act entitled "A supplement to the laws for the relief and support of the poor in the counties of Washington Greene and Fayette approved April sixth one thousand eight hundred and thirty" approved the thirtieth day of April Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and fifty-five so far as it relates to Washington county

On the question,
Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,
Shall the bill pass?

Mr. POST. Mr. Speaker, I move the further consideration of this bill be postponed for the present.

Mr. KAUFFMAN. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The SPEAKER. The Chair would suggest to the House that there are 150 members present, and there certainly is no occasion to postpone the repealer of a local law unless there is some opposition to the bill.

Mr. POST. Mr. Speaker, there is some opposition to the bill and some of the members who wish to be recorded on it are not present.

On the question,

The SPEAKER declared the nays seemed to have it.

Whereupon, a division was called for, 60 voting in the affirmative and 66 in the negative.

And the motion to postpone was not agreed to.

On the question recurring,
Shall the bill pass?

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the Representative from Washington County in reference to the purpose of this bill.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Washington permit himself to be interrogated.

Mr. BROWNLEE. Mr. Speaker, I will.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to ask the gentleman merely if the sole purpose of this bill is not to rip out the present poor board of Washington County?

Mr. BOWNLEE. It is not, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. ALLEN. Then, Mr. Speaker, I desire him to state what the purpose of the bill is.

Mr. BROWNLEE. Mr. Speaker, the purpose of this bill is to repeal a local law, affecting Washington County and Washington County only, and to put the County under the general law, placing the care of the poor under the County Commissioners. Washington County is under a local law. The Poor Board having no power to levy taxes, simply go to the County Commisisoners with their requisition and receive the money to run the poor. There is friction between the Poor Board and the Commisisoners and the people of Washington County feel that the Poor Board is simply a fifth wheel and that the care of the poor can be better accomplished and more economically by placing them under the County Commissioners than in the present way.

It is true that this bill will rip out the Poor Board. The Poor Board consists of three members, one elected each year. One of those member's term will expire on the first of January at the time this bill will take effect. We are not after the Poor Board, but it is impossible to make this change, as far as we know, without doing that. As one member's term expires each year, the only way to make this bill take effect when all the terms expired, would be to lengthen the term of the two that would expire this year and next year. If that could be accomplished we would very willingly allow it to be accomplished and that is one purpose that we had in asking to postpone this. We feel that we were treated very discourteously. A few moments ago an Allegheny County member asked to have a bill postponed and there was no objection. It was a local matter and yet I noticed that the Allegheny County members rose en masse on this bill when they had no interest in the matter. It was a purely local matter. If this bill could be amended so as to continue the terms of the present Poor Board in office until the expiration of all the terms, we are perfectly willing to have it done. We have no feeling against the Poor Board and we proposed to postpone this bill and see if that could not be accomplished, but this House has forced us now, as we feel, unjustly to the passage of the bill.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Washington further, and to ask him if at this time there is not at the present time in the hands of the Directors of the Poor and of the House of Employment for the County of Washington, some 209 acres of land deeded to that Board in its corporate name, over which that Board has absolute control under present laws, and the laws which are attempted to be repealed here, and that there are no laws on the statute books of Pennsylvania which would make any disposition of that property to any other authority?

Mr. BROWNLEE. Mr. Speaker, I cannot answer the gentleman that question. This bill was not preparted by me and I am not the sponsor of it, but I do not understand that there is any legal impediment in the matter.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I happen to come from that section of Allegheny County which borders on Washington County, and where I have some acquaintances who are just as near and dear to me as those in my own district. The conditions which prevail in Washington County, as had been suggested, and which are attempted to be reached by this bill, are not for political purposes. That might, or it might not be absolutely true.

However, as the records of Washington County will show some two hundred and nine acres of land which is deeded to the directors of the poor and the House of Employment of the County of Washington, that being the corporate name for that body as enacted by the Legislaure in its session of 1830, as you will find in Section Two of the bill which is sought to be repealed here. The general repealer in this case will in no wise allow that property to go either to the county commissioners or to anyone else because of the fact that the original bill which created the Poor Board of Washington County, created it for a special purpose which was provided in the bills which are now sought to be repealed, and the provisions in those bills are not in accordance with the general statutes as they now stand upon the books this day. The consequence would be if such a repealer were to pass this House and were to go to the Senate, and then to the Governor, and were to be approved by him, notwithstanding the fact that it is provided in his bill that the bill shall take effect on the first day of January next, the condition would be that the property would still stand in the name of that corporation notwithstanding the fact that it would be dissolved by the action of this House for a specific purpose, and there would be no authority either now created or in contemplation so far as this House knows, no authority to receive that same property for the same specific purposes, and, Mr. Speaker, in justice to the poor board of Washington County, and we will call it the poor board for short, and in justice to the particular purposes for which that Board acts, this bill or repealer ought to be voted down at least until such time as some provision can be made which will be able to reach and carry out the purposes for which that property was acquired, is now held and is being used.

BILL RECOMMITTED.

Mr. GEORGE A. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I regret that the motion made a few moments ago did not prevail.

It would appear from the remarks of the gentleman from Allegheny that the House needs a little more light possibly on this question. I, therefore, move that the bill be recommitted to the Committee on Municipal Corporations for the purpose of amendment, if necessary.

Mr. SWIFT. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

The SPEAKER announced that the ayes appear to have it.

Whereupon,

A division was called for and eighty-two gentlemen having voted in the affiramtive and forty-three in the negative, the question was determined in the affirmative and the motion was agreed to.

BILL ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on third reading of H. R. bill No. 1429, as follows:

An Act prohibiting any person to lead drive ride or work or cause or permit any other person to lead drive ride or work any horse mare mule ox or any other animal whether belonging to himself or in his possession or control for more than twelve hours in any twenty-four hour period in any city of the first or second class Provided that nothing in this act contained shall be construed to warrant any person's leading driving riding or working any animal a less period than twelve hours when so doing shall in any way violate the laws against cruelty to animals providing a penalty for the violation of this act and authorizing policemen constables or agents of duly incorporated societies or associations for the prevention of cruelty to animals in this Commonwealth to make arrests on view or by warrants of offenders of this act

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That it shall be unlawful for any person to lead drive ride or work or cause or permit any other person to lead drive ride or work any horse mare mule ox or any other animal whether belonging to himself or in his possession or control for more than twelve hours in any twenty-four hour period in any city of the first or second class Provided that nothing in this act contained shall be construed to warrant any person's leading driving riding or working any animal a less period than twelve hours when so doing shall in any way violate the laws against cruelty to animals

Section 2 Any person found guilty before any magistrate or alderman of violating the provisions of this act shall be fined in a sum not less than ten nor more than fifty dollars or by imprisonment for not more than six months said fine to be paid to any regularly incorporated society or association for the prevention of cruelty to animals which shall have jurisdiction in the county wherein suit is brought

Section 3 Any policeman or constable of any city of the first or second class or any agent of any regularly incorporated society or association for the prevention of cruelty to animals shall upon his own view of any such offense make arrest and bring before any magistrate or alderman offenders found violating the provisions of this act and any policeman or constable or any agent of any society as aforesaid shall also make arrests of such offenders on warrants duly issued according to law when such offence is not committed in view of said policeman constable or agent

On the question ,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

BILL POSTPONED.

Mr. WALNUT. Mr. Speaker, in the absence of the sponsor of this bill, I move that further consideration thereof be postponed for the present.

Mr. O'NEIL. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question ,

Will the House agree to the motion?

The SPEAKER announced that the noes appeared to have it.

Mr. WALNUT. Mr. Speaker, I think it is only fair, under the circumstances, to give the sponsor of the bill a chance to come here before the House and defend his measure. I would call for a division on that question.

A division having been called for, and seventy-five gentlemen having voted in the affirmative and thirty in the negative, the question was determined in the affirmative, and the motion was agreed to.

Mr. LIGHT. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up on page 38 of to-day's calendar, House Bill 479, bills on third reading postponed for the present.

BILL ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order.

The House resumed the consideration on third reading of H. R. bill No. 479, entitled:

An Act to amend section five hundred sixty-one of an act entitled "An Act to establish a public school system in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania together with the provisions by which it shall be administered and prescribing penalties for the violation thereof providing revenue to establish and maintain the same and the method of collecting such revenue and repealing all laws general special or local or any parts thereof that are or may be inconsistent therewith" approved the eighteenth day of May Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred and eleven

On the question ,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. LIGHT. Mr. Speaker, I want to explain the purport of this bill. Under the present system we are not allowed a rebate on school taxes. Prior to the passage of the school code. we got a rebate. This bill asks for the five per cent. rebate as it was prior to this time. Under the present law a penalty of five per cent. is added after sixty days. We think this is entirely too soon, and it is not giving the people enough of a chance so far as this is concerned. The payment of the taxes will be made more promptly, and the poor districts will get the benefit of the taxes. We have rebates on almost all other taxes, and this bill aims to make this more uniform. I think it is a benefit to the poor districts, and gives those who do not pay their taxes in sixty days a chance to pay their taxes during a certain period without a penalty. This bill meets with the approval of the second, third and fourth classes, for which it is intended.

The question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the negative and the bill falls.

Agreeably to order.

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideraton of House Bill No. 1864, entitled:

An Act directing the Legislature Reference Bureau to prepare compilations or codes by topics of the existing general laws of this Commonwealth for adoption or rejection by the General Assembly fixing the powers and duties of the bureau therein fixing the compensation of the Assistant Director and making an appropriation therefor

On the question ,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. KITTS. Mr. Speaker, it seems to me that we should not pass this bill at this time, as it carries with it an appro-pration and it seems to me that the Committee on Appropriations should pass on it.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman who is the author of this bill.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. S. B. SCOTT, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. S. B. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, yes, sir.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I wish to ask the gentleman if there is not already a commission in existence that was appointed in 1883 to do the very work that is provided for in this bill and that that commission is presumed to be still at work?

Mr. S. B. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker. I believe the gentleman is confusing that commission, which is a commission appointed for the codification and republishing of the Colonial Laws. There is a commission of that kind still at work, but it has no relation whatever to the laws of 1700, to which the gentleman himself may have referred.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I will ask the gentleman if it is not a fact that the work which the commission has produced up to this time starts with volume two, with 1700, and works down to a later date, and that volume one starts from that and goes back of 1700, which has not been touched?

Mr. S. B. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, what the gentleman refers to is a matter which is entirely different from the purpose of this bill. The early Colonial Laws are being republished by a commisison. There is at present a bill in the House to provide for the publishing of that work, but this bill contemplates future legislation rather than past legislation. We are continually asked to provide for the modifications of different branches of the law. We are continually confused by being called upon to act on laws without knowing what the present state of the laws on these subjects are. We are continually called upon over and over again and again to go over the same work of having it put in perfect form. This bill simply asks for the best equipped department at present existing in the State Government, the Legislative Bureau, to codify these laws, and once for all to go over the whole body of statute law and arranging it in logical order with headings and to get annotations and get the best thought out of the cases as to how the law ought to be codified and changed and present the whole thing to the Legislature so that it may be taken up chapter by chapter and topic by topic and presented in good logical order. This House has already—both Houses have already, passed this bill in a somewhat similar form, and it was passed by a very large majority. The Senate passed it and the Governor vetoed it because he had some objections to its form and not because he had any objections to the bill itself. There have been conferences held and it is believed that the present form of this bill will meet with the Governor's approval and I hope that the House will pass this bill.

Mr. KITTS. Mr. Speaker, I was not raising any objection to this bill and I did not rise in opposition to it I quite agree with the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. S. B. Scott, that we should have a bill of this kind to codify the laws of the Commonwealth, but I think when we have an appropriation committee whose business it is to look over the appropriations that any bill calls for, and with the different institutions that are making requests for appropriations in various portions of the State, it appears that we should know where the money is to go and as this is a subject that should be well considered I think it would be well for the Appropriations Committee to consider this matter. We are giving what? How does the sponsor of the bill know how much it is going to cost to codify these laws? How do you know how much that will be? The bill specifies salaries for two of the men in the department and then goes on and appropriates thirty thousand dollars for this work. You don't know whether it is going to cost two thousand dollars or a hundred and fifty thousand dollars. I think it should go to the Appropriations Committee in order to let that Committe make an investigation as to how much it will actually cost; then, if that is done, I am in favor of the bill.

Mr. S. B. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, the sum of thirty thousand dollars has been arrived at after careful consultation with the department that has to do the work and if it takes less than the amount specified, the money will be returned to the Treasury, and it canot cost any more than that. If this measure were up for the first time I would willingly acquiesce in the gentleman's suggestion that the Appropriation Committee should pass upon it, but the House having already appropriated thirty thousand dollars for that purpose, it seems to me, as both Appropriations Committees have had due notice of the matter and as the House and Senate have already given their consent to the matter, it would seem to be unwise at this time to recommit it.

The SPEAKER. The question is on the motion by the gentleman from Erie, Mr. Kitts, seconded by the gentleman from Perry, Mr. Donnally, that this bill be recommitted to the Committee on Appropriation.

Whereupon a division was called for, 53 gentlemen voting in the affirmative and 68 in the negative.

The motion was not agreed to.

The SPEAKER. The question recurs.

Shall the bill pass?

BILL POSTPONED.

Mr. S. B. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I move that further consideration of this bill be postponed for the present.

Mr. COX. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

BILLS ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1838, entitled:

An Act to repeal the seventh section of an act approved the fourth day of April one thousand eight hundred and seventy-two entitled "An Act to authorize the borough of Phoenixville to erect water and gas works and to supply the said borough with water and gas"

NAYS—0.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1877, (Senate Bill No. 284) entitled:

An Act granting to the Delaware and Hudson Company its successors and asigns for railroad and depot purposes a parcel of land containing about one acre situate in the township of Canaan county of Wayne being a portion of the tract of land purchased for the use of the State Hospital for Criminal Insane

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE.

Mr. DAVIS. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his question.

Mr. DAVIS. Mr. Speaker, I notice some oposition to this Senate bill. About two years ago the Delaware and Hudson Railway Company donated to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania about three hundred acres of land to build a hospital for the criminal insane. They had their station situated at a certain place. Now, they want to move it over in front of the hospital, and this is only granting these people the right to move their station to a more convenient place for the people who travel to this hospital.

And said bill having been read at length the third time considered and agreed to.

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

NAYS—4.

Bittles,	Gray, Frank,	Latshaw,	Newton,

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk return the same to the Senate with information that the House has passed the same without amendment.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 920, as follows:

An Act to prohibit marriage of white persons with persons of negro blood and providing penalties for the violation thereof

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by authority of the same That it shall be unlawful for any white person to marry any persons having one-eighth or more negro blood All such marriages shall be void

Section 2 It shall be unlawful for any person authorized by law to solemnize marriages in this Commonwealth knowingly to join in marriage any white person to a person having one-eighth or more negro blood

Section 3 Any person who shall violate any of the provisions of this act shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be sentenced to pay a fine of not more than five hundred dollars or to be imprisoned in the prison of the proper county for a period of not more than ninety days

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

POINT OF ORDER.

Mr. S. B. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his point.

Mr. S. B. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, my point of order is that this bill is unconstitutional. In Article 1, section 1 of the Constitution of Pennsylvania it says, "All men are born equally free and independent, and have certain inherent and indefeasible rights, among which are those of enjoying and defending life and liberty, of acquiring, possessing and protecting property and reputation, and of pursuing their own hapiness." All men are born equally free and independent. And in the Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States, it says no State shall deny to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws." Mr. Speaker, this is a discrimination between the people of white and negro blood, and violates this fundamental principle of the Constitution, both of Pennsylvania and of the United States, and therefore is unconstitutional.

BILL POSTPONED.

Mr. SWIFT. Mr. Speaker, in view of the absence of the sponsor of this bill, I move that further consideration be postponed for the present.

Mr. THOMAS. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

BILLS ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1878, Senate Bill No. 416, entitled:

An Act granting to the Delaware and Hudson Company its successors and assigns the right to operate and maintain a line of telegraph poles and wires and also the right to take water from a certain spring and convey the same by pipes all of said rights to be exercised upon certain lands conveyed by the Delaware and Hudson Company to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania by deed date the nineteenth day of February one thousand nine hundred and seven and being situated partly in the township of Canaan and partly in the Borough of Waymart in the County of Wayne

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

Agreeably to order,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass?

Mr. DAVIS. Mr. Speaker, I would just like to explain that this bill is a companion bill to Senate Bill No. 288, giving the right to put up their poles and wires and convey the waters to these stations.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

NAYS—1.

Humes,

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered. That the Clerk return the same to the Senate with information that the House has passed the same without amendments.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1359, as follows:

An Act to repeal the first section of an act approved the third day of June one thousand nine hundred eleven entitled "An Act to provide for the better protection and preservation of game game-quadrupeds and game-birds and prescribing penalties for violation of its several provisions" so far as it relates to the protection of raccoons

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by authority of the same That the first section of an act approved the third day of June one thousand nine hundred eleven entitled "An Act to provide for the better protection and preservation of game game-quadrupeds and game-birds and prescribing penalties for violation of its several provisions" is hereby repealed so far as it relates to the protection of raccoons

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass?

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the author of this bill.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Jefferson permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. BROSIUS. Mr. Speaker, I will.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, I desire to ask the gentleman what is the reason for repealing the act of 1911, protecting coons?

Mr. BROSIUS. The reasons that have been given to me are these: The people in the section of the State where the coons are plentiful, claim that they are great destroyers of trout in the small streams and young birds and birds' nests and many other things and destroy their crops, such as corn and other crops.

Mr. ROCKWELL. And that is the purpose this bill is introduced for?

Mr. BROSIUS. Mr. Speaker, yes sir.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

The House proceeded to the consideration on third reading of H. R. bill No. 1040, entitled:

An Act to refund to Joseph Kalter of Philadelphia the sum of five hundred dollars paid by the said Joseph Kalter to the city treasurer of Philadelphia for an auctioneer's license and paid by said city treasurer into the State Treasury

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. MOORE. Mr. Speaker, at the request of the sponsor of this bill I move that its further consideration be postponed for the present.

Mr. HACKETT. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. NORTH: Mr. Speaker, I do not want to oppose the motion to postpone, but I would say that it is a bill similar to the one that Mr. Walnut has introduced. It is an appropriation bill, and the matter has been thoroughly investigated and I think it would be quite proper to pass the bill.

Mr. MOORE. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman who is the sponsor of this bill asked me to have it postponed. As it takes money from the State Treasury, I did not know but that the members might have something to say about it, but as it meets with the approval of the Chairman of the Appropriations Committee, I will withdraw my motion.

Mr. NORTH. Mr. Speaker, the matter has been thoroughly investigated. When the bill came before the Committee a subcommittee was appointed to go into the details in order to satisfy the Committee that it was a proper bill before it was reported out.

The question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

NAYS—0.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

The SPEAKER. With reference to the statesmanlike recreation of throwing paper, the Chair desires to suggest that, aside from the peril to eyes and eyeglasses, every day, and every hour of the day, there are people from different parts of the State who are here to look upon their House of Representatives deliberating. It would be very unfortunate should any of them go away from here with an erroneous impression.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on third reading of H. R. bill No. 858, entitled:

An Act making an appropriation for the refunding of certain moneys mistakenly paid into the State Treasury by S. S. Caughey

Mr. KITTS. Mr. Speaker, this bill is in the same condition as the bill we just passed. It only involves the amount of $204.00 paid mistakingly by Mr. Caughey. It was reported out of the Appropriation Committee after full investigation. It was suggested to me by the Auditor General that the bill be introduced.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question,

Wi l the House agree to the bill on third reading?

BILL POSTPONED.

Mr. BENSON. Mr. Speaker, I move that further consideration of this bill be postponed for the present.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I feel that this is one of the important bills of the House and that the gentleman from McKean should fix a date for it to come up on special order. If it is put on the postponed calendar, it might be called up at any moment and as it involves the question of taxation of the whole State of Pennsylvania, I will agree to any time that he may suggest for making it a special order.

HOUSE BILL NO. 383 MADE A SPECIAL ORDER.

Mr. BENSON. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be made a special order of business for next Wednesday morning at 10.30 o'clock.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

BILLS ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1825 (Senate No. 259), entitled:

An Act to amend an act approved the first day of June one thousand nine hundred and eleven entitled "An Act defining what shall constitute the offense of malicious injury to railroads providing a punishment therefor fixing the punishment in case of loss of life as a result of such offense and repealing sections one hundred fifty-two and one hundred forty-three of an act approved the thirty-first day of March Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and sixty entitled 'An Act to consolidate revise and amend the penal laws of this Commonwealth' and an act approved the twenty-sixth day of May Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and ninety-one entitled 'An Act defining the offense of the taking of human life through the willful and malicious wrecking of cars and locomotives upon railroads in this Commonwealth' "

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

NAYS—0.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk return the same to the Senate with information that the House has passed the same without amendment.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 894, as follows:

An Act to prohibit the capturing killing or exposing to sale of woodcock within this Commonwealth for a period of two years and providing penalties for the violation of its provisions

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That for and during a period of two years from and after the pasage of this act it shall be unlawful to capture or kill or to attempt to capture or kill or to have in possession either living or dead or to expose for sale any woodcock within this Commonwealth

Section 2 Any person violating any of the provisions of this act shall be liable to a penalty of twenty-five dollars ($25.00) for each offense or in default of the payment thereof with costs of prosecution to undergo an imprisonment in the jail of the county where the offense is committed of one day for each dollar of penalty imposed

Section 3 All other acts or parts of acts inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed

On the question ,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, I question whether we ought to pass this bill or not. The thought comes to my mind if we are going to simply protect game or woodcock in Pennsylvania and the State to the south of us and the State to the north of us do not, it is not a wise proposition. If the author of the bill is not here to explain the bill, I would suggest postponing further consideration at this time.

BILL POSTPONED.

Mr. COX. Mr. Speaker, I move that further consideration of this bill be postponed for the present.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

BILLS ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1618, as follows:

An Act authorizing Boyd L Hunter a citizen of Centre county Pennsylvania to bring suit in the Court of Common Pleas of Centre county against the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania by virtue of the power vested in it by section eleven of article first of the Constitution of Pennsylvania does hereby authorize and allow Boyd L. Hunter a citizen of Centre county Pennsylvania to bring suit either at law or equity in the Courts of Common Pleas of Centre County against the said Commonwealth of Pennsylvania for such sum or sums of money that may be legally or justly due the said Boyd L Hunter by the said Commonwealth of Pennsylvania Said suit or suits to be subject to the same rules of pleading evidence and appeal as other suits brought in said court are subject

On the question ,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. GRAMLEY. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to insert amendments at this time.

The SPEAKER. The amenndments will be read for information.

The Clerk then read the amendments as follows:

Amend Section 1 line 9 by striking out the brackets and the word "Center"

Amend line two in title by striking out the brackets.

Amend line three in title by striking out the word "Centre."

The SPEAKER. Will the House give its consent to the insertion of these amendments? The Chair hears no objection and as this amendment consists merely in striking out, the bill comes up on final passage.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

NAYS—0.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

The SPEAKER. It has been suggested that, in view of the fact that the calendar of the House is in better shape than it has been for some weeks, if we run on for another hour, until 7 o'clock, we may conscientiously adjourn for the week.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on third reading of H. R. Bill No. 1853 (Senate Bill No. 717), as follows:

An Act authorizing corporations of this Commonwealth to declare at any time or times dividends out of net profits and prescribing the time within which the same shall be paid

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That all corporations heretofore or hereafter incorporated under any special or general law of this Commonwealth may at any time or times declare dividends of so much of their net profits as shall appear advisable to the directors such dividends to be paid to the stockholders or their legal representatives at such time after their declaration as the directors may fix but such dividends shall in no case exceed the amount of the net profits actually acquired by the company so that the capital stock shall never be impaired thereby

Section 2 That anything contained in any general or special law inconsistent with this act be and the same is hereby repealed

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. JOHN ROBERT JONES. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask anyone who sponsors this bill in the House to give an explanation of its meaning and purpose.

BILL RECOMMITTED.

Mr. HEIDINGER. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be recommitted to the Committee on Judiciary General.

Mr. BROSIUS. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

BILL ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on third reading of H. R. bill No. 1435, entitled:

An Act to amend section one of an act entitled "An Act making it unlawful to trespass upon land posted as private property and providing the penalty therefor" approved the fourteenth day of April Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred and five limiting the lands to which the provisions of said act shall apply

BILL RECOMMITTED.

Mr. WILDMAN. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be recommitted to the Committee on Judiciary Local for the purpose of amendment.

Mr. MARTIN. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

BILLS ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on third reading of H. R. bill No. 1354, as follows:

An Act making it a misdemeanor to sell or offer for sale any ticket or tickets for admission to or for a seat or seats in any theatre or place of public amusement or entertainment for a sum in excess of the price printed thereon or to sell any such ticket or tickets except as the duly designated agent of the theatre or other place of amusement or entertainment and providing a penalty therefor

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That hereafter it shall be the duty of every person who whether as owner manager or lessee or otherwise engages in the business of managing or conducting any theatre or other place of public amusement or entertainment and who shall sell or offer for sale or procure to be sold or offered for sale any ticket or tickets for admission thereto or for a seat or seats therein to plainly print or cause to be printed upon the face of such ticket or tickets the price for which the same is to be sold at the box office of such theatre or other place of public amusement or entertainment

Section 2 It shall be unlawful for any person except a duly designated agent of such theatre or other place of public amusement or entertainment to sell or offer for sale any ticket or tickets for admission to any such theatre or place of public amusement or entertainment or for a seat or seats therein or for any person whatsoever to sell or offer for sale or procure to be sold or offered for sale any such ticket or tickets for a greater price than that so printed thereon as the price for which the same is sold at the box office of such theatre or other place of public amusement or entertainment

Section 3 Any person violating any of the provisions of this act shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and on conviction thereof shall be sentenced to pay a fine of one hundred dollars for each ticket sold or offered for sale in violation of the provisions hereof

Section 4 This act shall take effect on the first day of August one thousand nine hundred and thirteen

Section 5 All acts or parts of acts inconsistent herewith be and the same are hereby repealed

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

NAYS—0.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on third reading of H. R. bill No. 1849 (Senate Bill No. 567), entitled:

An Act to amend an act approved the twenty-eighth day of April one thousand eight hundred ninety-nine entitled "An Act to provide for the classification of the townships of the Commonwealth with respect to their population into two classes and to prescribe the form of government for townships of each class" as amended providing for the creation and certification of first class townships from portions of a second class township or townships.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, it seems to me we ought to examine this bill a little before we pass it. It provides in Section 2, in the second clause, that a second class township joining a first class township, which township contains three hundred peop'e to the square mile, can by certain procedure annex itself to the first class township. Now, the evil of that would be that a wealthy portion of a second class township might withdraw to the first class township, to the detriment of the second class township. and it seems to me that it would be an unwise proposition.

BILL POSTPONED.

Mr. MITCHELL. Mr. Speaker, I move that further consideration of this bill be postponed for the present.

Mr. BROSIUS. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to amend the motion by making the bill a special order for a certain day. By putting this bill on the postponed calendar, it might possibly be overlooked.

Mr. MITCHELL. I will call it up within the five days required by the rule.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, perhaps the gentleman does not understand. A bill on the postponed calendar can be called up at any moment and we are more or less called out of the House on other matters, and I might not be present. I would very much like to have the gentleman fix a special time.

The SPEAKER. Doubtless the gentleman from Erie would agree to notify the gentleman from Delaware before he calls the bill up.

Mr. MITCHELL. Mr. Speaker, I do not think it is sufficiently important to make it a special order, but I will agree to notify the gentleman from Delaware before bringing it up.

The motion was agreed to.

BILL ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on third reading of H. R. bill No. 1650, entitled:

An Act requiring in certain counties that deeds conveying real estate recite the full consideration therefor and providing a penalty for the failure to recite such consideration.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I am frank to say that I do not know of any place to record deeds except in the recorder's office. I do not see much sense in the bill.

BILL POSTPONED.

Mr. LESLIE. Mr. Speaker. I move that further consideration of this bill be postponed for the present.

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

The SPEAKER. The members seem to hesitate about calling up bills about which there is any question. If there is no objection we wi'l spend a little time on bills which gentlemen desire to call up, taking up only such as the sponsors wish to have taken up.

BILLS ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on third reading of H. R. Bill No. 1881 (Senate Bill No. 643), entitled:

An Act empowering all corporations incorporated under the laws of the State of Pennsylvania to acquire hold use and enjoy real estate of the clear yearly rental value or income of fifty thousand dollars.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. ISLER. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to offer amendments at this time.

The SPEAKER. The amendments will be read by the Clerk.

The Clerk read the amendments as follows:

Amend Section 1, line 5, by inserting after the word 'incorporated" the following: "for purposes not for profit."

Amend Section 1, line 5, by inserting after the word "under" being the second word instead of line, the following: "any general or special law' and by striking out the words "the laws."

Amend section 1, line 9, by striking out the word "value" being the second word in said line and inserting said word "value" after the word "rental", the word "rental" being the third word in said line.

Amend section 1, line 10, by striking out the first word of said line "thing" and inserting therefore the word "limitation."

Amend the title, line 2, by inserting after the word "Pennsylvania" the following: "for purpose not for profit."

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to insert the amendments as read?

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I wish to call the attention of the gentleman that that word "any" at the end of line 9 and the word "thing" at the beginning of line 10 should be stricken out together.

Mr. ISLER. Mr. Speeaker, this is another stepson of mine. I am merely doing this for Mr. Stein, who turned the amendments over to me and asked me to look after them while he is away.

The SPEAKER. Is there any objection? The Chair hears none and the amendments as read will be inserted in accordance with the instructions of the House.

The bill as amended was then agreed to.

Ordered, That the bill as amended lie over for printing.

Mr. SEMMENS. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to call up at this time for the purpose of amendment, House Bill No. 1536, page 33 of to-day's calendar, bills on third reading.

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent for the consideration of the bill at this time? The Chair hears no objection and consent is granted.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1536, entitled:

An Act authorizing counties to charge telephone telegraph electric light or gas light companies or other public service corporations now maintaining poles on county roads a reasonable license fee providing for the removal of such poles in case of non-payment requiring such companies hereafter occupying county roads to agree in writing with the county commissioners in relation to such occupancy and the compensation to be paid therefor and providing for the use of all monies received under this act

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. SEMMENS. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to offer an amendment at this time.

The SPEAKER. The amendment will be read by the Clerk.

The Clerk read the amendment as follows:

Title, line six, after roads insert "with their poles wires conduits or other apparatus"

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to insert the amendment as read? Is there any objection? The Chair hears none and the amendment as read will be inserted in accordance with the instructions of the House.

The bill as amended was then agreed to.

Ordered, That the bill as amended lie over for printing.

Upon calling over the remaining bills on the calendar it was agreed that the following bills would be called up in order: Calendar Nos. 44, 53, 57, 58, 59, 61, 62 and 63, the intervening bills to hold their place on the calendar.

Agreeably to order.

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 873, entitled:

An Act to amend an act entitled "An Act to organize the State Hospital for the Insane at Danville and provide for the government and management of the same" approved the twenty-seventh day of March Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and seventy-three so as to change the term of the superintendent of said hospital and extend the powers of the trustees of said institution

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. RAMSEY. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to offer an amendment at this time.

The SPEAKER. The amendment will be read by the Clerk.

The Clerk read the amendment as follows:

Section one, lines three and six, Beginning with "that" in line three strike out down to "That" in line six.

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous cansent to insert the amendment as read? Is there any objection? The Chair hears none and the amendment as read will be inserted in accordance with the instructions of the House.

The bill as amended was then agreed to.

Ordered, That the bill as amended lie over for printing.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 266, entitled:

An Act making an appropriation to the Gettysburg Battlefield Memorial Commission for various purposes

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, the merits of this bill were thoroughly investigated by a sub-committee of the Appropriation Committee that went into all the details and requirements and reported to the general committee, and it was reported out without a dissenting vote. It seems to me that in consideration of the fact that this is the fiftieth anniversary of that famous battle and the further fact that the sponsor of this bill has gone to his last home, that the bill ought to pass without a dissenting vote.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order.

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1575, entitled:

An Act to further amend section twenty-one of an act entitled "A further supplement to an act entitled 'An Act to provide revenue by taxation' approved the seventh day of June Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and seventy-nine" approved June first one thousand eight hundred and eighty-nine

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker, and gentlemen of the House, I will not take up much of your time, but I think a brief explanation at this time would be very proper. This is a bill proposed by the Joint Tax Commission. The necessity for such a bill was suggested by the action of the Provident Life and Trust Company, of Philadelphia, which is an institution at once a trust company and doing also an insurance business, although not a mutual insurance company. When the taxing authorities thought to tax the invested securities of the reserve fund as entering into the capital of that company, the officers of that company insisted that that fund was held for the benefit of the policy holders. Then when the local authorities sought to put on a four mill tax these officers then insisted that it was a portion of the capital stock and denied the right of the local authorities to collect a tax. I might say in that connection—that was three years ago—the amount of this taxable property was thirty millian dollars and now it amounts to something like fifty million dollars, and so you can readily see what an advantage it is to the State revenue to have a bill like this which will not permit this shifting of what today is claimed to be capital stock and what tomorrow is not capital stock, and I ask the members of the House to pass this bill.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

NAYS—0.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on Third Reading of H. R. bill No. 912 entitled:

An Act laying a tax on anthracite coal and providing for the colection and distribution of the same

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. DAVIS. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to offer an amendment at this time.

The SPEAKER. The amendment will be read by the clerk.

The Clerk then read the amendment as follows:

Amend Section 5, line 2, by striking out "one-half" and insert in lieu thereof "three-fourths."

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to the insertion of the amendment? Is there any objection?

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I object.

Mr. DAVIS. Mr. Speaker, I hope the gentleman will withdraw his objection. The only natural resources we have in northeastern Pennsylvania is the anthracite coal and we are getting nothing from it. This puts a tax of a mill and a half on anthracite coal, and will give the State its fair share. We represent Luzerne, Lackawanna, Dauphin, Schuylkill, Northampton and Susquehanna Counties. As I said before, the only resource we have is our coal, and we are entitled to it all, if it comes down to that, and I hope that the members will adopt this amendment to give three-fourths of the tax back to the county from which it comes.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I would state to the House that this tax is less than that suggested by the Revenue Commission which was in session not only two years, but for four years examining this very question. This tax does not prevent the local authorities from placing whatever taxes they desire on the coal property. The Tax Commission thought that by placing this tax of one and one-half per cent on the coal, and sending half of it back to the districts that it would be fair. Surely the State is entitled to something from these deposits. The local authorities can tax them as they see fit, and I do not think that this is taking anything from them. This was our conclusion, and I think ought to be the conclusion of the House. It is also the wisdom of the Commission and of the Ways and Means Committee.

Mr. DAVIS. If the State places this tax on the anthracite coal, why not upon the bituminous? The price of anthracite will be increased. Eighty per cent of the anthracite coal is shipped out of Pennsylvania. If we increase the price of the anthracite coal, we are going to make a market for the soft coal. The Constitution to-day states that you can tax coal only in place. This is double taxation, but by the amendment I have offered, the State will get the benefit of the tax also.

BILL POSTPONED.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I move that the further consideration of this bill be postponed for the present.

Mr. RONEY: Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

REPORTS FROM COMMITTEES.

Mr. MITCHELL, from the Committee on Labor and Industry, reported as amended House Bill No. 1614, entitled:

An Act authorizing the attachment of wages or salary upon judgments obtained for necessaries limiting the amount of exemption to be claimed and providing for notice to debtor before attachment proceedings are instituted and exempting debtor from costs

Mr. WILLIAMS, from the Committee on Appropriations, re-reported as amended House Bill No. 292, entitled:

An Act making an appropriation to carry further into effect the provisions of an act approved the tenth day of April one thousand nine hundred and seven entitled "An Act creating a reward or bounty for the destruction of certain noxious animals killed within the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania providing a method for the payment of the same by the several counties of the Commonwealth which in turn are to be reimbursed by the Commonwealth making an appropriation for such reimbursement and providing penalties for violation of its several provisions" and to reimburse counties for moneys paid under the provisions of such act

Mr. LOHR, from the Committee on Agriculture reported as amended House Bill No. 26, entitled:

An Act providing for the licensing and bonding of persons firms and corporations engaged in selling agricultural products on commission providing for action on such bonds and fixing penalties for violation of this act

ADJOURNMENT.

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker, I move that this House do now adjourn.

The motion was agreed to, and at 6:40 P. M. the House adjourned until next Monday evening at eight o'clock.

COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA.

Session 1913 — 120th of the General Assembly

VOL. 2. HARRISBURG, PA., MONDAY, APRIL 28, 1913. No. 56.

SENATE

MONDAY, April 28, 1913.

The Senate met at 9 o'clock P. M.

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE (Mr. D. P. Gerberich) in the Chair.

The Chaplain, Rev. A. C. James, offered the following prayer:

"They that trust in the Lord shall be as Mount Zion which cannot be removed." "We lift up our eyes unto the hills from whence cometh our help; our help cometh from the Lord which made heaven and earth." "Blessed is the man which walketh not in the counsel of the ungodly; nor standeth in the way of sinners, nor sitteth in the seat of the scornful, but his delight is in the law of the Lord, and His law doth he meditate day and night." We, O Lord, enter upon the labors of another week. In the words of thy servant, "If Thy presence go not with us, carry us not up hence." We know not what work Thou shalt commit unto our hands, but we read in Thy Word, "As thy days, so shalt thy strength be." We know not whither Thou shalt call us to go, but we hear a voice saying: "Lo, I am with you alway even unto the end of the world." Now, Lord, with bowed heads and uplifted hearts we again offer unto Thee with all the earnestness of our souls a prayer for him whose face has brightened this chamber; whose handclasp has always thrilled us and whose kindly word has always cheered us. For one—our brother and colleague—who walks in the Valley of the Shadow of Death. How true Thy word: "In an hour that we think not the Son of Man Cometh." If it be Thy will, may he remain with us and not go hence. Bless Thou the means being used; guide Thou the hand of the physician; be Thou with her of whom he so often spake, his dear wife, whose tender hand ministers unto him. God bless them both. We ask it in our Redeemer's name. Amen.

The PRESIDENT. A quorum of the Senate being present the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. HOMSHER, the further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

PETITIONS.

FAVORING MONUMENT TO MOLLY PITCHER.

Mr. NULTY presented petitions of Richmond Council No. 147, D. of L., and Penn Treaty Council No. 167, D. of L., favoring the passage of bill to erect a monument to Molly Pitcher.

Which were referred to the Committee on Appropriations.

FAVORING THE ERECTION OF MEMORIAL TO THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS AND THE FOUNDERS THEREOF.

Mr. NULTY presented petition of Richmond Council No. 147, D. of L., favoring the passage of bill providing for the erection of memorial to the public schools and the founders thereof.

Which was referred to the Committee on Appropriations.

FAVORING PENSION TO SOLDIERS, SAILORS AND MARINES.

The Chair presented petition of the Pennsylvania Division, Sons of Veterans, U. S. A., favoring the passage of bill providing for pensions to soldiers, sailors and marines, who enlisted from Pennsylvania between 1861 and 1865.

Which was referred to the Committee on Pensions and Gratuities.

FAVORING PASSAGE OF SENATE BILL NO. 1140, HOUSE BILL NO. 938.

Mr. VARE presented petition signed by every member of the Police Department of Philadelphia praying for the passage of Senate Bill No. 1140 (House Bill No. 938).

Which was referred to the Committee on Law and Order.

LEAVES OF ABSENCE.

Mr. SENSENICH asked and obtained leave of absence for the Senator from Warren, Mr. Knapp.

Mr. MILLER asked and obtained leave of absence for the Senator from Berks, Mr. Herbst, for the balance of the week on account of illness.

COMMITTEE TO ARRANGE FOR TESTIMONIAL TO HONORABLE ARCHIBALD W. POWELL.

The PRESIDENT. In pursuance of resolution adopted last week in reference to properly recognizing the leaving from this body of the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. Powell, the Chair appoints the following committee: Senators McNichol, Crow, Magee, Vare and Hall.

BILLS SIGNED.

And Whereas, Resolutions have been introduced requesting the endorsement of this Genreal Assembly for each of these compositions;

Therefore, Be It Resolved (If the House of Representatives concur), That a Joint Committee of the Senate and House of Representatives, two to be appointed by the President of the Senate and three to be appointed by the Speaker of the House, inquire into and test by competition, if necessary, the merits and availability of the said compositions for selection as the official song of this Commonwealth, and to make such recommendation as they shall deem proper.

Mr. SHEATZ. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Rule 39 be suspended in order that the resolution just read may be considered at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate resumed consideration of Senate Bill No. 685 (House Bill No. 787), as follows:

An Act to amend an act entitled "An act to amend section one of an act entitled 'An act to provide that municipal corporations shall not be required to file affidavits of defense in actions of assumpsit' approved the twenty-sixth day of April Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and ninety-three providing for the making and filing of an affidavit of the amount admitted to be done by such municipal corporations in any such actions and authorizing the plaintiff or plaintiffs therein to take judgments for the amount so admitted to be due" "approved the third day of May Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred and nine"

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That section one of an act entitled "An act to amend section one of an act entitled 'An act to provide that municipal corporations shall not be required to file affidavits of defense in actions of assumpsit' approved the twenty-sixth day of April Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and ninety-three providing for the making and filing of an affidavit of the amount admitted to be due by such municipal corporations in any such actions and authorizing the plaintiff or plaintiffs therein to take judgment for the amount so admitted to be due" "approved the third day of May Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred and nine" which now reads as follows

"That municipal corporations shall not be required to file affidavits of defense in actions of assumpsit provided however that in any action of assumpsit now pending or hereafter brought when all or any part of plaintiff's claim in and such action is admitted to be due the city solicitor shall within thirty days after the service of the writ in such suit file the affidavit of the director or chief officer of the department of the defendant municipal corporation having charge of the subject matter of such suit or action setting forth the amount admitted to be due the plaintiff in such action whereupon the plaintiff therein may take judgment against such municipal corporation for the amount so admitted to be due and interest on said amount admitted to be due shall thereupon cease and the case shall be proceeded in for the recovery of the balance of the claim of the plaintiff in like manner as now provided by law in other cases" be and the same is hereby amended so that it shall read as follows

Section 1 That municipal corporations shall not be required to file affidavits of defense in actions of assumpsit Provided however That in any action of assumpsit now pending or hereafter brought when all or any part of plaintiff's claim in any such action is admitted to be due the city solicitor within thirty days after the service of the writ in such suit file the affidavit of the director or chief officers of the department of the defendant municipal corporation having charge of the subject matter of such suit or action setting forth the amount admitted to be due the plaintiff in such action whereupon the plaintiff therein may take judgment against such municipal corporation for the amount so admitted to be due and interest on said amount admitted to be due shall thereupon cease and the case shall be proceeded in for the recovery of the balance of the claim of the plaintiff in like manner as now provided by law in such cases

In case of the failure or refusal of the director or chief office of the said department to make or of the city solicitor to file such affidavit the plaintiff may by proper petition to the court take depositions to establish if possible the fact as to whether or not any amount is due by the defendant to tne plaintiff and if it appears from such depositions that any amount is due by defendant to plaintiff the court may thereupon enter judgment for the amount so admitted or thus shown to be due plaintiff by defendant

Section 4 It shall be the duty of the commissioners of water works in each borough or incorporated town of the Commonwealth where a commission of water works is established to meet within ten days after their appointment and annually thereafter and organize by electing a president and secretary

Section 5 It shall be the duty of said commissioners after having duly organized to take full charge and control of the water works of such borough or incorporated town Said commissioners shall have power to appoint all necessary officers and agents and take from them respectively such security for the faithful performance of their duty as they shall deem proper and to fix the salaries and wages of such officers and agents to provide for the repair extension improvement and maintenance of said water works and the erection of new water works to collect water rents and to make and establish the rates terms and conditions upon which water will be furnished to applicants therefor and to make by-laws rules and regulations for the economical and efficient management and protection of said water works

Section 6 Whenever in the judgment of said commissioners it may become necessary to extend the water works or to erect new water works said commissioners shall have power in the name of said borough to acquire by purchase or to condemn real estate necessary for such purpose whether situate within or beyond the territorial limits of said borough or incorporated town if said commissioners are unable to agree with the owner thereof as to the price to be paid for said real estate they may apply to the court of common pleas of the proper county under the provisions of the act of the twenty-third day of June Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred and eleven Pamphlet Laws one thousand one hundred and twenty-three entitled "An Act establishing in each county a board of viewers prescribing their duties providing for their appointment as viewers road juries juries of view and commissioners to view land and providing for the charges upon the respective counties in the matter of salaries costs and expenses thereof" for a board of view to assess damages

Section 7 The council of any borough or incorporated town within this Commonwealth may upon the request of the commissioners of water works issue bonds for the extension of water works or the erection of new water works Said bonds shall be issued in the form and manner now provided for by law and shall be designated "water works bonds' They shall be delivered to said commissioners from time to time upon their requisition after the commencement of the work for the payment of which such bonds were issued Each such requisition shall be accompanied by a detailed statement of the work done and matrials purchased Said bonds shall not be sold for less than par and the proceeds thereof shall be applied to the purposes for which said bonds were issued and no other

Section 8 The said commissioners shall prepare plans and specifications of all work to be performed and materials necessary for the repair maintenance and extension of such water works or the erection of new water works and shall by due public notice invite proposals for the performing of such work and the furnishing of such materials and shall in all cases let the contracts therefor to the lowest responsible bidder and shall take adequate security for the performance of such contracts

Section 9 Said commissioners shall make a monthly report to the council of the borough or incorporated town of the receipts and disbursements during the preceding month and annually make a detailed report of the condition of said water works which shall be published by the council of said borough or incorporated town for the information of the public Said commissioners shall cause all moneys collected to be deposited weekly by the collectors with the borough treasurer who shall return a receipt therefor to the said commissioners All moneys so collected shall be kept in a separate fund and shall be used for the purpose of repairing maintaining and extending said water works the erection of new water works or the payment of any indebtedness on said water works and for no other purpose No money shall be drawn from said fund except upon order countersigned by the president and secretary of said commission

Section 10 All by-laws rules and regulations when made by said commissioners shall have the force and effect of ordinances of said borough or incorporated town and the penalties imposed thereby shall be collected in the same manner as penalties imposed by incorporated town or borough ordinances are now by law collected

Section 11 Whenever two or more boroughs or any borough and township having united in the construction or acquisition and maintenance of water works or hereafter uniting for the purpose of constructing or acquiring and maintaining water works desire to avail themselves of the provision of this act the councils of such boroughs and the commissioners or supervisors of such townships shall by joint action after ordinance or resolution duly passed apply to the court of common pleas of the proper county for the appointment of a commission of water works in accordance with this act Said commission shall be composed of citizens of each of said boroughs and townships so uniting

Section 12 All acts and parts of acts general local and special inconsistent with this act are repealed but this repeal shall not become effective in any borough or incorporated town until the authorities thereof shall by appropriate ordinance accept the provisions of this act Provided always however That anything herein to the contrary notwithstanding the act of Assembly entitled "An Act authorizing the creating of water works in the borough of Sewickley by commissioners and the issue of borough bonds and the levy of a special water tax" approved February twenty-first one thousand eight hundred and seventy-three (Pamphlet Laws one hundred and forty-seven shall in no wise be affected or repealed by this act

And said bill having been read at length the third time,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

Mr. HOKE. Mr. President, I would like to call the attention of the Senate briefly to the several reasons why I consider this a very dangerous measure. It seems to me that any Senator who has in his district any borough which owns its own water plants should hesitate and examine this bill very carefully before he votes for it. It provides that the court of common pleas, upon resolution passed by a borough council, shall appoint a water commission of three citizens and it gives to this commission plenary powers to regulate the conduct of the water plant and appoint officers and fix their salaries. It gives the commission the right of eminent domain to condemn property inside the borough and out of the borough, and it makes of the commission absolutely a law making body. It provides in section 10, that "all by-laws, rules and regulations when made by said commissioners shall have the force and effect of ordinances of said boroughs." It seems to me that it is giving too much power to the court of common pleas. My own opinion is that a court is created for the purpose of administering law and not to appoint bodies that are actually law-making bodies. Now this act provides that the court of common pleas shall appoint these commissioners on the action of the borough council without anything being said or done by the people of the borough, and after the commission is appointed the law provides no means whereby the people of the borough may get rid of the commissioners, and it seems to me it places too much power in the hands of the court and takes all of the power out of the hands of the citizens of the borough.

Mr. SNYDER. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the Senator from Franklin, Mr. Hoke.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Franklin, Mr. Hoke, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. HOKE. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. SNYDER. Has the Senator from Franklin, Mr. Hoke, in his district any water works owned by boroughs?

Mr. HOKE. Mr. President, I do, Chambersburg.

Mr. SNYDER. Mr. President, does the borough operate at a profit?

Mr. HOKE. Mr. President, indeed it does, and has ever since it was created as a borough.

Mr. SNYDER. Mr. President, does the Senator from Franklin, Mr. Hoke, have any information of any borough within our jurisdiction that owns its own water works where the water works are not operated at a profit?

Mr. HOKE. Mr. President, I have no information to that effect.

Mr. SNYDER. Mr. President, does the Senator from Franklin, Mr. Hoke, know the purpose of the bill at all?

Mr. HOKE. Mr. President, I think I do know the purpose of the bill.

Mr. SNYDER. Mr. President, the district I live in I do not think is any different from any other in the State, but in the county of Schuylkill we have several boroughs that are as large as several boroughs in the district that the Senator from Franklin, Mr. Hoke, represents, and they own their own water works. Now on account of the rotation of politics the water works have not the attention from some of the borough councils they ought to have; therefore the purpose of this bill, if I understand it rightly, is whenever a reform wave would strike a borough the good sound men, I mean of course those who are interested in the finances of the borough property, would get into council and they could then ask representing the people as they do, that the court of common pleas appoint citizens who would have no other interest, because they had no salaries, to run the water department properly and economically and for the benefit of the whole people, I have no fear of the court of common pleas doing anything, even in Schuylkill county, that would be against the will of the people, and it seems to me since the power is lodged in the councils to pass a resolution to ask the court of common pleas to appoint a commission no wrong can be committed against the people of that district and for that reason it seems to me that even in Chambersburg, if the borough desires that the water works should be conducted by a commission if the borough council would pass a resolution that the court should appoint such a commission, that would be the proper thing. All these advanced Senators talk in favor of commission government, because they have argued it on this floor, and this is only a commission form of government, that the courts shall appoint proper men to run the water works of the borough, and any Senator that is in favor of a commission form of government, I submit, cannot consistently be against this bill, especially as the court would not appoint inefficient men to conduct such an important department of the borough as the water works. But since there is some opposition and the gentlemen are not properly informed as to what a commission form of government ought to be, I move that the question, together with the further consideration of the bill, be postponed for the present.

Mr. CROW. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

BILL RECOMMITTED.

Mr. JONES. Mr. President, I move that Senate Bill No. 988, on third reading, entitled:

An Act to provide for the protection and preservation of game game-quadrupeds and game birds and song and insectivorous and other wild birds and prescribing penalties for violation of its several provisions be recommitted to the Committee on Game and Fisheries for the purpose of a hearing.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

BILL ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 997, entitled:

An Act to repeal section two of an act approved June third one thousand nine hundred and eleven entitled "An Act regulating the printing of the laws of this Commonwealth"

And said bill having been read at length the third time, and agreed to,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. JUDSON. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the Senator from Dauphin, Mr. Beidleman.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Dauphin, Mr. Beidleman, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. BEIDLEMAN. I will.

Mr. JUDSON. Mr. President, I understand from this bill that it is desired to repeal the Act of 1911 which provides that the appropriation bills shall be printed in a separate volume, and also providing that they receive a single line in the pamphlet laws.

Mr. BEIDLEMAN. This bill is intended to repeal the Act of 1911 so that all the laws passed at this session and subsequent sessions shall be contained in one volume as they were prior to the Act of 1911. There is no special good derived by reason of publishing them in two separate volumes. It is an expense to the State and by reason of publishing but one volume and including the appropriation bills you get all the laws into the pamphlet laws, and you certainly have considerable less expense in printing them.

Mr. JUDSON. Mr. President, I am opposed to this bill. I think it was a step in the right direction when the Legislature two years ago passed that Act. It did away with printing in the pamphlet laws each appropriation act in full and allowed to them one line each. It reduced the volume of the pamphlet laws and also the expense of printing the pamphlet laws and it makes them much more convenient.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—26.

Alexander,	Farley,	Kline,	Sheatz,
Beidleman,	Graff,	Kurtz,	Snyder,
Buckman,	Hall,	Magee,	Thompson,
Catlin,	Hoke.	Martin,	Vare,

NAYS—12.

Clark,	Jarrett,	Miller,	Powell,
Heacock,	Judson,	Mills.	Sensenich,
Hilton,	McIlhenny,	Nulty,	Wasbers,

A majority of all the Senators having voted "aye" the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present said bill to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

BILL ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 1000, entitled:

An Act to repeal section eight of an act entitled "An Act to classify the fish in the waters within this Commonwealth declaring which are game fish which are food fish and which are bait fish and to regulate the catching and sale and encourage the propagation of the same to protect the waters within this Commonwealth from unfair improper wasteful and destructive fishing and to protect the fish from being destroyed or injured by destructive means to provide for the appointment of fish wardens and to declare their official powers and duties to encourage and regulate the propagation of fish within this Commonwealth and to regulate the free distribution of the same by the Department of Fisheries in the waters within the same to define powers and duties of the Department of Fisheries to regulate the sale and shipment of fish artificially propagated for profit to forbid the sale of unlawful devices for catching fish and to provide penalties and punishments for the violation of the provisions of this act and providing how and by whom the costs shall be paid

And said bill having been read at length the third time,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

Mr. MILLS. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to amend the title, in line 1, by by inserting after the word "act" the words "approved the first day of May one thousand nine hundred and nine;" also in section 1, line 5, by inserting after the word "nine" the words "An Act to classify the fish in the waters within this Commonwealth; declaring which are game fish, which are food fish, and which are bait fish, and to regulate the catching and sale and encourage the propagation of the same, to protect the waters within this Commonwealth from unfair, improper, wasteful and destructive fishing, and to protect fish from being destroyed or injured by destructive means; to provide for the appointment of fish wardens, and to declare their official powers and duties; to encourage and regulate the propagation of fish within this Commonwealth, and regulate the free distribution of the same by the Department of Fisheries, in the waters within the same; to define powers and duties of the Department of Fisheries; to regulate the sale and shipment of fish artificially propagated for profit; to forbid the sale of unlawful devices for catching fish; and to provide penalties and punishments for the violation of the provisions of this act, and providing how and by whom the costs shall be paid;" also in line 6 by striking out "thhe" and inserting in lieu thereof the word "the;" also in line 21 by striking out the word "to."

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

The amendments were agreed to.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading as amended?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That the bill as amended be printed for the use of the Senate.

BILL OVER IN ORDER.

Mr. WASBERS. Mr. President, I ask that Senate Bill No. 1009 (House Bill No. 734), on third reading, entitled:

An Act to amend section twenty-two of the act of May first one thousand nine hundred and nine entitled "An Act to provide for the protection and preservation of game game-quadrupeds and game-birds and song and insectivorous and other wild birds and prescribing penalties for violation of its several provisions" by giving additional protection to ruffed grouse quail and wild water fowl

But no prosecution shall be sustained under the provisions of this act against a retail dealer for the selling offering for sale exposing for sale or having in possession with intent to sell of any adulterated or misbranded article of food as defined herein if the retail dealer from whom the said article of food sample or portion thereof was obtained by the Dairy and Food Commissioner or his agent can establish a guaranty signed by the manufacturer or wholesale dealer or jobber or distributor residing in the United States from whom such article of food was purchased or procured to the effect that the same is not adulterated or misbranded within the meaning of this act designating it

Said guaranty to afford protection shall contain the name and address of the mnufaacturer or wholesale dealer or jobber or distributor making the sale of such article of food to such retailer and shall be in the following language

"I or we ———— (name of guarantor) the vendor of the article of food mentioned in the foregoing invoice do hereby guarantee and warrant that none of said articles of food are adulterated or misbranded within the meaning of the act of the General Assembly of Pennsylvania known as the General Food Act of one thousand nine hundred and thirteen"

(Signature ————————————)

(Address) ————————————

In such case the said manufacturer or wholesale dealer or jobber or distributor so as aforesaid giving such guaranty shall be amendable to the prosecution fines and other penalties which attach in due course to the retailer holding such guaranty under the provisions of this act for a violation hereof and every manufacturer or wholesale dealer or jobber or distributor giving a guaranty under the provisions of this act shall be held responsible and shall be proceeded against for the adulteration or misbranding of any article of food sold under said guaranty and shall be subject to the penalties for the violation of the provisions of this act No such guaranty shall operate as a defense to prosecution for a violation of the provisions of this act if the retailer holding such guaranty shall continue to sell the same article of food after written or printed notice from the Dairy and Food Commissioner or his agent that such article is adulterated or misbranded within the meaning of this act

Whenever it shall appear that any jobber wholesaler or dealer has had or has in his possession with intent to sell any goods which are adulterated or misbranded within the meaning of this act and which goods were manufactured in or shipped from another State into the State of Pennsylvania and sold under a guarantee of the non-resident manufacturer or dealer the Dairy and Food Commissioner shall certify all the facts and findings in such cases to the Secretary of Agriculture at Washington District of Columbia in accordance with the act of Congress approved June thirty one thousand nine hundred and six It shall be the duty of any person claiming immunity from conviction by reason of a guaranty of any adulterated or misbranded article of food sold offered for sale exposed for sale or had in possession with intent to sell to produce said guaranty for inspection upon being notified that any such article of food is adulterated or misbranded within the meaning of this act and failure or refusal to so produce said guaranty shall subject such person to prosecution and conviction for a violation of the provisions of this act the same as though he had no such guaranty

No guaranty shall avail for the protection of any person who shall violate the provisions of paragraph six section three of this act by having stored or transported or kept any article of food in a way or manner that may render the article diseased contaminated filthy or unwholesome

No guaranty shall avail for the protection of any person who shall violate any of the provisions of paragraph seven section three of this act

Section 6 For the purpose of this act an article shall be deemed to be the same article

First When it shall be of the same brand or have thereon the same label and shall be adulterated or misbranded in the same way

Second When it is not labeled or branded but is sold offered for sale or exposed for sale under the same name and adulterated or misbranded in the same way

Third When although sold offered for sale or exposed for sale under another name or labeled or branded in a different way it shall be found to be the product of the same manufacturer grower or maker and to be adulterated or misbranded in the same way Provided however That an article shall be deemed to be adulterated in the same way if it shall contain the same adulterant substance or substances

The seventh section of the bill was read as follows:

Section 7 That any person who shall violate any of the provisions of this act shall e guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof for the first offense shall be sentenced to pay a fine of not less than twenty-five dollars ($25.00) nor more than one hundred dolars ($100.00) and upon conviction thereof for any violation of this act committed subsequently to the said first offense shall be sentenced to pay a fine of not less than fifty dollars ($50.00) nor more than two hundred dollars ($200.00) or to undergo imprisonment of not more than sixty (60) days or both Provided That the term "first offense" as used in this section shall be held to include all violations of this act committed before any prosecution shall have been brought hereunder

Mr. CROW. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now adjourn until eleven o'clock to-morrow morning.

Mr. SALUS. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

The Senate adjourned at 11.59 o'clock P. M. until Tuesday morning April 29, 1913, at eleven o'clock.

ERRATUM.

In the proceedings of April 22, 1913, page 2083, second column, under heading "Bills on Second Reading," Senate Bill No. 683 (House Bill No. 745) entitled:

An Act for the protection of the public health and the prevention of fraud and deception by regulating the storage and sale of cold storage foods fixing penalties for the violation of the provisions thereof and providing for the enforcement thereof should read

Senate Bill No. 683 (House Bill No. 745) entitled:

An Act authorizing the creation division and consolidation of wards and a reappointment of all wards in cities of the third class providing a method therefor and fixing the minimum number of inhabitants in each ward

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

MONDAY, April 28th, 1913.

The House met at 8.00 o'clock P. M.

The SPEAKER (George A. Alter) in the Chair.

PRAYER.

The Chaplain, Rev. J. E. Wright, offered the following prayer:

O God, as we gather in our places for the work of this week, we are impressed anew with the sense of our responsibility. The questions submitted to us are not trivial questions, of transient or passing interest, but important questions affecting, and some of them vitally affecting, great multitudes of people. We would remember Thee as we enter upon our work, and we would remember as well the people whom we represent, constituting the homes of this Commonwealth, having to do with the schools, the churches and philanthropic institutions, doing the work which is wrought in the mines and factories, the forests and fields, in the offices and shops and streets, some of them possessed of great wealth, representing important interests, exercising large influences, some of them struggling and impoverished and under the stress of urgent need. We would not be disregardful of the people in our work, who are so affected by the things which we do. May we be men of sobriety and earnestness and discretion; may we not be afraid to form our judgments and to utter our decisions, and on the other hand may we not be presumptuous, bearing the duties of our office lightly. Preside Thou in all of the sessions of this Assembly during this week; bless Thy servant who directs and controls the work of the House, and continue to him the energy and vigor so essential to his work, and grant to supervise and control everything that is done so that it may promote in every way the interests of our Commonwealth. And Thy name shall have the praise of it forever. Amen.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the Journal of Thursday's proceedings.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of Thursday's proceedings, when, on motion of Mr. Humes, the further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

LEAVES OF ABSENCE.

Mr. ULERICH asked and obtained leave of absence for Mr. Neel for to-day and to-morrow on account of the death of his father.

Mr. HIBSHMAN asked and obtained leave of absence for Mr. Hoffman indefinitely, on account of illness.

Mr. Rex. asked and obtained leave of absence for Mr. Spangler for this evening's session.

The SPEAKER asked and obtained leave of absence for Mr. Pennegar for this session and Tuesday and Wednesday on account of illness.

The SPEAKER also asked and obtained leave of absence for Mr. Snavely, indefinitely, on account of illness.

RECONSIDERATION OF VOTE.

Mr. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer the following motion.

The SPEAKER. The motion fill be read by the Clerk.

The Clerk then read the motion as follows:

Moved by Mr. Williams of Tioga, seconded by Mr. Arthur, that the vote by which House Bill No. 1194, entitled:

An Act providing for the election of a borough controller in all boroughs of this Commonwealth prescribing the qualifications powers and duties thereof and abolishing the office of borough auditors in said boroughs was defeated on final passage on April 22nd, be reconsidered.

The SPEAKER. The question is on the adoption of the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

JOINT RESOLUTIONS INTRODUCED.

Mr. HOBBS asked unanimous consent to offer a joint resolution, which was read for information.

The SPEAKER. Will the House give its unanimous consent to the introduction of the resolution? Is there any objection. The Chair hears objection.

Mr. HOBBS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to have the privilege of explaining—of course under the rules the gentleman has the right to object—but this song is one that has become very popular among the educators of this Commonwealth.

It will be furnished to the schools of our Commonwealth as they see fit or desire to purchase it, at a very low rate. There is no idea or thought of any speculation and inasmuch as it should be the desire of every patriotic citizen to create the principle of patriotism and enthuse the rising generation with the—

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker,, in order not to delay this matter. I withdraw my objection.

The SPEAKER. The objection having been withdrawn, the Clerk will receive the resolution.

Mr. WILTBANK asked and obtained unanimous consent to introduce a joint resolution, which was read for information.

RESOLUTION NO. 45.

Mr. J. A. DUNN. Mr. Speaker, I deside to call up Resolution No. 45, file folio 6887.

The resolution was read as follows:

Resolved That the Chief Clerk of the House be instructed have five thousand copies of the Hunter's License law printed in pamphlet form for the use of the members of this House

On the question,

Will the House agree to the adoption of the resolution?

It was agreed to.

RESOLUTION NO. 42.

Mr. MITCHELL. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up Resolution No. 42, file folio 6771.

The resolution was read as follows:

Whereas By a concurrent resolution approved the thirteenth day of June one thousand nine hundred eleven a commission was authorized to be appointed by the Governor to examine into and ascertain the several pieces or tracts of land owned by or to which the State of Pennsylvania has title lying and being within the county of Erie or the city of Erie or the harbor of Erie or adjacent to said city of Erie and fronting upon the habor of Erie or Lake Erie or both and make a description of said tracts or pieces of land together with plots of the same and make report to the Governor thereon such commission serving without compensation and

Whereas Owing to the magnitude of the labors and the great amount of details required to be investigated the commission has been unable to make its report prior to this session of the General Assembly therefore

Be it resolved (if the Senate concur) That the said commission is hereby authorized to continue its labors in accordance with the said resolution and make its report to the Governor of Pennsylvania prior to the session of the Gen- such recommendations as the commission may see fit to make in the interests of the Commonwealth Said commission shall continue to serve without compensation

On the question,

Will the House agree to the adoption of the resolution?

It was agreed to.

RESOLUTION NO. 44.

Mr. STONE. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up Resolution No. 44, file folio 6775.

The resolution was read as follows:

Resolved That during the remainder of this session no member of the House shall be granted leave of absence excepting for cause shown

On the question,

Will the House agree to the adoption of the resolution?

A division was called for, 69 voting in the affirmative and 92 in the negative.

And it was not agreed to.

RECONSIDERATION OF VOTE.

Mr. PIPER. Mr. Speaker, I move that the vote by which House Bill No. 1458, file folio 6717, entitled:

An Act creating a Division of Distribution of Documents defining its powers and duties regulating the printing binding and distribution of the public documents of this Commonwealth and providing penalties for the violation of this act on page 15 of Thursday's Calendar, bills on final passage, was defeated, be reconsidered.

Mr. O'NEILL. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, it has been but a short while since the House took most decisive action on this bill. As I remember, there were fifty-nine yeas cast on this bill when the bill was up on third reading and final passage on last Thursday. The members of this House, at that time, Mr. Speaker, were put in possession of the facts in relation to the provisions of this bill. I do not know what conditions have made it so important now, or what conditions have changed so greatly the aspect of this bill, and it needs and requirements. It was finally drawn out from the people who stood as proposing and advancing this bill that the same distribution of the reports is being done now by a department which is being paid for it. There is no question but that it makes new jobs for somebody. What kind of job is anticipated I do not know. I do not say there is any, but there may be one.

The fact that this bill embodies in its provisions at this time for distribution, as I understand it, identically the same number of reports that are now proposed, it seems to me to be giving an idea of very far fetched results when you say that it is going to cheapen that department, if by the addition of two men to keep tabs on how many reports go out and how many somebody wants, when the same quantity, mark you, are printed under the provisions of this bill that are now printed under the law, hereafter, two years hence a new bill may be drafted in relation to how many reports of this kind and how many of that kind and how many of another may prepared. It seems to me to be very far fetched as a saving institution. We all know, Mr. Speaker, that during this session it has cost the State probably twice the amount of printing of bills that the original bills themselves would cost for the reason that the bills as a rule have been printed on an average of at least twice, many three and four and some five times, have gone to the printer, and to be asked now, the sort of a bill which is proposed here—I cannot turn to it now, because the folio has slipped my mind. But as I recall, the bill which is before us at this time, embraces not less than twenty-one pages of printing. If it takes that much printing at this time, and one or two sections, the first part of the bill, are devoted to the office duties, the main portion of the bill being taken up with the number of documents that are to be printed—they commence, I believe, on page probably nine, not later than ten—there is about twelve pages of this bill that are made up of a number of documents. Now, if after two years experience with a new department that is keeping check on how much of the State's printing goes out, how much is required by the members and by the various departments, it is found that a saving can be made in certain lines of printing, then we will chop a few hundred reports off here and a few hundred there. But surely some members of this House who are practical printers, and after the form is set up, Mr. Speaker, for any one of the Department publications, I care not what it is, even us members who know nothing about the printing business, know that after the form is made up that it costs very little for the additional copies; that a very small saving is made by the chopping off of one hundred copies here and one hundred copies there and one hundred copies yonder. Now, I ask this question, while the law provides just the same number of publications as are provided in this bill, has this House at any time or has anybody at any time called upon those who have had charge of distributing these reports to see whether or not those numbers could be cut down? I think not, isn't it possible, if you made some investigation and went to the chief clerk of the House of Representatives today, that he could tell us whether or not all of the Agricultural Reports were required, or all the Mining Reports were required or all the Fishery Reports were required, or all the Forestry Reports that are published are required, isn't it barely possible that he could do that? All that is in this bill, as explained on the floor of the House the other day, is that some man who has a job as superintendent, or assistant superintendent, shall have charge of that work and hereafter send out to some one of my constituents—I say send out one copy of such and such report to Thomas Brown, who lives at such and such a point, and mark it with my compliments, and it goes out and the State pays for it. Now look here at the saving end of it. Let us look at this a minute. I will receive at the end of my term a certain number of reports I don't know how many, but I know the clerk sends me a box or two of books and sends to each of the other members a box or two of books. Many of your constituents come to your place of business and ask for these books, and these books go out and they appreciate them coming from your hands; or you may do like one of my constituents does: You may order that book and have it wrapped and go to the post office and pay forty-two cents on a Smull's Hand book, because you write your compliments in it. That costs him forty-two cents. It costs me forty-two cents if I want to play the good fellow; but if the State sent it out, who will pay the bill? The State will pay it, because the State's credit with Uncle Sam is no better than yours or mine. Now you are paying somebody to send it out and this bill is before you as a saver for this State. Now let me ask the gentlemen on the other side of the House who is sponsor of this bill, whether or not he has calculated or any calculation has been made in relation to how much postage it will cost the State to send out these publications and whether or not that postage won't equal in amount the entire cost of the publications as they are made at this time? If it is not a saver what is it? A job maker? It is one of two things, and probably both. That it is a job maker cannot be denied, and I simply ask that question and I would like the gentleman on the other side of the House, who stands as sponsor for this bill, to tell this House if one-half of the publications provided for in this bill go out, what will it cost the State in postage, and how much would it cost the State to publish other half if it stop at the halfway point?

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, it don't need to take very long to tell just what there is in this bill. In the first place, every member of this House, I think, that has ever sent out public documents sent to him, realizes the great mass of useless books that come to most of us. It should not be so, I admit, but it is so. As a matter of fact, by statute we are allowed so many publications from the different departments. As a matter of fact it would be our duty, if we did it, to notify the different departments that we only want a certain amount. The result of it is in practice that very likely in the homes of nearly every member of this House who has served one or two sessions there are cart loads of public documents and I am willing to plead guilty to being one of them. I believe there are at my house a cart load of useless documents. In the time I served in this House, four terms, a four horse wagon load would not hold them all. It is true, I am partly to blame, but as far back as 1897 I saw the great necessity of this legislation, preventing that useless waste of public money. Now this law simply does this: That unless you put in your requisition for certain books, why you will not get any. It shifts the proposition. The result will be that each and every member will apply to this department for the number of publications that he desires and this awful waste will stop. I am frank to say to the House that it will make a saving of $50,000.00 a year, and I think more than that. If the other members of the House have been as negligent as I have and have received as many useless books as I have, it may make a saving of one hundred thousand dollars a year. I want to say in conclusion, that the next legislature, if this change has resulted in a greater expenditure instead of economy, then they can change back to the old statute. I will wager my reputation that it will make a saving to the State and we will get the books we need. When this bill was defeated the other day I never dreamed that would happen. At the time it was under discussion I passed out to get a glass of water, expecting to get back in time. I supposed the discussion would go on, but when I came back the roll was being called and to my utter surprise I found the House had defeated the bill. On inquiring around I discovered that this was because, in my opinion, they thought it was to create a new department and some more salaries, something with no economy to the State. I do think that every member of the House ought to vote to try this experiment. I venture the next House will approve of what this House has done.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman from Delaware permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, sure.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to ask the gentleman from Delaware whether he has any trouble in disposing of his Smull's Hand books?

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I am glad the gentleman asked the question. No, because of the lack of performing my duties as I should have done in this Legislature, and had a great mass of publications sent to me that should not have come, and we should have passed some legislation that a book that there is a tremendous demand for, namely, Smull's Hand books and the Pamphlet Laws, should be increased in number. We are to blame, perhaps you as well as I; but I do know the State at large wants Smull's Hand Books and Pamphlet Laws in larger number than we give them, but the other publications have been a tremendous waste. This is a move in the right direction, but where we are deficient is, that we have not provided legislation that gives us more Smull's Hand Books and more Pamphlet Laws and stop the useless waste on the reports of the Department of State.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to ask the gentleman if he has any trouble in disposing of agricultural reports among his agricultural constituents?

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I want to say, that four-fifths of the agricultural reports sent to me are now piled up at my home. I always supposed that the agriculturalists would demand the publications and each year I thought the demand would be greater, but each year that demand failed and now there is nearly a cart load there.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to ask the gentleman from Delaware, if he were allowed fifty agricultural reports and the State to pay the postage on them, if he would not furnish the State Department fifty names to whom to send the agricultural reports?

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. I would like to ask the gentleman if this bill does not provide that where the State can send by parcels post or express, whether it don't state in the bill—I so found it and read it in the bill—whether it is not compulsory on the part of the State that they be sent by parcel post or express, as I understand, if that is the cheapest method of doing it. It is true it provides that now you can send word to the State Department and have a single copy for one cent by mail.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to ask the gentleman if he would not furnish a list of fifty agriculturalists in his community to whom the head of that department could furnish by mail, express or by carrying it, or should convey fifty copies of the agricultural reports?

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, to say that I would not, would perhaps be an attempt to parade my honesty. I do not say so, but I do not believe I would; it does not so present itself to me. My experience tells me that it would not only be a waste of public documents but a waste of public revenue.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to ask the gentleman whether he does not know that the postal laws do not allow books to be sent by parcels post.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I believe the department of State will send them the cheapest way, and it may be the express rates will be cut down so as to meet the parcels post. The chances are that an express rate of five cents for five pounds will be made to compete with the parcels post.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to ask the gentleman further that if a form that we have referred to say Smull's Handbook, if a form is set up and being run off, what the cost is for extra copies to be printed and bound?

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Sepaker, I did not expect to be interrogated to the last detail on the printing proposition in this bill, but I presume the gentleman from Allegheny can answer that question for himself.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, no, I cannot. If I could, I would answer it. Not only that, if I did not know, I would not make a statement as to how much money it would save the State without having anything upon which to base my argument.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I have something upon which to base my argument, and that is the amount of reports and publications and documents, useless reports, that I have at home. I think that is a pretty good argument, and if it isn't I do not know where I can find one that is.

Mr. SCHUCK. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Allegheny has challenged a few of the provisions in this bill that I think it is necessary to answer. I will take up very little of your time, but I will not discuss picayune matters such as postage, where there is a big quarter of a million dollars proposition under consideration. That is the amount of money that this State pays for printing. This bill provides for a storekeeper and place him under contract and makes him amenable to the law and requires him to furnish a bond. I want to say that the United States Government at the present time is practicing this same system of adjustment of supply and demand. Massachusetts has a similar law. The gentleman from Allegheny wants to know why conditions have changed. They have changed because the members voted under a misapprehension of the merits and virtue of this bill. The more it is discussed with them, and the more you tell them about it, the more they appreciate it and favor it. There are two things in it that I will discuss and then I am through. It adjusts automatically supply and demand as the National Congress does with its supplies. Your lack of demand makes my increased supply. Second, it gets a record of the demand and makes it possible for the Governor, not this Governor, to cut down the unnecessary printing when it is found by this Department that it should be cut down. But by the present system, and the indiscriminate distribution, and the careless, loose business methods, we would never know what we are printing or how much we use. When we print too small a number, this Department comes in and asks for more of these reports to be paid for from the contingency fund. It is a simple business matter, and I think the members understand it fully, and I will take no more time to foster opposition to this bill.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to ask the gentleman from Westmoreland whether or not books and publications can be sent by parcels post.

Mr. SCHUCK. No, sir.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to ask the gentleman from Westmoreland the cost. we will say, of a Smull's Handbook after the form is set up, for additional copies?

Mr. SCHUCK. Mr. Speaker, I do not understand the question.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, approximately the cost of publishing and binding Smull's Handbook after the forms have been set up and a certain number, any number, have been printed?

Mr. SCHUCK. Mr. Speaker, that depends upon the number of lines and pages, and the binding of the book, but it would cost aproximately one dollar.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I would ask the gentleman if the publishing of Smull's Handbook such as was published in 1911 would not cost less than fifty cents?

Mr. SCHUCK. I do not thing so. However, these are small picayune matters when we have under consideration a big business proposition involving a quarter of a million of dollars.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I will ask the gentleman further, if even this system were put in operation, that in order to get down to the basis proposed by the system, it would not be required to have introduced in this session and have passed a bill specifying and limiting the number of publications each session?

Mr. SCHUCK. The number of publications of what?

Mr. ALLEN. Of each department.

Mr. SCHUCK. Mr. Speakr, this bill already specified the number of each report to be published annually.

Mr. ALLEN. But, Mr. Speakr, I do not want to be unfair. I think that the gentleman does not gather my question. If after a two years trial under the number of publications made in the present bill, it were found that there would be a large surplus in certain reports and a demand for certain other reports, would not a new bill have to be introduced in order to meet the required conditions?

Mr. SCHUCK. No, sir, it would not be because we could change the contract that the State has with the State printer.

Mr. ALLEN. Well then, Mr. Speaker, if that is the fact, there would be nothing gained by the provisions of this bill.

Mr. SCHUCK. Mr. Speaker, the next contract can change that.

The question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

It was agreed to.

The question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. E. G. M. KUHNS. Mr. Speaker, so that the members of the House will not make a mistake in voting, as in the roll call last week, I wish to call your attention to just a few facts. The gentleman from Delaware tells us that he has piles and piles of agricultural reports that he has not given out. I cannot understand why that is. I will agree with you that I am a novice in the legislative work. In 1911 I received my supplies and I distributed every copy of the agricultural reports. I went to the city of Allentown, and got every copy of the agricultural reports from my colleagues and distributed them. When the farmers ask for these reports, what are you going to tell them. Are you going to tell them that the State hasn't got any more? We are allowed to fill out a list to be sent to the little county of Lehigh. Where is the money saving proposition in this bill. I received the reports and distributed them myself and the State did not spend one copper. Where is the saving in that proposition. I want to cut short my remarks, but I want you not to make any mistake, but to give your vote to the right side in this question. Do not be lead, do not be blindfolded, but vote correctly.

Mr. HORACE B. DUNN. Mr. Speaker, in the back part of my office, a little over a hundred miles away, there are mining reports piled up almost to the ceiling. At different times, by trickery, cajolery, false pretence and other ways that are dark, I have succeeded in getting two miners to carry off two of these reports. The mining Department having heard of this sent word to me that they wanted these reports and that they would like very much if I would send the reports back to them C. O. D. I would like very much to do so and get them out of my office, but I have not had time to get them ready. Also as soon as I went home last week I had a letter from the Mining Department, beseeching me to send them down at once as they had urgent need of these reports in other places. It seems to me, gentleman, that is an argument in favor of this bill.

Mr. Watson. Mr. Speaker, I can repeat the same experience as my friend from Huntingdon. I had a quantity of books in my office which I sent to the junk dealer, and I think the only persons who are interested in defeating this bill are the junk dealers, because I sent wagon loads of mining reports, and reports of different kinds to them. As I understand this bill, we file an application for the character of books that we want, and then there will not be a surplus, and I think any member in this House can clearly see that in voting for this bill they will save the State thousands of dollars.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE.

Mr. EWING. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of personal privilege?

The Speaker. The gentleman will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. EWING. Mr. Speaker, in looking over the report of this bill when it was voted upon last week, I find that I have been recorded as voting in the negative, while I voted in the affirmative. I would like to have that corrected.

The Speaker. The gentleman will have an immediate opportunity of correcting it.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

CORRECTION OF CALENDAR.

Mr. NEWTON. Mr. Speaker, I desire to present a motion at this time.

The SPEAKER. The motion will be read by the Clerk.

The Clerk then read the motion as follows:

Moved by Mr. Newton, seconded by Mr. Showalter, that in view of the fact that the calendar is incorrect on page 19 of to-day's third reading calendar, where Senate Bill 464, file folio 1337, is recorded as being presented by Senator Powell but as Senator Powell is not sponsor of the bill and the bill was introduced by Senator Crow that the correction be made at this time.

The SPEAKER. The correction will be made by the Clerk.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE.

Mr. ULMAN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. ULMAN. Mr. Speaker, I was vigorously assailed by some of the leading newspapers of the State who allege that I was the author and favored the passage of House Bill 303, known as "the railroad service bill." For the information of these newspapers and the public generally I desire to state that the records will show that I am not the author of the bill nor the chairman of the Railroad Committee of the House; that as a member of the Railroad Committee I opposed this bill, as did a majority of the committee who were present when the same was taken up for consideration, and the bill was sent out with a negative recommendation.

Furthermore, in the Legislative Journal of March 19, 1913, on page 930, is the following:

"Mr. Ulman reports House Bill No. 303, with a negative recomendation."

and in the Legislative Journal of March 24th, 1913, page 1050, is recorded "by vote of House of Representatives, House Bill 303 was placed on the calendar, Mr. Ulman voting in the negative." I ask that this be spread on the Journal.

The SPEAKER. The matter will be entered on the Journal accordingly.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE.

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker, about three weeks ago, to be exact, three weeks ago to-morrow, the Ways and Means Committee appointed a sub-committee to consider Senate Bill No. 554, which had been referred to that committee for consideration. It was one of the three bills which have been popularly called "The Philadelphia Bills," concerning which some fifteen hundred persons came from Philadelphia to this House some few weeks ago to advocate their passage. The sub-committee was composed of Philadelphians because at the time this bill seemed to effect peculiarly Philadelphians and Philadelphia improvements. The sub-committee held several meetings in Philadelphia for the purpose of securing information which we considered pertinent for us to have as a Ways and Means Committee and for the further important reason that it was pertinent for the members of this Legislature. Immediately following these meetings a number of newspapers of Philadelphia began to assault the members of the committee calling approbrious names and otherwise indicating that these men were not acting in good faith and impugning their motives as legislators. I think, Mr. Speaker, that it is only proper that we should call this matter to your attention by my rising to a question of personal privilege because I think that committee striving to get the information, which you as a legislator should have, should not have their motives impugned except upon solid and substantial reasons. It is, therefore, Mr. Speaker, that I take great pleasure to-night in calling your attention to a communication which I have received from the Mayor of the City of Philadelphia, Mr. Rudolph Blankenburg, as a result of the conference which was had between the Mayor and the sub-committee on April 28th, 1913.

April 28, 1913.

Hon. W. H. Wilson, Chairman,
Sub-Committee of Ways and Means Committee,
Harrisburg, Pa.

My dear sir:—I take pleasure in enclosing a letter from A. Merritt Taylor, Esq., Transit Commisisoner. This letter explains itself. At a harmonious conference held in my office this morning, participated in by yourself, Messrs. John R. K. Scott, A. Merritt Taylor, Parker S. Williams and Charles L. McKeehan, we fully discussed the amendments and I am glad to confirm and endorse Mr. Taylor's letter.

Trusting that nothing will now interfere with the passing of legislation so much needed by Philadelhia, I remain with regards,

Very truly yours,
(signed) RUDOLPH BLANKENBURG,
Mayor.

Mr. Speaker, I have also the communication from Mr. A. Merritt Taylor, the Transit Commissioner of Philadelphia, which was written to the Mayor of Philadelphia, and I ask leave to read this letter.

Philadelphia, April 28, 1913.

Hon. Rudolph Blankenburg, Mayor,
Philadelphia, Penn.

My dear sir:—As I stated in the conference held in your office this morning, I have very carefully considered the amendments made to Senate Bill No. 552 on third reading in the House of Representative on April 24th, and see no objection to them with the following exceptions:

1st: The proposed amendment to Section 3 in my judgment fixes too short a period within which work is to be started in all instances. Litigation or other delays over which a contracting party might have control whatever could arise to make compliance impossible. It had been my thought that this was among the several matters proper to be left to Councils to determine in authorizing the necessary contracts. Either the definite fixing of a longer period (say two years) or an exception to cover such unavoidable delays as I have referred to, would meet my objection.

2nd: There is a typograpical error in Section 8, 6th line. The word "county" should be substituted for the word "city."

As I have already indicated, I consider that there is nothing in any of these amendments, other than as above stated, detrimental to the interests of the City; or to suggest that the sponsors therefor have been actuated by any motive other than the City's interests.

Yours very ruly,
(Signed) A. M. TAYLOR,
Transit Commissioner.

It is therefore, Mr. Speaker, that I take this opportunity of calling to the House the fact of the impugning of the motives of this committee which we have established now by these letters and proven to be absolutely unfounded and which has in a sense been unpleasant to your committee and I think it only proper in view of the turn of affairs and in view of the communication from the Mayor and from the Transit Commissioner to say that our amendments are in the interests of the City and that the public press which has found fault with our work and has impugned our motives might give public retraction to the members of this House.

RECONSIDERATION OF VOTE.

Mr. FOSTER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to present a motion at this time.

The SPEAKER. The motion will be read by the Clerk.

The Clerk then read the motion as follows:

Moved by Mr. FOSTER that the vote by which House Bill No. 732, file folio 5341, entitled:

An Act to provide for the protection of insectivorous and fur bearing animals by fixing a season for trapping or killing the animal commonly called the skunk or pole cat and providing a penalty for violation of this act was defeated on final passage on April 23rd, 1913, be reconsidered.

On the question,
Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. METZENBACHER. Mr. Speaker, just a word to this bill. This bill was introduced at the request of a large number of farmers of this State. The skunk is considered one of the greatest insectivorous animals that we have. It destroys large numbers of white grubs and insects of all kinds, and the field mouse, which are the natural enemies of vegetation. Now, before introducing this bill I consulted Professor Surface, the State Zoologist, because I thought that he was a good authority along this line, and he gave it as his opinion that such a bill should be passed and that we should have had such a law before this time. It was he that prepared this bill, and it was Professor Surface that made the statement in the preamble to this bill, and he gave it as his opinion that that statement is true, and that he was not only willing, but that he desired the opportunity of appearing before the committee to which this bill would be assigned, and defend that statement

Mr. GRABE. Mr. Speaker, there are a great many of the members here that seems to take a measure of this kind as a joke. I want to say to you members that it it is not a joke. If you go home and consult your wives in reference to the potatoes that are ofttimes destroyed and are almost entirely unfit for use, they would convince you that a measure of this kind was not a joke. The skunk is the greatest friend that we have in reference to the white grub. If some of you would go back and cross some of the meadows in which those white grubs are working, you would soon be convinced of what that grub did for the want of the protection of the skunk that destroys this bug. I have seen some fields, pototo fields and meadows, almost entirely destroyed by these bugs, and you will not see that where the skunk has range of those fields. They take their broods and travel all night over these fields and live entirely on these varmints that destroy these plants. Now, I hope you men will not take this as a joke and will vote in favor of this measure.

The motion was agreed to.

On the question recurring,
Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

The majority required by the Constitution having voted affirmative the question was determined in the affirmative.

RECONSIDERATION OF VOTE.

Mr. CONRADE. Mr. Speaker, I move that the vote by which House Bill No. 1573, file folio 4425, entitled:

An Act to repeal an act entitled "An Act to prohibit the sale of intoxicating drinks in the townships of Ohio in the County of Beaver" approved the twenty-seventy day of March Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and sixty-six in so far as the same applies to the Borough of Midland on page two of Tues, April twenty-second's calendar, failed of passage, be reconsidered.

Mr. SPILLINGER. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question,
Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. G. A. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I trust that this motion will not prevail. This is the so-called "Midland Repealer," repealing a special prohibitory law applying to Ohio Township in Beaver County, so far as that bill covers the Borough of Midland in Beaver. Last Tuesday, this bill came up and was decisively defeated, the vote being eighty-two members for and ninety-one members against the bill. Now, there has been no change such as would justify a change in the position of the House on this bill. Last week, I pointed out to you when this bill came up on final passage that a petition presented in behalf of the bill had been stuffed. I pointed out to you that eighteen of the people who signed that petition had signed it twice. I pointed out that one man had signed it no less than three times. I pointed out that four minors had signed the petition. I pointed out to you that twenty-eight non-naturalized persons had signed it and that thirty-six persons, non-residents of the borough, had signed it. Those statements have not been denied, so far as I know, and I challenged their denial. If they be denied, I can produce proof of their absolute truth. Gentlemen, I ask you to vote down this motion.

Mr. LETZKUS. Mr. Speaker, the petition that the gentleman from Beaver refers to is not the one that I spoke of last Tuesday when this bill was up. The petition that was signed by non-residents and non-naturalized citizens had one hundred and eleven names. The petition that I spoke of has a list of one hundred and sixty-seven out of one hundred and sixty-nine voters of Midland Borough thereto attached. One man, I think, has signed it twice. No doubt the petition was taken around by different people. Since that time I have had letters and petitions from the people of Midland Borough, asking this to go through. I have a letter here from the Council of Midland Borough, also from the School Board of Midland Borough, and from the merchants of Midland Borough, begging this House to pass this Midland Repealer. I would like to ask the gentlemen from Beaver, Mr. Swift and Mr. Baldwin, if they have not received a telegram from sixty-five of the most prominent merchants and professional men and business men of Midland Borough, in the past week.

I would like to ask that question, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Beaver, Mr. Baldwin, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. G. A. BALDWIN. Yes, sir.

Mr. LETZKUS. Have you not received, in the past week, a telegram from the merchants, professional men, and also laboring men, to the number of sixty-five, asking Mr. Baldwin and Mr. Swift to support this "Midland Repealer?"

Mr. GEORGE A. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I would say that I received and I believe my colleague Dr. Swift received a telegram purporting to be signed by a number of people of the Borough of Midland. I did not count them, nor did I check up these names with the voting list.

Mr. LETKUS. Mr. Speaker, for the benefit of those members who were not here when this bill was defeated, I want to say that ninety-eight per cent. of the people of Midland Borough signed this petition for this repealer, and I think this House is justified in granting this repealer to the people. The conditions were explained to the gentleman why they wanted this repealer and I ask the members of this House to vote for this repealer and grant these people their request.

Mr. GEORGE A. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny (Mr. Letzkus).

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. LETZKUS. Yes, sir, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. GEORGE A. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman has stated that ninety-eight per sent. of the citizens of Midland Borough signed the petition.

Mr. LETZKUS. Mr. Speaker, the voters.

Mr. GEORGE A. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, to which petition does the gentleman refer?

Mr. LETZKUS. Mr. Speaker, the one with one hundred and sixty-seven names on.

Mr. GEORGE A. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, when was that petition circulated?

Mr. LETZKUS. Mr. Speaker, it is not dated, but here is the affidavit that is annexed:

State of Pennsylvania, County of Beaver, ss:

Personally appeared before me a, Notary Public, in and for the County and State, residing in the Borough of Midland, Charles McNeill, who being duly sworn according to law, deposes and says that the hereto subscribed names are qualified citizens of the Borough of Midland.

CHARLES McNEILL.

Sworn and subscribed this thirteenth day of March, 1913, before me,

W. K. HART, JR.,
Notary Public.

My Commission expires at the end of the next session of the Senate.

Mr. GEORGE A. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I would ask the gentleman if that is the same petition that was filed with the Law and Order Committee?

Mr. LETZKUS. Mr. Speaker, yes, sir; both the petitions were filed with the Law and Order Committee.

Mr. GEORGE A. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, these are the same petitions to which I referred last week and have compared the petitions with the voting lists, of which I hold a copy in my hand, taken from the records of the Commissioner's Office. I found this doubling of names, this signing of unnaturalized persons and by non-residents of the borough, checking it up with the voters' list, I found only fifty-seven on it who are actual voters of the borough, entitled to be on it; so I deny that any such per cent. have signed or would sign a petition of this kind.

Mr. SPEAKER, while I am on my feet I want to call the attention of the members of the House to the fact that the people of Ohio Township, outside the Borough of Midland, have not been consulted in the matter at all, by the gentlemen who are pushing this bill, and they are vitally concerned with the legislation. The prohibitory law covers the whole of Ohio Township and I do not hesitate to say to you Mr. Speaker, and members of this House, that if this proposition were submitted to the people of Ohio Township as a whole that they would vote it down by a two to one vote

Mr. LETZKUS. Mr. Speaker, this petition is sworn to and if the the gentleman from Beaver wants to he can prosecute the signer for perjury if it is not correct. This petition is not the petition with the unnaturalized citizens on. I did not quote that in my address to the House in behalf of the Midland bill. I just quoted the petition with the one hundred and sixty-seven names on out of one hundred and sixty-nine voters of Midland Borough.

On the question,

Of the adoption of the motion to reconsider,

The SPEAKER declared himself in doubt.

Whereupon a rising vote was taken, eighty-four voting in the affirmative and sixty-seven in the negative, and the motion was agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass?

POINT OF ORDER.

Mr. GEORGE A. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his point of order.

Mr. GEORGE A. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, this bill is special legislation and unconstitutional within the meaning of Article three Section seven of the Constitution. Next to the last paragraph of this section provides:

"Nor shall the General Assembly indirectly enact such special or local law by the partial repeal of a general law; but laws repealing local or special acts may be passed."

Now, Mr. Speaker, this special prohibitory law was enacted in 1866, prior to the adoption of the Constitution. The special prohibitory law covered the whole of Ohio Township. The Borough of Midland was carved out of Ohio Township six years ago. It is therefore incompetent for the Legislature to repeal that special prohibitory law as to any part of the territory covered by the original bill for the reason that new prohibitory territory would thereby be created.

In the case of Irwin et al vs. McCallum, Twenty-eighth Pamphlet Laws page 322, and in the case of Rassau vs. Vampbell, Fifty-ninth Pamphlet Laws, page 210, in my judgment this has been settled. In the case that I have referred to a special prohibitory law was passed in relation to Wilkins Township, in Allegheny County. afterwards by authority of the Court of Quarter Sessions, Sterritt Township was carved out of what was originally Wilkin's township. The Treasurer of the County granted a license in Wilkins Townships and the question was whether or not the prohibitory law applying to the whole of Sterritt Township had been impliedly repealed by the order of the Court of Quarter Sessions of Allegheny County incorporating the new township. The Court ruled, that was not so repealed.

Now, Mr. SPEAKER, the case presented here is one "on all fours" with these Allegheny County cases. I think by making an illustration that I can make it plain to every member of the House, whether he is a lawyer or not.

It would certainly be plain to you that it would not be constitutional to repeal this special law applying to Ohio Township, for instance, so far as it might apply to the farm of John Smith, located in that township. It could not be repealed as to one of the wards in the Borough of Midland, if as a matter of fact that borough, be dividided into wards. A special act could not be passed here repealing this special prohibitory law, for instance, as to the land on which a certain hotel in the town of Midland is erected. And by the same reasoning and by the same authority, no special law can be passed repealing that special prohibitory law as to any part of Ohio Township. It must be either all or nothing. I submit, Mr. Speaker, that this bill is unconstitutioned.

The SPEAKER. The Chair is of the opinion that the point of order is well taken, but in view of the uniform practice of submitting constitutional questions to the House, the question will be so submitted.

And the question is,

Shall the point of order be sustained?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. GEORGE A. BALDWIN and Mr. SWIFT.

The SPEAKER. The roll will be verified.

This was done as follows:

SPECIAL ORDER.

The SPEAKER. The hour of ten o'clock having arrived, the Chair lays before the House as a special order business House Bill No. 138, file folio, on final passage.

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on final passage of H. R. bill No. 1348, entitled:

A joint resolution proposing an amendment to the Constitution of Pennsylvania providing for the Initiative and Referendum

On the question,

Shall the bill pass?

Mr. BENSON. Mr. Speaker, in order to be as brief as possible I have typwritten what I have to say on this great question.

This bill calls for an amendment to the Constitution providing for the Initiative and Referendum.

The proposed amendment is the work of the Hon. William S. U'Ren, and Judson King, Secretary of the National Referendum League. It follows the Aregon plan but is modified from the original plan, as time and experience have shown to be necessary for the best results, both to the State and to the people. It provides for the direct initiative by which 50,000 legal voters may propose a law or constitutional amendment to the people by filing a petition with the Secretary of the Commonwealth four months before the general election. It provides for the indirect initiative by which 5,000 legal voters may propose any measure to the legislature. Such measure may then get all the discussion and wisdom the legislature has to give, and if the people are satisfied with the legislative action, then the end is accomplished, but, if the legislature refuses to act or enacts the bill in an abortive and worthless form, the people can, by an additional petition of 30,000 legal voters, have the original proposed measure brought to a vote of the people, or, if any improvements have been proposed in the legislature, or any better substitutes for the whole, after the debates thereon has been defeated, this better form can be initiated.

The referendum is provided by petition of 30,000 legal voters.

The initiative and referendum are reserved for the people of their respective municipalities, counties and districts, in and for their local affairs, and the measures petitioned for by the people are voted upon at the regular general elections except when the legislature or the Governor order special elections. This proposed amendment is without jokers, and will be of value to the people because it is beyond their reach to operate, but it is sufficiently difficult and well enough protected to prevent the submission of any question for which there is not a well-grounded and respectable demand. The people need the initiative and referendum as the quickest means by which they can overthrow a corrupt political machine which disgraces our State. By the initiative they can pass any law they want and by the referendum they can veto any law they do not want, and this is a deadly peril to the machine and to the representative who is really a representative of corrupt special interests, while it is a shield to the representative who really at heart represents the people.

The initiative and referendum comprise the quickest, most direct, adequate, available means by which to put an end to corrupt machine politics, and to overthrow the baleful influence of the political machine. Oklahoma, Oregon, California, Washington, Arizona, Utah, Colorado, Montana, North Dakota, South Dakota, Missouri, Arkansas, Nebraska, Wisconsin, Ohio and Maine have adopted the initiative and referendum.

Oregon could never get a corrupt practices prevention act that was efficient until Oregon had the initiative and referendum nor could they get a proper direct primary or other needed statutes.

The only argument against the initiative and referendum proceeds from a common basis. The distrust of the people; the lack of confidence in the people for self-government.

Pennsylvania has been disgraced already too much by machine politics, and it is due time that she was setting her face toward the rising sun.

The late Professor Frank Parsons has probably best stated the reasons for the initiative and referendum, which are as follows:

"I. Is essential to self government.

2. Destroys the private monopoly of lawmakers.

3. Is a common sense application of the established principles of agency.

4. Will perfect the representative system.

5. Is immediately and easily practicable.
6. Makes for political purity.
7. Kills the lobby.
8. Makes it useless to bribe legislature because they cannot deliver the goods.
9. Attracts better men to political life.
10. Simplifies elections.
11. Simplifies the law.
12. Lessens the power of partnership.
13. Elevates the press and the people.
14. Stops class legislation.
15. Opens the door of progress.
16. Is widely conservative.
17. Works an automatic disfranchisement of the unfit.
18. Tends to stability.
19. Is a safety valve for discontent.
20. Is in line with the general trend of modern political history throughout the world."

Perhaps no other subject, likely to be presented to this House, is so unreasonably opposed as is the initiative and referendum. This subject can no longer be regarded as the dream of the visionary, or proclaimed a dangerous or hazardous experience. It is well tried and thoroughly established principle, endorsed by the greatest students of the science of government. It can not be regarded as an attach upon the principles of representative government, but rather a balance-wheel, attached to the operating machinery of representative government, used for the purpose of enforcing the will of masses, and compelling those clothed with delegated power and authority to truly represent their constituents. It is not for the pur pose of hindering or delaying the work of legislation, but rather to quicken it to action by compelling the legislative bodies to be responsive to the public demand, was contemplated by those who clothed them with representative and delegated authority. They who seem to think that the machinery to be provided by this remedy will of necessity be cumbersome and impractical, will, in due time, change their minds, and will be forced to admit that it is the most perfect, accurate and speedy legislation that has even been enacted. They will learn that there will be fewer pigeon holes in committee rooms used to thwart the will of the people. They will realize that when the people speak, it is their duty and privilege to sit up and take notice. Before this law, the boss and his bribery, the faithless official and corrupt politician, the giver of bridges, the political grafter and the weakling, together, will disappear as the frost before the morning sun, while, in triumph, the banner of Pennsylvania will float higher and higher under the very Heaven of man's perfect destiny, as it proclaims to the men and women of all climes that we are secure as freeman, because our fathers established this Democracy, this asylum for the oppressed, upon the rock of representative government, supported, maintained and perpetuated by the doctrine of the initiative and referendum.

Mr. SPEAKER. I wish to ask every member of this House who really believes and who wants in reality a Government of the people, for the people and by the people, to support this bill.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I don't know whether the House cares to have anyone take up much time in discussing this proposition. Very much to my surprise, this bill passed second reading a few days ago, without any comment. Very much to my surprise, this bill was considered about one-half a minute in the Committee on Constitutional Reform. The reason this surprises me is because this is a proposition that strikes deep down into the fundamental principle of this Government. It is well known to every student of history that there had been attempts many, many times to establish the Republican form of government, but in every instance, they had been failures. There is not an instance in history prior to the establishment of this government or any government of any magnitude, which survived when there were attempts to establish what is known as a Republican form of government,—in other words, a Democratic form of government. There is a vast difference between a democracy and a republican form of government . A democracy means, or at least is so understood by students of history, to mean a government carried on directly by the vote of the people. A representative form of government is that where the people delegate the powers of administering national affairs to those whom they feel confident to perform those duties. Now, while this bill is called the "initiative and referendum"—they are words that they juggle with—sheared of those high—sounding names they simply mean this: Is it wiser for the people to legislate directly on all affairs of Government, or is it wiser to delegate those powers to certain individuals whom you may feel as more competent to undertake to pass legislation and administer the affairs of State by the direct voice of the people? Now, the "initiative and referendum," so-called, is not a new proposition. It was in operation and tried out before the United State was on the map of the world. Certainly, this House is not going to vote blindly upon a measure of this character, which affects the very fundamental principles of this government. When we stop to think that these principles were worked out after the deepest and most careful thought of the best men that the world had ever produced up to that time;monarchial forms of government and oligarchies and pure democracies had been tried; pure democracy had been demonstrated to be a total failure when it came to dealing with large communities. A pure democracy is all right in a very small community, but it is an utter failure when applied to a large territory and large numbers. I have something that I want to read to you, prior to my remarks on the question. I feel this is a question that cannot be disposed of in one night's discussion on intelligently. The subject is so broad and so deep and so far-reaching in its effects that I want to say that I do not, in any sense, feel competent to deal with it as broadly and as intelligently as it should be dealt with before the great Legislature of the State of eight millions of people should decide to cast their vote against our present system of government. It might be well to inquire into this proposition was first in operation what the effect of it was, what the conditions were, and where it is now in operation. Back in the sixteenth century, in Larned's Ready Reference, a sort of political encyclopedia, I find that J. M. Vincent, writing on state and federal government of Switzerland, has this to say:

"A popular vote under the name Referendum was known in the valleys of Craubunden and Wallis as early as the 16th century. Here existed small federations of communities who regulated certain matters of general concern by means of assemblies of delegates from each village. The conventions were not allowed to decide upon any important measure finally, but most refer the matter to the various constituencies. If a majority of these approved, the act might be passed to the next assembly. This primitive system lasted till the French invasion of 1798, and was again established in Braubunden in 1815. The word Referendum was also used by old federal diets, in which there were likewise no comprehensive powers of legislation. If not already instructed the delegates must vote 'ad referendum' and carry all questions to the home government. The institution is now known is a product of this century. It originated in the canton of St. Gallen in 1830, where at the time the constitution was undergoing revision. As a compromise between the party which strove for pure democracy and that desiring representative government, it was provided that all laws should be submitted to popular vote if a respectable number of voters so demanded. Known at first by the name veto, this system slowly found its way into several of the German-speaking cantons, so that soon after the adoption of the federal constitution five were employing the optional referendum. Other forms of popular legislation were destined to find wider acceptance, but at present, 1891, in eight States including three of the Romance tongue, laws must be submitted on request. The usual limit of time during which the petition must be signed is 30 days." And so forth, "some states provide that in connection with the vote on the bill as a whole, an expression may be taken on separate points."

I read that simply to convince the House that this is not a new proposition by any means, but has been tried and has been used, not where there was a sovereign government, such as there is here, now, at this time, but where conditions existed similar to those at the time of the confederation.

Now, the point I desire to make and want to impress on the House is this: The friends of this proposition hold that it will remedy the ills that exist in a representative form of government. What evidence have they to offer that this is true? None whatever, where tried in a government of the size of Pennsylvania, much less than in one as large as this national government. I hold that this will be a weapon that can be used with just as much force and with a very great danger to the public peace and the public good than it will be for the benefit of the people at large. If a political party or a political organization be so strong that it can nominate a man who represents it in the State government, can elect its Chief Executive, why will they not control by ballot the legislation that may come before them? I don't see how any person can conclude that a political machine will not do this that is powerful enough to control a State in its election of individuals, where the individual voter will be much more capable of solving simple propositions of whether Brown is a better man to represent their district than Jones. If the public can be deceived, as the friends of this resolution hold, so as to bring about a misrepresentation of the people, how much more easy it will be for the people to be deceived when it comes to vote upon legislation. On that point let me say that so far as the initiative is concerned, it certainly looks foolish to every member of this House to say that it needs fifty thousand signers to introduce a bill in this Legislature. Why, it don't rise to the dignity of receiving an answer! If there is any man in this House who feels that is necessary to get fifty thousand signatures to introduce a bill in the Legislature of Pennsylvania—I don't like to call any member of this House hard names—but I do think, he must be a fool. My observation is that so far as the initiative is concerned, if there is any legislation at all desired, it is to restrict the initiative and not encourage or advocate it. Four thousand initiatives, nearly, have been introduced in this House; then why the necessity of the initiative.

Now, when I say to you that this proposition can be used with as much force by the so-called trickster or political ringster, I can point to history and prove my statement. I want to say to you that in the history of France the so-called referendum was in operation and it was put in operation for what purpose? It was put in operation for the sole purpose of giving upon its face an apparent endorsement of the people for a corrupt government, known at that time as a Plebiscite. Let me see what the historian says on that question. A. V. Dicey writes in this same history:

"A plebiscite is a mass vote of the French people by which a Revolutionary or Imperial Executive obtains for its policy, or its crimes, the apparent sanction of condonation of France. Frenchmen are asked at the moment and in the form most convenient to the statesmen, or conspirators who rule in Paris, to say 'Aye' or 'No' whether they will or will not, accep the given Constitution or a given policy. The crowd of voters are expected to reply in accordance to the wishes or the orders of the Executive and the expectation always has met, and an observer may confidently predict always will meet ,with fulfillment. The plebiscite is a revoluntionary, or at least abnormal proceeding. It is not preceded by debate. The form and nature of the question to be submitted to the nation is chosen and settled by the men in power. Rarely indeed, when a plebiscite has been taken, has the voting itself been either free or fair. Taine has a strange tale to tell of the methods by which a Terrorist faction, when all but crushed by general odium, extorted from the country by means of the plebiscite a sham assent to the prolongation of revolutionary despotism. The credulity of partisanship can nowadays hardly induce even imperialists to imagine that the plebiscite which sanctioned the establishment of the Empire, which declared Louis Napolon president for life, which first resestablished Imperialism, and then approved more or less liberal reforms, fatal at the bottom to the Imperial system, were the free, deliberate, carefully considered votes of the French nation, given after the people heard all that could be said, for and against the proposed innovation."

There was your so-called referendum put in operation, where the population was great in number, and where the territory affected was wide; and it was used just exactly as I have suggested and as it will be used again, if you put it in operation. Why the man who thinks that the men in public life who have their political life at stake will not resort to any legal method that the opportunity affords to sustain their position and their political life, certainly must be a foolish man. Any man who believes that the people en masse will have more intelligence will give more thought to statutory law, than the legislative body, or as it is now considered under our form of government, certainly must be mistaken beyond a question. If this proposition—and I want to read to you just what this bill really says, as in my judgment it goes farther than any initiative or referendum laws of any State in the Union—this bill provides that not only can you pass statutory law, irrespective of the consideration of the Legislature, or the Attorney General, or the Governor, but it provides that you can change the constitutional law of this government by one presentation to the people and one single vote. Will this Legislature suggest that the Constitution of this State be amended so that such a thing as that can occur? Don't the members of this House appreciate that in all human probability no republic of the magnitude of the United States could ever have survived these one hundred and twenty odd years had the framers of the Constitution believed in the direct voice of the people in all the branches of this government? When the framers of our Constitution were wrestling with the form and fundamental principles or laying down the foundations of this government, which contained less than one-third or about one-third the population of the State of Pennsylvania, the population of the United States at the time the Constitution was framed numbered less than four million of people. It was the belief, and the strong belief, of those who took part in the great National Constitutional Convention that a Republican form of government could not exist and that it would be a mistake upon the part of the framers to attempt to do it, and they were reinforced in that opinion, because the Confederation was an admitted failure. But fortunately for the people of the time and the people of the future, there were men in that Constitutional Convention who had studied the question of government, so far as it was laid down in the histories, the histories extant; they had studied the question with most careful and deep thought, careful comparison, and they suggested there in that convention, the men whose names have gone down in history, men like Madison, Jefferson, Hamilton, Pinkney and names that will never be forgotten, it was suggested that the thought that a Republican form of government would be a failure was a mistake. It was true, they admitted, that a true democracy had always failed. It was true they admitted that a monarchial government, while strong and had survived, yet it led to oppression of the people and became corrupt, and the suggestion was made there and then, and it was pressed to a successful issue, that the people would be intelligent enough to name representatives, that they should be named for short terms, which was equivalent to the recall. If a member of the legislative body be derelict or incapable or not intelligent enough to perform the duties for which they elected him, they could send another in his stead and the men they suggested, they are the men who carved out this Unian and made it what it is to-day and there is not in the histories of the world, nor there is not on the map of the world a government that has given to the masses the opportunities of life, liberty, their own religion, or pursuit of happiness and the opportunity to accumulate enough of the world's goods to live comfortably; and you can lay every particle of that success to the great thought that was thrown into that body, that we tried what has never yet been tried, and that is, a Republican form of government and not a pure democracy. As to this proposition, now every man is acquainted and knows the checks and balances in addition to the indirect manner of legislating on the part of the people, that not even then were they satisfied.

They said we will elect the executive of this great government every four years. We will elect the House every two years, and the various States of the Union have followed that proposition. And above that recollect that immediately after this bill, comes the question of the recall of the Judiciary, which amounts practically to the same proposition. Now the thought in the minds of the men who framed that government was that notwithstanding that they gave the people the right to name these different legislative and executive bodies, they thought it wise, in so far as the national government was concerned at least, that the other division of government, the judiciary, the people shall not vote upon at all. The thought that goes all the way through the minds of those men was, and they so stated—if I only had the time to read. I could read what all the men who were the framers of that Constitution—that the main thought that was running through their minds all the time was that the people would act hastily, without thought and without that consideration that would be so vitally essential to the stability of a great government, and following out that line of thought, they did these very things I have suggested. In this State of ours we elect the lower branch every two years; we elect the other branch every four years; we elect the executive every four years. We give to the executive a large degree of appointing power, and over and above that we elect the Supreme Court of this State for twenty-one years. If this resolution is correct in principle, then you should wipe away all the different periods of election. If I were to make one first move towards changing our present system, leading back to a more direct voice of the people, it would not be through the initiative and referendum and recall, but it would be gradually shortening the terms of the longer term offices which would accomplish the same purpose. If the initiative, referendum and recall is correct, then why not go directly in a much shorter way and pass some legislation, or amend the Constitution, that each and every branch of our government, the legislative, and executive, and judiciary, should be elected every two years. If that be not satisfactory, then elect them every year. There is only one way I have of judging whether a proposition is a good one, or a bad one, and that is to judge whether it has been a success or whether it has been a failure. They tell us that in some of the Western States they have this proposition. Perhaps the thought has gone through your mind why this proposition comes from out of the West. It went through my mind. It led me to inquire. It didn't come from the Eastern States. It was discussed throughout the Eastern States, but never took root. It was discussed through the Western States. It was agitated through the Western States and why? If you will examine the census of the Western States, and examine the nationalities of the different foreign elements that are peopling these Western States, you will find that a very large part of them come from that part of Europe where this law was in operation. It has been said that a little learning is a dangerous thing. They come to this country of ours, and like all other men, there is something back home that looks good to them, while they come here because they heard it was a better country to live in, and the opportunities were greater, and the degree of liberty was larger, yet they thought they could improve upon it by introducing the initiative, the referendum and the recall. They do not understand, they do not understand really the fundamental principles of this government, nor its magnitude, or they never would have suggested it. I want to say to this House that if that proposition goes on to the statute books, or is engrafted upon the Constitution of this State, if the conditions in the West are duplicated in ratio here in the State of Pennsylvania, it will take five millions of dollars every year to advertise the proposed legislation. Am I overstating the fact? Why we will have statutes offered to us through the initiative and referendum that will cover pages. That resolution if passed by this House, it is true, it will have to be advertised twice, but if we are guided by what has occurred in the past, it will cost over one hundred and fifty thousands of dollars to this State to advertise it. Now no man would suggest that a statute should be presented to the people that has not been advertised—he certainly would not. It is true that this resolution does not absolutely require it, but nobody has ever suggested yet that a proposition should be submitted to the people to vote upon that was not advertised. A Congressman from South Dakota speaking the other day in Congress (I think his name was Crawford) held up in the United States Senate the ticket to be voted upon in his State. It was six feet long and ten inches wide. It is true that the population of South Dakota does not amount to but five to each square mile, and it is also true that in the State of Pennsylvania it amounts to over 171 to the square mile. It is true that such a law in a sparsely settled community where there are not such a multitude of vexatious proposition with counter effects and complex propositions where a piece of legislation may be beneficial to one community and very detrimental to another. How is it possible my friends to put a proposition of that character up intelligently before the men who are going to pass an opinion upon it. There is no member in this House who does not know that numbers and numbers of times he has very strong convictions that a piece of legislation is exactly correct and would be beneficial for his particular community, but when he gets down into the committee and when the gentleman from Crawford County, and the gentleman from Delaware, and another from Erie and another from Greene, and so on, and those twenty-five different counties come together and look at that piece of legislation, it convinces you the proper thing to do is to consign it to the waste basket. In my ten years of experience in this House that has not only occurred once but many times to my own personal experience. If we want placed upon the statute books a hodge podge bunch of enactments that may crucify one community and be beneficial to another, it is to present this proposition to the eight millions of people of the State of Pennsylvania whose conditions are so dissimilar that unless you have some representative from that particular locality you may place upon your statute books some legislation that would be a great hardship to that particular community. I see that most all of you have made up your minds how you will vote on this bill, and I am not going to tire you, and I do not want to tire the House, but this, gentlemen of the House, is dealing with the fundamental principles of this government, and there is no question that will come before you that needs so serious consideration nor that has such a far-reaching effect. This is not one of those blunders that we make when we pass a statute when in two years it can be changed, but if this proposition be placed on the statute books thoughtlessly, because if it is placed there at all it will be thoughtlessly, I felt that it was my duty to raise my voice in protest—whether it will have any effect I know not—but I do think we can well afford in the State of Pennsylvania—a State that has grown and prospered as but few States in the Union have, and as no other government of eight millions of people in the world have—it certainly is the part of wisdom to let this proposition wait a little while. My friend has told you of the different States that have adopted it. Some of the latter States come a little nearer being a parallel to our State. Those sparcely settled communities of the Western States—they have had this law in operation some of them fourteen years, but very few of them, but from some of them in that country comes the cry that it is burdensome and does not work out as they supposed it would. I want to say that the historian that I read an article said that right there, where the proposition has been in operation for decades and decades there is much dissatisfaction, and they think that the representative form of government is far superior. I think we ought to defeat this measure, and wait until we get further light. If Pennsylvania continues to go on further as in the past 125 years, certainly the people of this State ought to be satisfied and notwitstanding all the cry that has been raised we have excelled all other eight millions of people with all of our defects, and it seems to me that the part of wisdom demands that we should defeat this proposition and continue in the success that we have had in the past one hundred and twenty-five years.

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, like the gentleman from Delaware. I love the grand old State of Pennsylvania; and like the gentleman from Delaware. I love the people of the grand old State of Pennsylvania but, Mr. Speaker, unlike the gentleman from Delaware, I have faith and confidence in the people I love, and it strikes me that it is not fitting that the gentleman from Delaware, after having a few weeks ago, displayed his lack of confidence in the people of this State by opposing an amendment to the Federal Constitution which would permit them to elect their United States Senators, that he should tonight oppose this amendment to our own constitution that would entrust to the people of the State the same control over their own destinies and their own laws. The gentleman has said this is not a new proposition; it has been in vogue in these United States and in this State and other states for many years. It has been a part of the Constitution of the nation, of every state in the nation in so far as Constitutional amendments were concerned. That is the referendum feature of this amendment and, to a limited extent, the initiative feature has been a part of the federal constitution, although the initiative was the initiative of the State Legislature rather than the vote of the people themselves. It strikes me that the most commendable words that can be uttered in behalf of this is the declaration of the gentleman from Delaware that the people of the Western States, who are rallying about this great safeguard, come from the nations across the water where this is a part of their national law. I believe that those people who have lived under this system on foreign soil might well be able to judge as well as those of us who have not had a similar experience. The gentleman complains of the legislation that would be produced through this law, but I want to call your attention to the fact that the greatest safeguard that this resolution could furnish to the people, or that could be made to furnish to the people, is the provision that no law becomes operative until ninety days after its enactment. During that ninety days, the people of the State have an opportunity to know what their legislators have done and, Mr. Speaker, if that was a part of our fundamental law today this Legislature and this Commonwealth would not be placed tonight in the ridiculous position of having upon its statute books a law providing for the appointment of tax collectors in certain counties of the State that never passed the Legislature because of the changes that were made in the printing of it at various times and the bill, as finally passed, never passed third reading in the two Houses. If the people of this State had the opportunity of ninety days after the law was signed by the executive, to consider the practices that accomplished its enactment, I believe they would be protected from its provisions. There are many features of this bill that we might discuss and, as the Gentleman from Delaware has said, it would take a great while to discuss it thoroughly but it has been on our calendar for a long time and I believe that we are all familiar with its provisions and I believe that we need not discuss it in detail or at any great length. I will call your attention to one fact that you all know. You know that this Legislature and every Legislature is at times, sometimes at many times, pestered by the lobbyist and the representative of the special interests, here, to seek special favors for himself or for those who employ him. I want to say that if before any of the legislation which is stolen from the State of Pennsylvania or from its legislative body through the tactics of the operation of the lobbyists of the special interests had to be submitted to the people of the State, advantage could be realized and all corruptionists would disappear as has been very aptly illustrated by one of the authorities of this State on this subject. If the burglar that breaks into your home in the darkness of the night, after gathering the jewels and silverware preparatory to departing with his loot, with your property and your rights and the rights of your family and was compelled to arouse the entire household to submit to them, by referendum, the question of as to whether or not he should profit by his theft and carry off the stolen property, burglary would be a thing of the past. So I say the enactment of this amendment itself would furnish all the security that would be necessary, and it would be seldom that people would be compelled to avail themselves of the opportunity to furnish it and its enactment would absolutely secure the people of this State from the corrupting things or improper things in the legislative halls or from any of the representatives of the special interests, no matter whether great or small. I think it is the duty of this House tonight to go on record in favor of this most progressive legislation.

Mr. MILLER. Mr. Speaker, after listening to the remarks of the gentleman from Delaware, one might suppose that this were striking at the very root and foundation of representative government. And after listening also to what he has told you, one might suppose that you are going to wipe away all of the legislative bodies in every state and throughout the United States or wherever a system of the initiative and referendum had been introduced or was about to be introduced in any Commonwealths of this nation. The question of the initiative and the referendum has been discussed so thoroughly within the past half decade that there is no need for a lengthly discussion this evening except the simple reference to get back and realize that we are not disturbing representative government at all. We are simply attempting to keep hold of representative government and bolster it up wherein it has fallen down. We are simply restoring the confidence of the people in representative government. There is nothing sacred, there is nothing divine in our constitution. The framers of the federal constitution drafted that in the light of the government as it was approved during that day. They drafted for a republican government as they conceived the thought in favor of the government existing at that time. The speaker from Delaware has very truthfully said that it is the new constitutions of the Western States which contain the demand for the initiative and referendum. Why? Because they are alive with the thought of the construction of governments. Because they see that since 1838, there has been in existence this system in Switzerland which has been in vogue to such an extent that they see its true benefits and its proper results by seeing it used in its proper manner. It is simply applying the principle of government of the people. It is simply making the agent responsible to the people. It simply says when a man is elected to office, he is not given absolute power to pass a law upon which no one can pass except the Supreme Court. And when the Supreme Court of the State of Pennsylvania passes upon the law it simply decides whether it is constitutional or not. It omits the larger fact of the question as to whether it is beneficial to the people of Pennsylvania from an economic standpoint, from a social standpoint or the things which are best for the people at large, aside from a constitutional question. The framers of the constitution of 1874 very properly said in Article one, section two, "all power is inherent in the people." That is all that this is doing. It is simply amending the section which says that the legislative power is resting in the General Assembly. There is not anything new in it. Why, we know that we have had this matter of referring constitutional amendments to the people since the Constitutional Convention of 1874. Let me point out the differance between that and the federal constitution to show you that the framers of the federal constitution in the light of their day, presumed in the referring of an amendment on the federal constitution to a vote of the people and which in order to be valid the amendment is to first be ratified by two-thirds of the Legislatures of those States and not by the people. The framers of the conomitted the matter of amending altogether. The framers of the Constitution in 1838 took up this question and while the framers in 1874 omitted the question of referring to the people altogether we find that this matter of referring the question to the people as it has gone into this republican form of government was when the constitution of 1838 came along and they inserted the Article bearing on the amendments of the Constitution similar to the ones we have in the Constitution of 1874. The matter of referendum is not a new thing at all. It is in the constitution and all that is to be accomplished in this amendment which we are considering this evening is to apply the matter of referendum to the States, by two-third of the Legislatures of the States, and then let there be a proper check in the hands of the people. We have the initiative which is meant to permit the people to exercise something which the Legislature or some Legislatures probably will refuse to do. It simply is exercising something to which the people have an inherent right and which inherently belongs to them. That is all there is to it. There is nothing awe inspiring about it. There is nothing awful or anything to be fearful of. It has been tried in other states in this nation; it has been tried since 1838 in this country. The people want it and there is no danger in passing upon it tonight and passing it in this House and then passing it in two years again and referring it to the people to see whether they want it and to see whether they want to exercise their inherent right and change the constitution, and then it will be in their hands if they so desire. Constitutions are not such a serious thing. In the new constitution of 1874 the framers clearly recognized that there was a necessity for change every twenty years and that the question of right as to a new constitution should be referred to the people. There was that feeling in that body. The feeling in that body was that they were creating a instrument for the present but something not to endure for all times but something that might change as conditions changed and in this convention they changed that recognizing that in twenty years would be the time in which whatsoever might want to be changed could be changed when it was deemed proper. In the light of present conditions and in the light of the new states that are in favor of this principle, why is it not proper that this amendment shall be referred to the people two years hence?

Mr. HERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I move the previous question.

The SPEAKER. The motion does not seem to be seconded by the required number.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I dot not like to take up the time of the House, but I so widely differ from my friend on the proposition that I would like to state it again to the House. I cannot understand why it is that those who are the supporters of this new idea continually say of those who take the position that I do that we are afraid to trust the people. Now that is a mistake. I think I have more confidence in the people than the gentleman who suggest that I am afraid to trust them. But I would like the gentlemen who make that suggestion to consider the importance of the people's thoroughly and carefully, understanding a question before they express a voice on it. We all know and we know only too well that the people in haste do foolish things, and there is no denying it. Everyone of us knows it, and the proposition of whether the handling of the government daily as propositions arise shall go over into the hands of the people, or whether it is wiser to delegate someone to perform that duty is the whole and only proposition that is under consideration, because every man in this House knows as well as I do that the great mass of our people are too busy attending to their daily affairs to give the question of statutory law or constitutional law or the administraion of public affairs any servious consideration. And there isn't a member of this House who does not know that this body, the chosen few of eight millions of people, does not give very serious consideration to the propositions that we pass over to the other side. And if we, the selected two hundred and seven, won't do it, do you expect better consideration and more wisdom to be shown when the masses undertake to deal with statutory law? Now, there isn't one of you thinks so. It is not the distrust of the American people to do what is right that I suggest. I know as well as any man on the floor of this House that when the American people can see clearly and plainly a proposition, no man need fear the result, and no man does fear it less than I do, but I know down to the present day that the records show that more men are lynched in the United States annually than are legally executed, and in not one single instance would it occur if they didn't in a fit of passion do that which perhaps the rest of their lives they will regret. "There is nothing new in this proposition," my friend says. Why, there is everything that is new as compared to our form and principal of government. It does go down to the very bed rock of our principle of government, and I am surprised to hear the gentleman say that the framers of the Constitution had only in mind the conditions of their time when they decided that we should have a representative form of government, with its checks and balances. I didn't intend to tire the House with the remarks of some of those men, but since the statement has been made, I will show you exactly what they said and what they thought in some of those statements. I have here the opinions of some twenty-five of the men who helped to frame the Constitution. I will read only two or three of those statements. I will say that they contain exactly the same thought and the same suggestion that all of them had. I will begin with Madison. The statement was made; now, here is a complete answer. If you listened to the statement, I should think you would like to have the answer. No man took a larger part, no man took more responsibility in the framing of our national Constitution than James Madison, and this is the thought he had in mind when they were arguing this very proposition that we are arguing to-night. This is the way he expressed himself:

> But the most common and durable source of factions has been the various and unequal distribution of property. Those who hold and those who are without property have ever formed distinct interests in society. Those who are cerditors and those who are debtors fall under a like discrimination. A landed interest, a manufacturing interest, a mercantile interest, a moneyed interest, with many lesser interests, grow up of necessity in civilized nations and divide them into different classes, actuated by different sentiments and views. The regulation of these various and interfering interests forms the principal task of modern legislation and involves the spirit of party and faction in the necessary and ordinary operations of government.

Isn't that the thought to-day? For those reasons given by the statesmen who framed the Constitution, they decided posiively and agreed unanimously, and every one of the thirteen States, I believe, with the exception of one, after arguing it out in their constitutional conventions, all agreed that the wise policy and the only form of government, was the representative form. This proposition means not representation, not a government by representation, but a pure democracy by the voice of the people. That proposition says that the people can vote directly for legislation, without the signature of the governor, without the opportunity of an amendment, without the opportuniy of debate and discussion to amend. You take a measure as it is presented to you. Has there a bill been presented to this House this session, drafted by any man—some of the wisest men in the State have drafted bills and sent them to this House—and has there a single one of them, even the smallest, gone through without some amendment arising from suggestions that came when the conflicting interests came in contact. And here are seven millions of people who are going to legislate directly without the opportunity of amendment, without the opportunity of correction, without the opportunity of two different bodies, without the opportunity of the Attorney General to correct; and make that the statute law of the State of Pennsylvania. That is exactly what that proposition is, and I want to say it is monstrous, when you try to thrust it upon seven millions of people, with their diversified interests. I do not think the bill ought to pass. It is dangerous and ought not to pass.

On the question, recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken.

The SPEAKER. The roll will be verified.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, that the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

REASONS FOR VOTE.

GEORGE E. ALTER. It is not fair to submit a bill like this as a test of sentiment upon the principle of the intitiative and the referendum. Without going further into detail, it is sufficient to note that upon petitions signed by "not more than" fifty thousand legal voters (as may be determined by law), all of who may come from two counties, an election may be held in four months after the filing of the petitions, and however small the vote cast at said election, the majority of such vote, under the provisions of this bill, would be sufficient to amend the Constitution of the Commonwealth.

SPECIAL ORDER.

The SPEAKER. The hour of ten-thirty having arrived, the Chair lays before the House the next bill on Special Order, House Bill No. 1491, File Folio 6409.

BILL ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,
The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1491, entitled:

A joint resolution proposing a constitutional amendment to the Constitution of Pennnsylvania granting to the people the right of recall of public officers

On the question,
Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?
It was agreed to.
On the question,
Shall the bill pass?

Mr. BENSON. Mr. Speaker, I realize that the hour is late yet I feel that I ought to say a word or two so that the members will vote intelligently upon this amendment.

This bill provides for an amendment to the Constitution providing for the Recall of every elective public officer in the State, whether holding his office by election or appointment, including all the judges of the several courts.

This amendment is the work of Judson King, and has the endorsement of Hon. William S. U'Ren. It provides that the signatures of 150.000 legal voters shall make a valid petition demanding the recall of a state officer voted for by the qualified electors of the entire State, and twenty-five per cent. of the voters in the district who voted at the preceding election for the office to which the recall is to be used.

Pennsylvania needs this legislation to make her officers truly represent the people, (and to take her out of the power of the most tryrannical machine that ever disgraced a state.)

In presenting this bill for your consideration, I am aware that many regard the recall of public officers as dangerous, particularly so in the principles applied to the various judicial positions throughout the Commonwealth. Nothing, to my mind, is farther from thef acts. It is not the experience of the citizens of our sister states where the doctrines of recall have been applied.

The states of Oregon, Arizona, California, Arkansas, Colorado, Idaho, Montana and Nevada have adopted the recall. We have yet to find a single state in which it has been tried that the people are not satisfied with this great reform. The opponents of this great reform are among those who do not have faith in the people, and it is the old cry of the Tory and the Federalist.

It is an echo from the chamber of Hamilton and his followers. Democracy feels that the man who is competent to hire is also competent to discharge; it believes that in a Republic there is no place for a judicial aristocracy; it fully understands and recognizes the fact that a vast majority of the State judiciary are honest, God-fearing and country-loving citizens, but, it is also well satisfied that there are many men now holding office who could do their state no better service than by resigning. It is an admitted fact that in many instances these so-called judges have demonstrated to a certainty that they have in the past, and would in the future, serve the great corporate interests to the best of their ability. They, by their unwarranted conduct have cast a doubt over our entire judicial fabric; they have started the tongue of the critic; they have loosened the hand of the character assassin, until today there is scarcely a court any where which does not come in for its share of condemnation, and, to continue to temporize with this condition is inviting destruction.

This bill is not to be regarded as an indictment against any official now holding office under this government. It simply, and in no mistaken language, demands that the people reserve to themselves the right to hire and discharge their own servants, whether that servant be a country supervisor or a judge of a court of record. They who shout mob are unworthy to hold office of trust under this government; they are not keeping pace with the spirit of the times; they cannot trust the people because the people can no longer trust them; they cannot reach the conclusion that the people owning this government are intelligent enough to conduct its affairs; they are blind, because they do not care to see; they would overawe and terrorize the great army of men and women who would dare to demand their guaranteed constitutional rights. The fact that the right to remove remains with the people has the most wholesome effect, and, as a consequence, the use of the recall will seldom become necessary, but the fact that it exists stands as a notice that judicial tyranny will not be tolerated.

Pass this bill, and you will put an end to the debauchery and crime in politics; the faithless official and corrupt politician; the giver of bribes and the corporate judicial truckling, and cause the public servants to do their utmost to serve the public interests, and thereby treminate the gross abuses of machine politics, and establish the best form of government of which the American intelligence and conscience is capable. Mr. Speaker, and Gentlemen of the House, I ask you to support this bill.

Mr. FORSTER. Mr. Speaker, and gentlemen of the House, it becomes a fashion to-day to attack our public offices, especially the judiciary. I believe this is a dangerous measure as applied to all officers of State, but particularly as applied to our judges. As I have said before, it has become a fashion to attack the judiciary. A subsidized set of periodicals, moved in the first instance by a small body of capitalists seeking to obtain their own ends, and a coterie of politicians seeking for a new popular clamor to put themselves in the public trough, and a few disgruntled litigants, have brought about this entire movement. Gentlemen, I have respect for the judicial office. I respect the man who sits on the bench. Possibly as a man, he has the same frailities and weaknesses that I have, but as a judge, sitting in the position that he does, between persons who come before him, to deprive them of their liberty in some instances, to see that justice is done to rich and poor, to weak and strong, I respect his office. This is the one office that should be removed from popular influence. The minority has rights as well as the majority. The judge must protect the minority. If the judge does not protect the minority, who will? The gentleman from Delaware, on the question on the last bill spoke of the system of checks and balances which was improvised by the framers of our constitution; the legislative, the executive, the judiciary, a branch of the legislature subject to the popular whim, subject to the breath of popular influence; another branch, a little further removed from the people, so that the opportunity may come for a consideration of measures which may have been passed during some great popular clamor without reason; the executive, still further removed; and finally the judiciary, which is absolutely removed from the people. Unfortunately our judges are in a measure in politics. We in Philadelphia believe, and we have practiced this belief that our judges should be removed from that influence. When a political question comes before them they can judge that question without fear of the recall. We elect them for a term of ten years and it would be better to have a still longer term. Why? Because they could keep that high position free from influence and bias and fear. They have only their own conscience and the higher courts to answer to. Now if a judge who is elected by a small majority, renders an unpopular decision, what is the result? Answer, the recall. Or again, what is the result? Answer; the fear of the recall, and we have a wavering, vacillating and unjust judge. I think we have made a great mistake in passing the legislation just preceding this, and I feel that we will make an irreparable mistake if we pass this. I do not feel that we have the right to hide behind the saying of "Put it up to the people and let them decide." We are here to decide. It is our duty to do what is right. If we do not believe that this measure should be voted upon, then we ought not to shun the responsibility on to our constituents. Gentlemen I ask all of you to hold sacred unto yourselves, away from the whim of the people, although I believe in trusting the people, these things, but I believe when it comes to a question of self-interest, the minority has a right to be protected. Subject the judges to the popular recall, and you are doing away with the safeguard of the minority.

Mr. S. B. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I rise to oppose this bill simply because it contains in it the principle of the recall of judicial officers. The principle of recall in general I believe in. I think the government belongs to the people, and where they find an officer whom they have delegated to carry out their will not doing it, I believe that such an officer ought to be recalled. But the functions of the judiciary are something absolutely and radically different from the functions of either of the legislative or administrative officers. The function of the judiciary is to apply to specific sets of facts, general principles which have been settled upon by the people at large. Now minds differ and men differ about the specific applicability of general principles to a particular state of facts, and when questions arise, they often bring with them great personal interests so that passions and prejudices are aroused which would make people act differently than when considering calmly the questions involved. What we need is a tribunal which is absolutely removed from all influences, which in itself would tend to make them free from fear in the consideration of questions upon these high principles, and of all those things which sway men's minds, fear and hope are the greatest influences. This conflict between general principles and specific desires can be found within the breast of each individual man, what we call our conscience. We have regulative principles within us which guide us true to our principles, and what we call our passions, our desire for immediate satisfaction, we frequently find them in conflict with our conscience, and the principle of the recall as applied to the individual man is but putting his conscience to the test of his immediate desires, which I am sorry to say would often end in the defeat of his conscience. Now this same conflict we have in an enlarged sphere when it comes to the body politic. Our constitution is that body of carefully considered general principles which we have laid down for our guidance, and what we desire from moment to moment corresponds to the passions of that individual, and unless we have some calm, fearless and uninfluenced body such as the judiciary would be, we would have nothing in the body politic which would correspond to the conscience of the individual. Then again take the simile of the compass. It is supposed to point true to the north, and yet when other metallic bodies are around it sometimes it is drawn from its true point and brings shipwreck and disaster. Now those influences which cause the compass to deflect can be compared with the influences which arise from time to time to lead men to vote in a different way than they would have if their own interests were not involved. So we want such an uninfluenced body, some men without hope or fear and we want to say to those men that we have selected them as a body of men and we want to tell them that they are to decide according to the law and the evidence and not according to what they may hope or what they may fear. And so, Mr. Speaker, while I believe in the principle of the recall when it is applied to that position where it is applicable, I do not believe that it should apply to the judiciary and I, therefore, intend to vote against this resolution.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, in order to set myself clear on this question, I want to say just a few words on this subject. The initiative and the referendum and the recall have been used so often that they are being almost a triplicate set of words, yet to my mind, as has been stated by the two gentlemen from Philadelphia who have spoken on this measure, there is a difference. In my conversations with my constituents, and different people on these subjects, my experience is that seven out of ten of them if you asked them what these three words mean, could not tell you. I believe as the gentleman from Philadelphia said, in the principles of the initiative and the referendum and the recall, but when we couple in the question of the recall of our judges, you have a proposition that I cannot stand for. The framers of our Constitution, who framed that wonderful document which has been the admiration of the world from that time to this put around our judges some restrictions that no other officer has. Our common pleas and orphans' court judges, their terms are fixed at ten years; our supreme court judges are fixed at a term of twenty years. Why? To get them beyond and above this popular clamour which arises sometimes, and as one gentleman on the floor of this House who spoke some time ago, named it political hysteria, and make them free and unbiased in their judgment of all matters that come before them. There has also grown up another doctrine along this line. The recall of judiciary decisions on constitutional questions. That would mean submitting to the vote of the people whether a judge had decided a constitutional question rightly or not. If this bill was shorn of the judicial recall, I would support it, but I cannot as it is.

Mr. WATSON. Mr. Speaker, I do not propose to make a speech but I want to endorse what the gentlemen have said in opposition to this bill. In addition to that there is one thing that is necessary to the election of judges in my opinion, for what it may be worth, and that is that our candidates for judgeships should be non-partizan candidates, and should be elected by the people regardless of party ties, but so far as going to the extent of recalling our judges I am opposed to that; but I would very heartily support a bill to elect non partizan judges for every judgeship from the common pleas to the supreme bench.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

Less than the majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the negative and the bill falls.

REASONS FOR VOTE.

By Mr. JOHN ROBERT JONES on House Bill 1491. I do not think the principle of the Recall should be applied to the office of Judge of the Courts. The functions of the office of Judge differ from the functions of an executive or legislative office. In the administration of an executive or legislative office it is largely a question of what is the best policy to pursue for the public welfare. It is the function of the Judge to declare the law which the people have enacted either in their constitution or through their legislative bodies.

RESOLUTION RECALLING HOUSE BILL NO. 645 FROM THE GOVERNOR.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer a resolution at this time.

The SPEAKER. The resolution will be read by the Clerk.

The Clerk then read the resolution as follows:

Resolved if the Senate concur that House Bill No. 645 file folio No. 6697 entitled An Act regulating the licensing of all places of amusement buildings tents of enclosures used for the purpose of giving dramatic theatrical operatic or vaudeville performance tragedies comedies or farces or the exhibition of fixed or moving pictures or steropticon views or of songs dances or acrobatic or athletic performances or the exhibition of trained animals or contests of personal skilll or any equestrian circus or menagerie or musuem or wild west show or in the performances of some act for the amusement of the public designating what is meant by the words "place of amusement dramatic theatrical or operatic or vaudevillle performances circuses or menageries or museums or wild west shows" and that the act of the eighth day of June Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and ninety-three entitled "An Act amending section one of article three of an act entitled "An Act for the better government of cities of the first class in this Commonwealth' approved the first day of June Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and eighty-five regulating the construction maintenance and inspection of buildings" and the act of May fifth one thousand eight hundred and ninety-nine (eighty-nine) entitled "An Act to create a Bureau of Building Inspection and to regulate the construction maintenance and inspection of buildings and party walls in cities of the first class and the amendmenta or supplement thereto of June fifth one thousand nine hundred and one entitled "An Act supplemental to an act entitled 'An Act to create a Bureau of Building Inspection and to regulate the construction maintenance and inspection of buildings and party walls in cities of the first class' approved the fifth day of May one thousand eight hundred and ninety-five" shall not be held to apply to places of amusement buildings tents or enclosures now used for the exhibition of fixed or moving pictures or stereopticon views where songs dances acrobatic or vaudeville acts (whether stage scenery and apparatus are employed or not) are exhibited in addition thereto fixing the amount to be paid for said licenses and providing the penalty for the violation thereof be recalled from the Governor.

The SPEAKER. The question is on the adoption of the resolution.

It was agreed to.

COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA.

Legislative Journal.

Session 1913 — 120th of the General Assembly

VOL. 2. HARRISBURG, PA., TUESDAY, APRIL 29, 1913. No. 57.

SENATE

TUESDAY, April 29, 1913.

The Senate met at 11 o'clock.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant Governor John M. Reynolds) in the Chair.

PRAYER.

The Chaplain, Rev. A. C. James, offered the following prayer:

"The earth is the Lord's and the fullness thereof; the world and they that dwell therein. For He has founded it upon the seas and established it upon the floods. Who shall ascend into the hill of the Lord, or who shall stand in His holy place. He that hath clean hands and a pure heart." Our Father in Heaven, we come to Thee at this time again standing within the council chamber of this Commonwealth. Be Thou our counsellor; be Thou our guide in the hour of doubt; be Thou our strong tower of defense in the hour of trial; be Thou the eternal rock upon which we shall build to-day. Help us to work while it is called to-day, for the night cometh when no man can work. Help us, then, to build that structure which shall endure long after these bodies shall have crumbled into dust; even the structure of character.

> "For the structure that we raise,
> Time is with materials filled;
> Our todays and yesterdays
> Are the blocks with which we build."

Give us strength to build upon Thine eternal Word. We ask it in our Redeemer's name. Amen.

The PRESIDENT. A quorum of the Senate being present, the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. KLINE, the further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

RESOLUTION FAVORING THE CIVIL WAR OFFICERS' LIST.

Mr. SHEATZ, from the Committee on Pensions and Gratuities, reported as committed the following resolution, which was laid over one day under the rules.

Whereas, The Government of the United States in securing volunteers for soldiers for the Civil War of one thousand eight hundred and sixty-one to sixty-five offered "the officers non-commissioned officers and privates organized in the army navy and marine corps shall in all respects be placed on the same footing as to pay and allowances of similar corps of the regular army"

And Whereas, The Congress of the United States passed acts of Congress on the twenty-second day of July one thousand eight hundred and sixty-one and of the third of August one thousand eight hundred and sixty-one and at divers other times embodying and making pledges and promises aforesaid

And Whereas, By the pension laws of the United States passed by the Congress of the United States and in existence and in force at this date there is provision made for the redemption practically of the pledges and promises aforesaid in so far as the non-commissioned officers and privates are concerned mentioned and characterized as such

And Whereas, There has been no provision made for the redemption of the pledges and promises as aforesaid to the officers designated as such in the said act or any other act or acts of Congress contained

Now Therefore by reason of the premises hereinbefore set forth

Be it Resolved (if the Senate concur) That the Legislature of Pennsylvania approve of and recommend the Congress of the United States to pass an act of Congress providing for the institution of a roll designated "The Civil War Officers' Retired List" to be made and kept in the Department of War and the Department of the Navy respectively of the Government of the United States authorizing and directing the placing thereon with retired pay all persons who were organized and served as officers in the army navy and marine corps of the United States respectfully in and during the Civil War of one thousand eight hundred and sixty-one to sixty-five and will embody and provide for the redemption of the pledges and promises in said acts of Congress of one thousand eight hundred and sixty-one and other acts of Congress aforesaid

And be it further Resolved That the above-named Legislature urge and request the members of the United States Senate from the State of Pennsylvania and each and every member of the House of Representatives of the Congress of the United States from Pennsylvania to vote for and in favor of such act of Congress designated in the preceding resolution

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION TO FIX MINIMUM WAGES FOR UNITED STATES ARSENAL EMPLOYES.

Mr. JUDSON, from the Committee on Judiciary General, reported as committed, the following resolution, which was laid over one day under the rules:

Whereas, In the United States Arsenal located at Frankford Philadelphia County Pennsylvania over twelve hundred women and men are employed in the manufacture of ammunition and explosives and

Whereas, The minimum rate of wages paid such women is approximately one dollar to one dollar and ten cents per day and the wages paid such men one dollar and fifty cents per day except where those who work at piece work which said minimum wages by forced work is raised occasionally to one dollar and fifty cents for women and one dollar and seventy-five cents for men and

Whereas, It is eminently proper that the United States Government should take the lead in establishing minimum wage scales for men and women in this country especially for those who are employed on work that is extremely hazardous therefore

Be it Resolved (if the Senate concur) That the President of the United States is respectively urged to recommend to the Congress of the United States as soon as practicable the passage of an act of Congress establishing a minimum rate of wages for employes in the arsenals of the United States of one dollar and fifty cents for women and two dollars for men and

Be it further Resolved That each Senator and member of Congress from the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania be requested to advocate and vote for the passage of any measure so recommended and

Be it Further Resolved That a copy of these resolutions be duly prepared certified and forwarded by the Secretary of the Commonwealth to the President of the United States and to each Senator and member of Congress from this State

Be it Resolved (if the Senate concur) That the Legislature of Pennsylvania approve of and recommend the Congress of the United States to pass an act of Congress providing for the institution of a roll designated "The Civil War fficers' Retired List" to be made and kept in the Department of War and the Department of the Navy respectively of the Government of the United States authorizing and directing the placing thereon with retired pay all persons who were organized and served as officers in the army navy and marine corps of the United States respectfully in and during the Civil War of one thousand eight hundred and sixty-one to sixty-five and will embody and provide for the redemption of the pledges and promises in said acts of Confiress of one thousand eight hundred and sixty-one and other acts of Congress aforesaid

And be it further Resolved That the above-named Legislature urge and request the members of the United States Senate from the State of Pennsylvania and each and every member of the House of Representatives of the Congress of the United States from Pennsylvania to vote for and in favor of such act of Congress designated in the preceding resolution

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the House of Representatives accordingly.

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION TO FIX THE MINIMUM WAGES FOR UNITED STATES ARSENAL EMPLOYES.

Mr. JUDSON. Mr. President, I move that Rule 39 be suspended in order to consider the resolution reported from the Committee on Judiciary General at this morning's session.

Mr. POWELL. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

The resolution was twice read as follows:

Whereas in the United States Arsenal located at Frankford Philadelphia County Pennsylvania over twelve hundred women and men are employed in the manufacture of ammunition and explosives and

Whereas, The minimum rate of wages paid such women is approximately one dollar to one dollar and ten cents per day and the wages paid such men one dollar and fifty cents per day except where those who work at piece work which said minimum wages by forced work is raised occasionally to one dollar and fifty cents for women and one dollar and seventy-five cents for men and

Whereas, It is eminently proper that the United States Government should take the lead in establishing minimum wage scales for men and women in this country especially for those who are employed on work that is extremely hazardous therefore

B it Resolved (If the Senate concur) That the President of the United States is respectively urged to recommend to the Congress of the United States as soon as practicable the passage of an act of Congress establishing a minimum rate of wages for employes in the arsenals of the United States of one dollar and fifty cents for women and two dollars for men and

Be it further Resolved That each Senator and member of Congress from the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania be requested to advocate and vote for the passage of any measure so recommended and

Be it further Resolved That a copy of these resolutions be duly prepared certified and forwarded by the Secretary of the Commonwealth to the President of the United States and to each Senator and member of Congress from this State

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the House of Representatives accordingly.

BILL ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 822, as follows:

An Act requiing property owners or occupiers of property in townships to clean highways and ditches from brush and providing for the work to be done by the township commissioners or supervisors in the event of the neglect or failure of the property owners or occupiers of property so to do and the manner of collecting the cost of the same and providing for penalties in case of failure

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That all owners or occupiers of propert yin the various townships in the Commonwealth shall be required to cut out and clean the highways and ditches adjacent to the said properties from all brush and weeds within fifteen days after having had notice in writing so to do from the township commissioners or supervisors of their said township

Section 2 That upon neglect or failure of said person so notified to so clean the said highway and ditches within the said time then the said township commissioners or supervisors shall proceed to do the said work and charge the cost of the same against the said property with twenty per centum added as a penalty and the said amount shall be a tax charge upon the said land and shall have the same standing against the same and shall be collected the same as road taxes are now by law a charge and are collected

And said bill having been read at length the third time,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

Mr. MARTIN. Mr. President, The bill is objectionable in as much as it requires each individual owner along a public highway to keep the weeds cut down at his own expense, and failing to do this the Supervisor may cause it to be done and add twenty per cent to the cost, and compel by process of law the land owner to pay the expense thereof. This is unfair and unjust, being a double tax against the abutting property owner, as he has only the right of passage over the highway the same as any other user thereof. The cutting of brush and weeds or the removing of any obstruction in the highways should be under the direction of the Supervisor and at the expense of the township and the cost thereof assessed the same as for any other road repairs. It is to my mind altogether wrong to put the power in the hands of the supervisor to compel individuals to go upon the highway and remove brush or any other obstruction. That should be done by the supervisor and he only or under his direction.

Mr. MILLS. Mr. President, this bill provides that the supervisor, if they deem it necessary, shall notify the various property owners along the highways of townships, to clean from the ditches along the road brush and weeds. If the owners do not do so, then the supervisors proceed to do the work and charge it up to the land as taxes. In other words, if the various property owners obey the mandate of the supervisors they relieve themselves of taxation which would fall upon them for having the road properly maintained in front of their premises. The bill was framed and designed at the instance of the supervisors, or some of the supervisors' associations, in some of the Northern tier counties. It is patterned after the law of New York which worked out to very great advantage. It can be presumed that every person owning property in townships faces along some of the highway, and if property owners obey the mandate of the supervisors, then they are relieved of the taxes which are necessarily incurred in cleaning the highways. If they do not do so the supervisors do it and it becomes a part of the land owners' tax. By enacting it the road would be well cleaned and would thereby be much better for the travelling public and for the citizens and townships where the roads are thus treated.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

Mr. MARTIN. Mr. President, I move that the question, together with the further consideration of the bill, be postponed for the present.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

An Act to provide for the election at Fall primaries of delegates to State conventions for the purpose of nominating candidates for the office of Judge of the Supreme and Superior Courts when such office is to be filled at a municipal election

Whereas, It is provided by article eight, section three, of the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania that all Judges elected by the electors of the State at large may be elected at either a general or municipal election as circumstances may require; and,

Whereas, It is provided by section two of the act of February seventeenth, one thousand nine hundred and six (Pamphlet Laws thirty-six) as amended by section one of the act of April sixth, one thousand nine hundred and eleven (Pamphlet Laws forty-three), that candidates for all offices to be filled at the municipal election shall be nominated at the Fall Primary, and

Whereas, It is provided by section twelve of said act of February seventeenth one thousand nine hundred and six as amended by section one of the act of May twenty-second one thousand nine hundred and seven (Pamphlet Laws one hundred and ninety-nine) that candidates for offices of the Commonwealth to be voted for by electors of the State at large shall be nominated by State Conventions; and,

Whereas, There is no provision under existing laws for the election of delegates to State Conventions for the nomination of candidates for offices to be filled at municipal elections; therefore,

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by authority of the same That whenever a judge of the Supreme or Superior Courts is to be elected at a municipal election any party or body of electors one of whose candidates at either the general or municipal election preceding polled two per centum of the largest entire vote cast in the State for any candidate at the last general election may at the Fall Primary preceding such municipal election elect delegates to a State Convention to be held not later than ten days after the primary for the purpose of nominating candidates for the office of Judge of the Supreme or Superior Courts to be voted for at said municipal election The said election of delegates shall be conducted in accordance with existing laws regulating the election of delegates to other State Conventions except as herein modified

Section 2 Conventions composed of delegates elected in accordance with the provisions of this act may nominate candidates for the office of Judge of the Supreme and Superior Courts to be filled at the succeeding municipal election in the manner provided by existing laws for the nomination of candidates by State Conventions

Section 3 Certificates of nomination by such conventions shall be filed with the Secretary of the Commonwealth at least twenty-one days before the date of such election and when so filed shall be deemed valid unless objections thereto are duly made as now provided by law at least eighteen days before the date of election

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to,

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in committee of the whole being in this case dispensed with,

The Senate proceeded to the second reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 458, as follows:

An Act to provide for the registration and enrollment of the voters of the State according to their respective party preferences fixing the compensation of registry assessors for making said registration and enrollment and prescribing penalties for false registration or enrollment and for voters voting or attempting to vote and for election officers permitting or conspiring to permit them to vote at a primary by or on any other than their own party ticket

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by authority of the same That at each and every registration of voters held under any of the election and registration laws of this State whether it is a personal registration or otherwise and in all cities counties boroughs townships and all other districts there shall be a registration and enrollment of the voters according to their respective party preferences and affiliations

Section 2 In all election districts where personal registration is required any elector desiring to participate in the primaries of any party shall at the time of registration state under oath to the registering officers the name of the party of which he is a member and whose ballot he desires to vote at the primaries and it shall then be the duty of the proper registering officers to write the name of such party opposite the name of the elector on the registration list in a column which it is hereby made the duty of the Registration Commissioners to provide in the registration books for that purpose If any elector about to register and enroll as a member of the party is challenged he shall not be registered as a member of that party unless he makes oath before the said registrars that at the last preceding November election at which he voted he voted for a majority of the candidates of that party Provided however That each Presidential elector shall be counted as one candidate and Provided further That any qualified elector may enroll as a member of any party which has secured by order of the court of common pleas of Dauphin county the exclusive use of a party name or political appellation for the ensuing primary If a voter does not desire to vote at a primary election he shall not be required to answer as to his party affiliations or merbership and such party affiliation or membership shall not be recorded

When an elector registers his political party at the fall registration he may vote the ballot of that party at the succeeding fall and spring primary Should he change his political affiliation by voting for a majority of candidates of some other party at the November election and desire to change his party vote at the spring primary he may appear before the registrars of his division at the spring registration and upon taking oath that at the preceding November election he voted for a majority of candidates of some other party it shall be the duty of the registrars to change his political designation on the register and if otherwise qualified may vote the ballot of the said party at the spring primary Any elector who has registered at the fall registration but did not designate his political party may appear before the registrars of his division at the spring registration and under oath designate the party of which he is a member and for whom he desires to vote at the ensuing spring primary provided he takes oath if challenged that at the last preceding November election at which he voted he voted for a majority of candidates of that party and if otherwise qualified he may vote the ballot of said party at the spring primary Provided however That each Presidential elector shall be counted as one candidate and Provided further That any qualified elector may enroll as a member of any party which has secured by order of the court of common pleas of Dauphin county the exclusive use of a party name or political appellation for the ensuing primary

Section 3 In all election districts (other than in cities of the first second and third classes) the registry assessor shall within forty-five days after the approval of this act make an enrollment of each voter residing within the district in which he is authorized to make an assessment and registration of voters and thereafter during the month of May in each year he shall in addition to the duties now authorized and required by law make an annual enrollment of all the voters in his district Said registry assessor shall leave at the residence of each and every voter in his district a certificate of enrollment which shall be in the following form

Certificate of Enrollment

Date ..... 191....

I ..... a duly qualified voter residing in ..... election district hereby declare that I desire to be enrolled as a member of the ..... party and express my desire to vote the ticket of the ..... party at the ..... primary election next ensuing and request that my name be enrolled on the assessor's list as a member of said party for the purpose of participating in said primary or primaries

.....
(Signature of Elector)

Witness .....

.....
(Address)

The above certificate of enrollment shall be furnished to each assessor by the county commissioners of the various counties at the time of the delivery of said assessor's books by the county commissioners

Section 4 The voter may fill out and give to the assessor the certificate of enrollment when presented by the assessor at the time of making the annual enrollment or present the same at some time prior to or on the sixty-second or sixty-third day preceding each primary at which time said assessor shall sit at the polling place to receive said certificates

Section 5 The county commssioners shall have the register so prepared as to permit the assessor to insert the party enrollment of each voter Upon the receipt of the certificate of enrollment from the voter the assessor shall insert in the register after said voters name his party enrollment Each voter desiring to participate in the primaries must file with the assessor his enrollment certificate If a voter does not desire to vote at a primary election he shall not be required to sign or execute the above certificate as to his party affiliation or membership and such party affiliation shall not be recorded

Section 6 If any voter enrolled as a member of a party is challenged at the primaries as to his party enrollment he shall make oath before the election officers that at the last preceding November election at which he voted he voted for a majority of the candidates of that party Provided however that each presidential elector shall be counted as one candidate

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to,

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in committee of the whole being in this case dispensed with,

The Senate proceeded to the second reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 890 (House Bill No. 696), as follows:

An Act providing and requiring standard provision in policies of health or accident or accident and health insurance issued or delivered in this Commonwealth prohibiting discrimination in such insurance exempting certain contracts and fixing penalties for violation of this act

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That on and after the first day of January one thousand nine hundred and fourteen no policy of insurance against loss from sickness or loss or damage from bodily injury or death of the insured by accident shall be issued or delivered to any person in this Commonwealth until a copy of the form thereof and of the classification of risks and the premium rates pertaining thereto have been filed with the Insurance Commissioner nor shall it be so issued or delivered until the expiration of thirty days after it has been so filed unless the said Commissioner shall sooner give his written approval thereto If the said Commissioner shall notify in writing the company corporation association society or other insurer which has filed such form that it does not comply with the requirements of law specifying the reasons for his opinion it shall be unlawful thereafter for any such insurer to issue any policy in such form The action of the said Commoissioner in this regard shall be subject to review by the court of Common Pleas of Dauphin county

Section 2 No such policy shall be issued or delivered except subject to the following conditions (1) unless the entire money and other consideration therefore are expressed in the policy nor (2) unless the time at which the insurance thereunder takes effect and terminates is stated in a portion of the policy preceding its execution by the insurer nor (3) if the policy purports to insure more than one person nor (4) unless every printed portion thereof and of any indorsements or attached papers shall be plainly printed in type of which the face shall be not smaller than ten point or (5) unless a brief description thereof be printed on its first page and on its filing back in type of which the face shall be not smaller than fourteen point nor (6) unless the exceptions of the policy be printed with the same prominence as the benefits to which they apply Provided however That any portion of such policy which purports by reason of the circumstances under which a loss is incurred to reduce any indemnity promised therein to an amount less than that provided for the same loss occurring under ordinary circumstances shall be printed in bold face type and with greater prominence than any other portion of the text of the policy

Section 3 Every such policy so issued shall contain certain standard provisions which shall be in the words and in the order hereinafter set forth and be preceded in every policy by the caption "Standard Provisions" In each such standard provisions wherever the word "Insurer" is used there shall be substituted therefor "company" or "corporation" or "association" or "society" or such other word as will properly designate to the insurer Said standard provision shall be

(1) A standard provision relative to the contract which may be in either of the following two forms Form (A) to be used in policies which do not provide for reduction of indemnity on account of change of occupation and Form (B) to be used in policies which do so provide If Form (B is used and the policy provides indemnity against loss from sickness the words "or contracts sickness" may be inserted therein immediately after the words "in the event that the insured is injured"

(a) 1 This policy includes the endorsements and attached papers if any and contains the entire contract of insurance No reduction shall be made in any indemnity herein provided by reason of change in the occupation of the insured or by reason of his doing any act or thing pertaining to any other occupation

(b) 1 This policy includes the endorsement and attached papers if any and contains the entire contract of insurance except as it may be modified by the insurer's classification of risks and premium rates in the event that the insured is injured after having changed his occupation to one classified by the insurer as more hazardous than that stated in the policy or while he is doing any act or thing pertaining to any occupation so classified except ordinary duties about his residence or while engaged in receration in which event the insurer will pay only such portion of the indemnities provided in the policy as the premium paid would have purchased at the rate but within the limits so fixed by the insurer for such more hazardous occupation

If the law of the State in which the insured resides at the time this policy is issued required that prior to its issue a statement of the premium rates and classification of risks pertaining to it shall be filed with the State official having supervision of insurance in such State then the premium rates and classification of risks mentioned in this policy shall mean only such as have been last filed by the insurer in accordance with such law but if such filing is not required by such law then they shall mean the insurer's premium rates and classification of risks last made effective by it in such state prior to the occurrence of the loss for which the insurer is liable ..

(2) A standard provision relative to changes in the contract which shall be in the following form

2 No statement made by the applicant for insurance not included herein shall be avoid the policy or be used in any legal proceeding hereunder No agent has authority to change this policy or to waive any of its provisions No change in this policy shall be valid unless approved by an executive officer of the insurer and such approval be endorsed hereon

(3) A standard provisions relative to reinstatement of policy after lapse which may be in either of the three following forms Form (A) to be used in policies which insure only against loss from accident Form (B) to be used in policies which insure only against loss from sickness and Form (C) to be used in policies which insure against loss from both accident and sickness

(A) 3 If default be made in the payment of the agreed premium for this policy the subsequent acceptance of a premium by the insurer or by any of its duly authorized agents shall reinstate the policy but only to cover loss resulting from accidental injury thereafter sustained

(B) 3 If default be made in the payment of the agreed premium for this policy the subsequent acceptance of a premium by the insurer or by any of its duly authorized agents shall reinstate the policy but only to cover such sickness as may begin more than ten days after the date of such acceptance

(C) 3 If default be made in the payment of the agreed premium for this policy the subsequent acceptance of a premium by the insurer or by any of its duly authorized agents shall reinstate the policy but only to cover accidental injury thereafter sustained and such sickness as may begin more than ten days after the date of such acceptance

(4) A standard provision relative to time of notice of claim which may be in either of the three following forms Form (A) to be used in policies which insure only against loss from accident Form (B) to be used in policies which insure only against loss from sickness and Form (C) to be used in policies which insure against loss from both accident and sickness If Form (A) or Form (C) is used the insurer may at its option add thereto the following sentence "In event of accidental death immediate notice thereof must be given to the insurer"

(A)—4 Written notice of injury on which claim may be based must be given to the insurer within twenty days after the date of the accident causing such injury

(B)—4 Written notice of sickness on which claim may be based must be given to the insurer within ten days after the commencement of the disability from such sickness

(C)—4 Written notice of injury or of sickness on which claim may be based must be given to the insurer within twenty days after the date of the accident causing such injury or within ten days after the commencement of disability from such sickness

(5) A standard provision relative to sufficiency of notice of claim which shall be in the following form and in which the insurer shall insert in the blank space such office and its location as it may desire to designate for such purpose of notice

5 Such notice given by or in behalf of the insured or beneficiary as the case may be to the insurer at..... or to any authorized agent of the insurer with particulars sufficient to identify the insured shall be deemed to be notice to the insurer Failure to give notice within the time provided in this policy shall not invalidate any claim if it shall be shown not to have been reasonably possible to give such notice and that notice was given as soon as was reasonably possible

(6) A standard provision relative to furnishing forms for the convenience of the insured in submitting proof of loss as follows

6 The insurer upon receipt of such notice will furnish to the claimant such forms as are usually furnished by it for filing proofs of loss If such forms are not so furnished within fifteen days after the receipt of such notice the claimant shall be deemed to have complied with the requirements of this policy as to proof of loss upon submitting within the time fixed in the policy for filing proofs of loss written proof covering the occurrence character and extent of the loss for whch claim is made

(7) A standard provision relative to filing proof of loss which shall be in such one of the following forms as may be appropriate to the indemnities provided

(A)—7 Affirmative proof of loss must be furnished to the insurer at its said office within ninety days after the date of the loss for which claim is made

(B)—7 Affirmative proof of loss must be furnished to the insurer at its said office within ninety days after the termination of the period of disability for which the company is liable

The first section of the bill was read as follows:

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That section one of an act entitled "An Act to authorize county commissioners for the purpose of encouraging agriculture and the holding of county agricultural exhibitions to pay annually one thousand dollars to the incorporated agricultural associations paying premiums on agricultural exhibits holding an annual exhibition in the county providing for the filing of sworn statement by the claimant or claimants with the county commissioners relative to said exhibition and providing for the repayment to the county by the State of the sum so paid" approved the thirteenth day of June Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred and seven which reads as follows

"Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That the board of county commissioners of the several counties of this Commonwealth for the purpose of encouraging agriculture and the holding of annual exhibitions of farm products are authorized and shall pay annually by warrant drawn upon the county treasurer the sum of one thousand dollars ($1,000) to the incorporated County Agricultural Association paying premiums upon exhibits (exclusive of premiums on trials of speed) holding in their county an annual agricultural exhibition in the interests of stock-raising grain poultry handiwork fruits dairy products et cetera for a period of not less than four consecutive days upon the filing with the county commissioners of a sworn statement as provided for in section two of this act Provided That in case there is more than one claimant in any one year for said fund the county commissioners shall apportion and divide said one thousand dollars among the several claimants acording to the amount of premiums on agriculture stock fruit and other exhibits (exclusive of premiums on speed) actually paid by each claimant at the last fair held by said claimant Provided said claimants or associations shall each pay in premiums a sum equal to the said one thousand dollars or where two associations claim and receive five hundred dollars they shall severally pay a like sum in premiums or only receive under this act the sum they each and severally pay in premiums Provided further That all premiums paid under this act shall be only products of the county wherein such exhibition is held" be and the same is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That the board of county commissioners of the several counties of this Commonwealth for the purpose of encouraging agriculture and the holding of annual exhibitions of farm products are authorized and shall pay annually by warrant drawn upon the county treasurer the sum of one thousand dollars ($1,000) to the incorporated County Agricultural Association paying premiums upon exhibits (exclusive of premiums on trials of speed of horses and automobiles) holding in their county an annual agricultural exhibition in the interests of stock-raising grain poultry handiwork fruits dairy products et cetera for a period of not less than three consecutive days upon the filing with the county commissioners of a sworn statement as provided for in section two of this act Provided That in case there is more than one claimant in any year for said fund the county commissioners shall apportion and divide said one thousand dollars among the several claimants according to the amount of premiums on agriculture stock fruit and other exhibits (exclusive of premiums on trials of speed of horses and automobiles) actually paid by each claimant at the last fair held by said claimant Provided said claimants or associations shall each pay in premiums a sum equal to the said one thousand dollars or where two associations claim and receive five hundred dollars they shall severally pay a like sum in premiums or only receive under this act the sum they each and severally pay in premiums Provided further That where two counties are contiguous and one of said counties has not complied with the provisions of this act by organizing an incorporated agricultural association and is not holding an annual agricultural exhibition the county commissioners of the county in which no agricultural exhibition is being held under the provisions of this act upon petition presented to them containing the signatures of not less than one hundred citizens of said county engaged in the business of agriculture asking to be joined to such contiguous county holding such agricultural exhibition under the provisions of this act that their county desires to participate in annual agricultural exhibitions to be held in such contiguous county where such exhibitions are being held and thereupon notice thereof shall be given to the president of any and all such incorporated agricultural associations organized under the provisions of this act and existing in the county where application has been made and the citizens of such county shall be permitted to enter their exhibits and contest for premiums as fully as though they were citizens of said county

And provided further That the money which would under the provisions of this act have been paid to the county so applying had said county organized a separate incorporated agricultural association as provided in this act and hold annual agricultural exhibits therein shall be paid to the county in which said agricultural exhibitions are held in the same manner as provided in this act so that the county in which such agricultural exhibition is held shall receive two thousand dollars instead of one thousand dollars now provided by law

And provided further That all premiums under this act shall be only upon the products of the county or counties in which said exhibition is held or where two counties have joined under the provisions of this act the premiums paid under the provisions of this act shall be paid in like manner as though the citizens of the county not holding an annual agricultural exhibition but who have availed themselves of the provisions of this act by joining shall be paid their premiums awarded as fully as though they were citizens of the county in which said exhibition is held

And provided further That any county so joined may withdraw at any time by giving ninety days notice in writing to the commissioners of the county in which said exhibition is held said notice shall contain the statement that the county heretofore joined has organized a separate incorporated agricultural association as provided for by this act and desires to avail itself of the benefit of this act said notice to contain the official signatures of the proper board of county commissioners and shall be filed with the board of county commissioners of the county in which said annual agricultural exhibitions are held

Provided further That any county not having any incorporated agricultural association lies contigious to two counties having one or more incorporated agricultural associations holding annual agricultural exhibitions under the provisions of this act the county commissioners of the county may upon presentation of a petition signed by not less than two hundred citizens of said county engaged in the business of agriculture divide said county in such manner as nearly as may be in two parts of equal territorial area and each of said sub-divisions shall in like manner be joined to the nearest contigious county in the same manner provided for in this section of this act where an entire county is joined to a contigious county

And provided further That in the event of such sub-division the appropriation provided for in this section shall be divided equally between the said two contigious counties holding such agricultural exhibitions said appropriation to be distributed in like manner as provided for where an entire county is joined to a contigious county

And it is further provided That no agricultural association hereafter organized under the provisions of this act in any county of this Commonwealth shall be entitled to any proportion of the appropriation provided for in this act until such time as said agricultural association incorporated under the provisions of this act shall have held agricultural exhibitions as provided for in this section for at least two consecutive and immediately preceding years

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the section?

The SPEAKER (George E. Alter) in the Chair.

The Chaplain, Rev. J. E. Wright, offered the following prayer:

O God, we come before Thee this morning, thankful for the rest of the night, glad that we are in the enjoyment of health and strength; hopeful that with the new opportunities of this new day we shall be enabled to render some efficient, helpful service. Condition us in every particular for the work of this day, in body, mind and spirit; in disposition and temper; in desire and purpose. Let us not shirk our duties or shrink from our responsibilities nor belittle in any way the work which is assigned to us. May we be brave and fearless, strong and true, hopeful and cheerful and, above all, faithful.

Wilt Thou bless our nation and our State; the President of the nation and the Governor of the State; the Congress, with its perplexing problems and the various Legislatures, and especially this Legislature; and grant, dear Lord, that whatever we do may be done with an eye to Thine honor and to the welfare of the people whom we are trying to serve, through Jesus Christ, our Lord. Amen.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the Journal of yesterday's proceedings.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative. the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Mr. JOHN ROBERT JONES. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up at this time, House Bill No. 117, file folio 6489, on page 22 of to-day's calendar, bills on third reading postponed.

BILLS ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House resumed the consideration on third reading of H. R. bill No. 117, entitled:

An Act to regulate nominations and elections for certain public offices providing for non-partisan nominations and elections for said offices abolishing existing methods of nomination in certain cases and the use of party or political names or applications at elections with respect to said offices imposing certain duties upon the Secretary of the Commonwealth Auditor General State Treasurer county commissioners county treasurer election officers and clerks and the clerks or secretaries of cities boroughs townships and school districts vesting the courts of common pleas with certain powers duties and jurisdiction providing for the payment by the several counties and their reimbursement by the State of certain expenses incident to such nominations and elections and providing penalties for the violation of the provisions hereof and the punishment of certain offenses

The question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. JOHN ROBERT JONES. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to offer an amendment.

The SPEAKER. The amendment will be read by the Clerk.

The Clerk then read the amendment as follows:

Amend Section 19, page 19, by striking out all after the word "principle" in line 18 down to and including the word "election" in line 29.

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to the insertion of the amendment? Is there any objection? The Chair hears none and the amendment will be inserted in accordance with the instructions of the House.

The question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. JOHN ROBERT JONES. Mr. Speaker, this bill is what is known as the non-partisan primary and election bill. The bill has been on the calendar for some length of time. I do not wish to tire the House, Mr. Speaker, by going into the full details of the bill but I will state the principle involved and the officers to which this bill is applicable. The bill applies solely to municipal elections and the office of judge, whether such judge be nominated or elected at the municipal or general election. The principle involved in the bill is that the officers chosen in a municipal election and for the office of judge are such officers as should be removed as far as possible from party lines. As a result of the differentiation between the parties in this State and Nation, there is involved into every election party questions which should have no bearing upon the election of such officers. On the question of the selection of judges, it is needless to say that the judge should be removed as far as possible from political affiliations so far as affecting his nomination and election. He should be chosen solely upon his qualifications and fitness for the place. Unless there be any further discussion I will not take up your time; the principle being plain and the bill carefully drafted by the Republican Legislative and Executive Committee. It follows out the line of recommendation contained in the message of the Governor to the General Assembly, wherein he states the following:

"I have long entertained the belief that the nomination and election of municipal and county officers, and especially of the Judges, should be non-partisan, and I therefore recommend that our election laws be amended so as to provide for the nomination of such officers at non-partisan primary elections and their subsequent election upon a non-partisan ballot." I ask therefore the support of every member in this House for this bill.

The question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question.

Shall the bill pass finally?

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative. the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Mr. JOHN ROBERT JONES. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up at this time, House Bill No. 93, file folio 6423, on page 22, of to-day's calendar, bills on third reading postponed for the present.

Agreeably to order,

The House resumed the consideration on third reading of H. R. bill No. 93, entitled:

An Act to regulate political campaigns at and prior to elections and primaries enacting for such purpose provisions amongst other to regulate election and primary expenses and contributions therefor to regulate campaign practices and the solicitation of anything of value from candidates and others engaged in campaigns or in the public service and to regulate political advertising and the publication of political matter to limit the amount of election expenses and the objects for which and the persons by whom such expenses may be incurred to regulate political committees and the rendering of bills for campaign expenses and the keeping and filing of campaign accounts to impose duties on the Secretary of the Commonwealth district attorneys county commissioners clerks of courts and their respective subordinates to regulate investigations of election practices and to provide for the payment of costs and certain expenses of parties thereto out of public treasuries in certain instances to vest certain courts with jurisdiction to annul certain elections and nominations to certify their findings as to other elections and nominations and to authorize the incurring of election expenses in certain instances to regulate the procedure on exceptions to campaign accounts to provide penalties for the violation of this act and to repeal inconsistent legislation

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. JOHN ROBERT JONES. Mr. Speaker, this bill is what is known as the "Corrupt Practices Act." For the information of the House, there being considerable interest in all these election measures, I will state that I am sponsor of this bill, it having been drafted and prepared by the Legislative and Executive Committee of the Republican party, and fulfills one of the pledges of that party: The platform contains the following declaration as to legislative pledged:—

"A bill defining by whom and the purposes for which money may be contributed or spent in any general or primary election, limiting the total expenditure and requiring full accounting at public audit and such amendments to the election laws as shall guarantee the freedom of said elections from fraud, coercion and undue influence."

There is no question, Mr. Speaker, but that the use of money in election is the greatest source of corruption, and this bill aims, so far as it is possible, to govern the expenditure of money and remove corruption from politics. It will take away that undue advantage which any man of great wealth may have by reason of his unlimited amount of money. It will also afford an opportunity to other men who have not unlimited means, of becoming candidates to the different offices, and will allow him to enter the fight upon a fair and even basis with the men who are wealthy. The following from the introductory vote of the Legislative and Executive Committee gives a clear exposition of the purpose of this legislation:

"It must be admitted by those familiar with out elections, both primary and general, that the Corrupt Practices Act of 1906 has largely failed to accomplish that which was intended at the time of its passage. The Act has neither afforded a check to the growing use of money in politics, nor has it worked to prevent many vicious election practices. Indeed it might be safely said that certain provisions, notably those relating to watchers and the dissemination of information, have served as a mere cloak for the purchase of votes.

The bill presented herewith aims to strike down the indirect corruption of the franchise, not only in forbidding many expenditures heretofore allowed, but by fixing a total of the amount that any candidate may spend or that maybe spent in his behalf, and also by requiring a strict accounting and a certificate of right before office may be taken.

The purposes for which money may be spent are explicitly defined and the expenditure of all necessary amounts to conduct an honest campaign is permitted. An effort is made to place the candidate with meager resources on somewhat of an equal footing with an opponent having money or the backing of people with money.

The bill does not simply undertake to regulate the compaign practices of candidates alone. The receipt of contributions from unauthorized sources is forbidden; no corporation and no business concern, whether holding a special privilege or not, is permitted to contribute. The receipt of contributions from sources outside of the State is forbidden, and no public employees, except when candidates themselves, are permitted to make contributions. The bill furthermore seeks to put an end to the constant demands upon candidates to patronize entertainments, balls, programs and a great variety of schemes, of ten times projected merely to make money out of the candidate for office. All political matter published in any newspaper and paid for, whether by the candidate or not, must be clearly marked as paid advertisement."

A ready means is provided for the purpose of contesting the accuracy of all accounts of expenditures Where the contestant establishes a substantial violation of the act, the candidate loses the office to which he may have been elected."

I bespeak for this bill the support of the House.

Mr. JOHN R. K. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, this bill should have the support of every Republican in this House. It should have the support of every Republican in the House who is known as a strict party man. The element that was in the bill that was objectionable was that portion which refers to the sending out of the advertising by the State Department and has been eliminated, and the bill is simply down to the position of limiting the amount of money that can be contributed by various candidates for their various expenses and prohibiting contributions by certain interests for campaign purposes. The importance of this bill from a party standpoint is indeed very wide. No party can last long unless it is placed upon the very strong foundation of having no fraud at its bottom. This bill goes to the very root of the tree; this bill, if it is fully carried out—if its purposes are fully carried out by the various parties will eliminate from party politics that which has brought discredit upon us in years past. It will eliminate, to a great extent, fraud at the polls; it will eliminate improper influence that has found its way into various legislative branches. If we have no improper use of money—if we have no improper contribution of money, then the election will indeed be free and the people will shall be freely expressed and it will not only be beneficial to the people in the broad sense but it will be beneficial to those of us who give our attention to party politics. The very best thing that a party can do is to pass a bill of this character because it will bring back to the party which is the dominant party in this House those members who have left us in the past. Mr. Speaker, I dare say that this bill will pass with very little opposition from the House; it is so important that it will pass not only this branch but the higher branch of the Legislature and become enacted on our statute books.

Mr. HOBBS. Mr. Speaker, this bill is one of great importance, and I would say that it ought to be voted on affirmatively by every member of this House, regardless of his party affiliation. Two years ago, I was sponsor for a bill limiting campaign expenses of any candidate of this Commonwealth, and that bill was ridiculed by many members of this body. I am glad that progress is very prominent in this House and that the members of this session are ready to take up a measure of this kind and favor it who were opposed to it two years ago. This bill ought to be passed unanimously because it stands for honest politics and good government.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken, and were as follows, viz:

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, that the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House resumed the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 574, entitled:

An Act to amend an act approved the third day of June one thousand nine hundred and eleven entitled "An Act providing for the election of commissioners of townships of the first class of this Commonwealth and the filling of vacancies in the office of township treasurer and township commissioner in said townships" and repealing the second section of the act

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass?

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to call the House's attention to the provisions of this bill. In 1911 we passed an Act that applied to townships of the first class, providing for their election on the principal that we elect the members to the House and to the Senate. We divided the State up into representative districts, senatorial districts, judicial districts and congressional districts. Prior to 1911, in townships of the first class, all of the commissioners could be elected from any one locality in the township. Under the Act of 1911 it provides that one commissioner shall come from each of the different election districts of the township. If there be more commissioners than there be election districts, then the remaining number shall be elected at large. The provisions of this amended bill that you are now asked to pass mean going back to the old system of electing them all at large. No member of the House would stand for that principle as applied to the State Legislature nor the State Senate, nor the Congressional or Judicial Districts. If you do not believe it correct to elect all of these at large, you certainly must be opposed to this bill now pending. By experience we find it is very much better that members from different sections of townships of the first class shall be elected so that each and every section of the township shall have representation on the board of township commissioners. I think it is a great mistake to pass this bill and change the present law.

Mr. CONNIFF. Mr. Speaker, as the gentlemen from Delware has stated to you the Act of 1911 provides that the township commissioners shall be elected from each election district. After a trial of two years these twonships of the first class have found that this method is a mistake, for this reason: In some townships there are as many as nine, ten and eleven election districts, therefore it is required that eleven men be elected to the office of township commissioner, in order to govern those small municipalities, and it often happens that in election district a commissioner may have a sufficient number of relatives in that election district to elect him to the office of commissioner without regard as to his efficiency or fitness to govern the affairs of the township. Now, we maintain that if five commissioners are elected at large, throughout the township, then efficient men will be elected.

One of the arguments advanced while the School Code was being considered was to the effect that the election of school directors from wards brought to the school board inefficient men and that such a method should be eliminated; consequently, the School Code now provides that the school directors should be elected at large, and we have found no fault with that system, therefore this bill only asks for that same system as is provided in the Code, that the commissioners shall be elected at large. There is only one purpose for this, gentlemen, and that is to get from these townships the best men in the townships to govern those municipalities.
